R. W. Beeson and wife of Red Oak, spent Christmas with his brother, Allen Beeson and family of this city.

George Young, a graduate of the Omaha deaf and dumb institute, is in the city on a visit with old-time friends.

Mrs. Whittier and daughter-in-law of Red Oak, are in the city the guests of the formers brother, H. J. Streight and family.

Dr. Frank D. Burgess and wife will return to Cedar Rapids, Neb., on Saturday after a pleasant visit here with their parents.

Mrs. Joe Neely of Plattsmouth has been visiting with her brother-in-law, Dr. J. M. Neeley, and mother, the past week.—Elmwood Leader.

James Tucker, the traveling man from St. Joe, who weighs 335 pounds, was in town today. He looks like August Gorder only more so.

Judge Archer is not very busy with law breakers, but he filed eight new civil cases this week which is certainly a lively closing of the year '97.

We regret to learn that Fred Stull is dangerously ill at his home northwest of town with pneumonia. But slight hopes for his recovery are entertained.

Mrs. George Dovey will entertain a large company of invited guests tomorrow evening in honor of Mr. Hull and his mother, who are visiting her from New York.

Mike McAndrews, a member of the B. & M. section force here it is said, will be promoted to the place made vacant by the death of Foreman English of South Bend, by Roadmaster O'Donnell.

If the sender of a neat paper knife through the mail to Geo. Guild will designate which George Guild is meant, a favor will be conferred, as neither of the two boys in town by that name know who the present was for.

Asher Clark has a new coal oil can that must be seen to be appreciated. The pump acts as a measure and is absolutely correct so that only a stroke and your can is filled. It is one of the latest cans made and sells to merchants on sight.

The bright warm sunshine has been making rapid inroads on the snow and ice today. No farther than Lincoln and Hamburgh it is said no snow is visible, yet sleighing was good here up to 10 o'clock this morning. The bulk of the ice has been harvested yet quite a number of teams are seen hurrying along with their crystal loads today.

As. Wills, Cass county's biggest cattle feeder, says he has 500 head of cattle in his feed lot now that are the nicest bunch of that number he ever saw. The weather has been very favorable for feeders and Mr. Wills says the corn at 20c this year is cheaper than 15c last year as it will put on that much more fat. From other farmers we learn that cattle being fed in this county never did any better than they have this fall.

THURSDAY.

Col. Green of the Journal was an Omaha visitor this morning.

Ned Baker will spend New Year's day with his daughter in Omaha.

Miss Nettie Waybright departed this morning for Edson, Neb., to attend a wedding.

George Larue and George Grimes of Union are in town today on business with the county judge.

John Chalfant and Wes. Wolfe of Union, were in town today and made THE NEWS office a pleasant visit.

Dr. Dailey, the eminent occulist and optician with Dr. Seymour of Omaha, arrived this morning for a three days' visit at the Riley.

Dr. Shipman is certainly doing a rushing business. Many of our best people are consulting him and his rooms are crowded with patients during office hours.

T. Frank Wiles has removed his law office into the room over Schiappecasses' store, where he will be glad to meet old friends and cultivate the acquaintance of new ones.

S. E. Hall & Son's store building on Sixth and Pearl streets started to gradually sink lower into the ground yesterday, and a force of men are engaged today raising the structure to its former position.

Charles Graves, the Union attorney, was in the city on legal business today. Charley has built up a law practice that beats editing a country newspaper and he expresses no desire to return to the newspaper fold.

Ed Fitzgerald has a new vehicle for winter weather that ought to be called the Klondike. It is a tightly closed omnibus with rear door and windows. It isn't pretty as a barouche, but its more comfortable for zero weather.

Milton Wolfe, son ex-Commissioner Henry Wolfe, died at his home in Union of kidney trouble after an illness of several months, on Monday, December 20. The deceased was one of the earliest settlers in this county and had a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Nebraska weather clerks should be ashamed of themselves if they are responsible for the rain fall of today. This might do in Kansas, but for Nebraska it is n. g., and the less we have the better for the climatic reputation of the state.

The warm weather which has been prevailing in these parts for the last two days has put a stop to sleighing for the time being, at least. Fortunately, the ice men are about through with the ice harvest, and they have nothing to fear from the return of warm weather.

A friend of the family was our authority for the statement in last evening's NEWS that Mrs. Dovey would entertain a large party of friends at their home this evening. It seems that only a half dozen near friends are to be present, and the affair is quite informal. Our informant was mistaken.

H. D. Travis, president of the Plattsmouth school board, presided yesterday at the state meeting of school boards held in Lincoln, in connection with the state teachers' association. At the superintendents' meeting Professor Farley made a strong argument in favor of better organization, and Cass county teachers were heard from in their department. Cass county was largely in evidence.

Jacob Jacobsen, a carpenter employed in the freight-car department of the B. & M. shops, met with an accident yesterday. He was holding a piece of lumber in his left hand and running a plane over it with his right, when in some way his fingers relaxed their hold on the sides of the board and came in contact with the blade of the plane. As a result, Mr. Jacobsen is minus the tips of two fingers. Dr. T. P. Livingston dressed the injured members, and Jacob is working again today as usual.

Fortune in Onyx Mine.

PRINGLE, S. D., Dec 26.—E. Bowker, a conductor on the Burlington, has a fortune in an onyx mine near this city. Samples which have been sent to Philadelphia, Chicago and other eastern places for examination by experts have been pronounced genuine onyx and especially valuable, being of light color. The mine contains all shades, from black to light gray, and there are great quantities of it.

Don't be persuaded into buying liniments without reputation or merit—Chamberlain's Pain Balm costs no more, and its merits have been proven by a test of many years. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Bagley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by all druggist

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

A few weeks ago the editor was taken with a very severe cold that caused him to be in a most miserable condition. It was undoubtedly a bad case of la grippe, and recognizing it as dangerous he took immediate steps to bring about a speedy cure. From the advertisement of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the many good recommendations included therein, we concluded to make a first trial of the medicine. To say that it was satisfactory in its results, is put it very mildly, indeed. It acted like magic and the result was a speedy and permanent cure. We have no hesitancy in recommending this excellent Cough Remedy to anyone afflicted with a cough or cold in any form. The Banner of Liberty, Libertytown, Maryland. THE BLACK PRINCE'S ARMY.

The Largest English Fleet Ever Assembled Took the Soldiers to France.

Mr. W. O. Stoddard's serial, "With the Black Prince," gives in St. Nicholas an account of the splendid army that accompanied the prince to the battle of Crecy. Mr. Stoddard says:

It was the largest English fleet yet assembled, and the army going on board was also the best with which any English king had ever put to sea. It consisted of picked men only. Of these, 4,000 were men-at-arms, 6,000 were Irish, 12,000 were Welsh, but the most carefully trained and disciplined part of the force consisted of 10,000 bowmen. During a whole year had Edward and his son and his generals toiled to select and prepare the men and the weapons with which they were to meet the highly famed chivalry of the continent. An army selected from a nation of perhaps 4,000,000 of people was to contend with an army collected from France with her 20,000,000, and from such allies of hers as Germany and Bohemia, re-enforced by large numbers of paid mercenaries. Among these latter were the crossbowmen of Genoa sold to Philip by the masters of that Italian oligarchy.

Edward's adventure had a seeming of great rashness, for already it was reported that the French king had mustered 100,000 men. Full many a gallant cavalier in armor of proof may well have wondered to hear, moreover, that Edward III, accounted the foremost general of his time, proposed to meet superior numbers of the best lances of Europe with lightly armored men on foot. They knew not yet of the new era that was dawning upon the science of war. Edward and his bowmen were to teach the world more than one new lesson before that memorable campaign was over. Before this he had shown what deeds might be wrought upon the sea by ships prepared and manned and led by himself. He had so crippled the naval power of his enemies that there was now no hostile fleet strong enough to prevent his present undertaking, although Philip had managed to send out some scores of cruisers to do whatever harm they could.

FRIGHTENED AWAY.

The First Man He Met In the Alaska Goldfields Scared Him Off.

"No," said a man who was sitting on a box in front of a grocery store, "I can't say as I know very much about Alaska."

His companions looked at him in astonishment. It was the first time he had ever admitted not knowing much about anything.

"I reckon, then, that you're not thinking about going to dig for gold," said one bystander.

"No."

"Mebbe, though, as the stories of sudden wealth keep pouring in you'll change your mind," said another.

"It won't be possible. I've been there."

"And came back without getting rich?"

"Yes. I didn't much more than cross the boundary line before I turned around and struck for home."

"Scared?"

"That's the answer."

"What of—polar bears?"

"No."

"Supplies give out?"

"No, I had plenty of food. What changed my plan was seeing a man digging a hole. I had these ideas about gold being found anywhere and everywhere, and I went up thinking to get some points about mining. I asked him in an offhand way whether he had struck any pay dirt yet, and he turned around and glared at me and said, 'Young feller, what do you think I am digging this for?' I told him I thought he was digging for gold. He glared at me again and said: 'Gold nothing. I'm doing this for fun. I've been living here for four years, and there's one thing that my curiosity has never been satisfied about. I'm going to dig this hole good and deep so as to allow plenty of room, and then find out just how far down this climate will make the mercury go.'"—Washington Star.

His Answer.

"Tell me, am I not fair?"

The speaker leans back in her seat and smiles coquettishly.

In truth the question seems superfluous.

As she sits there with the afternoon sun transfusing her glorious tresses into a stream of liquid gold, her eyes as blue as the heavens, fathomless as the sea and dancing with excitement; her lips of coral wreathed with a roguish smile, she is indeed transcendentally beautiful.

But the man seems blind to her loveliness. He regards her with a frowning brow and eyes that smolder with anger.

Timidly she repeats her question.

"Am I not fair?"

Her companion's face grows black as thunder.

"Fair!" he cries bitterly. "Fair, when you open a jack pot with a ten"—
