J. W. BURLEIGH, Ed. and Pub

Congressman Hinshaw announces he will not be a candidate for re-election.

Here's a tip. The democratic party in Nebraska will this year declare for county option. Bryan says it shall, and what Bryan says goes.

The first political gun in the coming congressional campaign was fired in Massachusetts a few days since, displacing a Cannon republican with a democrat. A hunch republicanism will do well to take notice of. See?

The insurgents, with the democrats as allies, set a new precedent last Saturday when they made the committee on rules in the lower house of congress elective instead of appointive and eliminated the speaker as a member of said committee. It was a knock-out blow to Cannonism.

By the proclamation issued by the governor of the coming Nebraska Conservation and State Development Congress to be held at Lincoln, the 29th and 30th of this month, we see that Loup City has three vice presidents of that congress, Messrs. C. C. Carlsen, John W. Long and E. S. Hayhurst. On the afternoon of the second day, John W. Long will preside, the subject being "Development of Northwestern Nebraska." A big convention is looked for.

Along R. R. No. 2.

A disastrous fire occured this morning about 11:30 o'clock at the farm of Fred Johnson, when his new barn, corn crib, granary and hog shed with their contents, including 200 bushels of corn, 100 bushels of oats, 10 fat hogs, and most of his farm machinery were destroyed. The fire leaped the road and destroyed the barn on the Hugh Cash farm. The prairie cast was set on fire and some hay burned. It was only a few minutes after the fire started till the hills were lined with neighbors going to help them in their trouble, the ten rings on the telephone soon calling the people out. Mr. Johnson was not at home, being at Grand Island. A little son of the family playing with matches started the fire.

Sam Daddow painted the house on his farm this week.

J. W. Conger has a calf two weeks' old, he would like to sell.

Winter wheat seems to be hurt the worst on late fall plowing. All the wheat on new ground or on early fall plowing seems to be all right, but some of the other is badly hurt and will have to be plowed up. It pays to fall plow early, as this will show.

Don't fail to attend the big ribbon sale at Miss Lulu McFadden's school in the McMullen district. There will be a fine program before the sale. Everyone in the district should attend. The proceeds will go toward buying an organ for the school. Come out and help a good cause.

Henry Obermiller and George Plambeck met with a peculiar accident Tuesday afternoon while on their way home from Loup City. In some way a box of matches set fire to the spring wagon, completely destroying the woodwork. Henry ran his horses several rods to a corn field to keep from setting the prairie on fire, and had just reached it when a spark set the prairie on fire, causing all kinds of excitement in the neighborhood of Jas. Bone's place.

If the Northwestern gives you a a little less news matter this week, rejoice with us over the fact that our merchants are using the columns to give you bargains, which if you take advantage of will tickle your pocketbook and make you far happier and richer than if more space were given to news, and also helps us financially to give more of our time to news after the rush of advertising subsides for a season. And all this gets us in better readiness to enlarge the paper in the near future, which we are preparing to do by printing more pages at home, with increased help and enlarged facilities. Stand up for the Northwestern and it will be encouraged to take an even stronger stand for Loup City and Sherman county.
