NOT A BIT OF IT.

Observations of One Who Did Not Believe in Superstitions.

"Superstitions!" she exclaimed scornfully; "not a bit of it. I have too much sense for that. Of course there are some little things portending good or bad luck that occasionally claim my attention, but superstition is only the falling of the weak. I—

"Wait a minute. There's a pin on the sidewalk.

"There! Now I have it. Do you know every time I have seen a pin and failed to pick it up George and I have quarreled. Strange, isn't it? I wouldn't dare to pass one now.

"But we were speaking of superstitions. I've heard it said that everybody is superstitious to a greater or less extent, but I don't believe it. Don you? Of course I knew you didn't. But you do find superstition in the strangest places. I once knew a girl—

"Don't cut across the corner that way! Don't you know it's a sure sign of bad luck? I wouldn't do it for the world. A little child I once knew was run down by a horse while trying to cut across a corner that way. I'd always thought there was a good deal of foolishness in that idea, but after that it was different, of course.

"Let's see! Where was I? Oh, yes, now I remember. We were talking about the absurdity of being superstitious.

"Well, I once knew a girl who actually believed in ghosts. Real sensible girl in other respects, too. Funny, wasn't it? I used to tell her that she'd have to get over her superstitious or she'd be the laughing stock of everybody, but it didn't seem to make any difference. I think she must have been weak mentally. Don't you?

"By the way, I saw the new moon over my left shoulder last night. What do you suppose will happen? I just know that George will bring me a two-pound box of candy when he comes to call tonight. The last time I saw the new moon over my left shoulder was the very night he proposed.

"Still, of course, I mustn't forget that I spilled some salt today. Maybe that will make a difference. Anyway, I'll know what's the reason if I don't get the candy, and there's some satisfaction in that. Do you know, when anything unusual happens I can almost always figure right back to what caused it?

"But I'm mighty glad I'm not superstitious, like so many girls I know."

No Miners Attempt to Work.

ST. LOUIS, July 5.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Pana, Ill., says: Notwithstanding the statement of the operators of the four Pana mines that they would open their mines with non-union men today, and although police protection was offered the men, nobody attempted to go to work. All the mines are surrounded by a large force of union miners and bad non-union men attempted to work serious trouble would have resulted, as the former declare they will not allow outsiders to take their places.

PRETTY GOOD, THOUGH EXPENSIVE FISHING.

BOTH LOOKED ALIKE.

He—I always keep my gloves on when I go to bed. I find it keeps my hands soft.

She—Do you keep your hat on, too?
