GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Dealers Wonder if Exporters Will Follow Local Prices on Wheat.

LARGE QUANTIES HELD BACK

Wet Weather in Corn Belt Has Tendency to Boost That Commodity to Some Extent on the Local Market.

OMAHA, Oct. 15, 1914.

The question of handlers of cash wheat yesterday was: "Will exporters follow the gain in theprice of this grain?"

The trade in cash wheat yesterday was the smallest in several weeks, with the transactions via gulf ports only, and these were at lower prices. Wheat via the gulf sold at 1c above December on Tuesday, but yesterday sales were made at ½c under that month. This shows that buyers are keeping a close watch on the visible supply, which is now quite large, as well as on the amount of wheat and flour afloat on the ocean, destined to importing countries, as well as on the movement out of the hands of northwestern and southwestern farmers.

The price of wheat showed gains of 1½@2¼c yesterday. The market was a local affair mainly, with only here and there an outside order on either the buying or selling side. One of the larger grain houses at Liverpool, in a cable to a United States concern, says that Liverpool has sufficient wheat for immediate wants, but it has nothing for the future, and that prices are expected to do better for a long pull. There were gains of as much as 1d in spot wheat in the big English market and Paris was up 1c for wheat yesterday.

Those in the wheat trade, not only at Chicago, but in the smaller markets of the country, and who are considered good judges of conditions, are now the larger holders of cash wheat in the belief that the war will be a long drawn out affair and that prices must sell higher. On the buying side of wheat were much stronger concerns than on the selling side.

One of the best posted men in the northwestern markets and who was on the Board of Trade yesterday, says that the movement of wheat out of farmers' hands in western Canada has been much smaller than generally credited, and that there is more wheat back on the farms and in country houses than the bulls care to say.

Wet weather in the corn belt was the principal help to that market yesterday, but the gains were only ⅛@⅜c. Those who are now arrayed on the bull side are the same speculators who have been friendly to corn at various periods during the last six months.

Wheat was ½c to ⅝c higher.

Corn was ⅝c to 1¼c lower.

Oats were ⅛c lower.

Clearances were: Wheat and flour, equal to 430,000 bu.; corn, 2,000 bu.; oats, 460,000 bu.

Liverpool Closing: Not quoted.

Primary wheat receipts were 1,709,000 bu. and shipments 751,000 bu., against receipts of 1,265,000 bu. and shipmentc 638,000 bu. last year.

Primary corn receipts were 327,000 bu. and shipments 190,000 bu., against receipts of 405,000 bu. and shipments of 261,000 bu. last year.

Primary oats receipts were 1,000,000 bu. and shipments 526,000 bu., against receipts of 706,000 bu. and shipments of 591,000 bu. last year.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Features of the Trading and Closing Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Selling pressure from a number of leading firms acted as more than an offset in wheat today for assertions that export business was in progress on a huge scale. There was an unsettled close at ⅛ to ⅝c net decline. Corn finished ⅝@¾ to ⅞c down, oats off ⅜ to ⅜@½ and provisions ranging from the same as last night to a loss of 22½.

Orders to sell flooded into the wheat market as soon as prices at the opening showed a tendency to advance. Much of the unloading came from speculators who bought on yesterday's upturn and who had become sketical in regard to gossip that export transactions were being concealed to a much greater extent than was generally supposed. The ensuing fall of prices was followed by two strong swells due to seaboard estimates that European buying today at Winnipeg, Duluth, Chicago and in the southwest amounted to 1,500,000 bushels to 2,0000,000 bushels. The effect, however, failed to last, as the figures for the most part could not be confirmed.

December delivery of wheat showed decided relative strength compared with the May option. Cash houses were good buyers of the nearer month, which at one time went to 5⅝ discount under May as against six cents at the close last night.

Prospects for better weather tended to ease off the corn market. Country offerings remained small, but the majority of traders were expecting a material enlargement of the crop movement soon. Oats developed a good deal of resistance to bear attacks, as eastern shipping demand continued good. The market nevertheless gave evidence of some sympathy with the weakness of other grain.

Packers buying rallied lard after an early break suffered by provisions owing to a decline in the price of hogs. Pork and ribs lacked support, however, and seemed unable to rebound.

CATTLE—Receipts were fair for a Thursday, 112 cars being reported in the yards. The quality was very poor, consisting largely of trash. There were really not enough good or desirable cattle in sight to attract buyers or put any life into the trade. As a result the market on all kinds of cattle was very slow and dull from start to finish with prices around 10c lower than yesterday. This means that practically all kinds of cattle are a little lower than last week. Even canners were weak today today so that the general market on all kinds of cows and heifers might be quoted at 15@25c lower than last week. As noted yesterday fair to pretty decent kinds of cornfed steers are being neglected in favor of grassers, such cattle being quoted $1 per hundred lower at Chicago. The soft weather that has prevailed all week has been very much against the trade in stockers and feeders, and they have steadily eased off under the influence of a moderate country demand.

Quotations on Cattle: Good to choice cornfed beeves, $9.50@10.50; fair to good cornfed beeves, $8.60@9.50; common to fair cornfed beeves, $7.75@8.60; good to choice range steers, $7.40@8.60; fair to good range steers, $6.75@7.40; common to fair range steers, $6.00@6.75; good to choice grass heifers, $6.50@7.50; good to choice grass cows, $6.00@6.75; fair to good grades, $5.50@6.00; common to fair grades, $4.00@5.50; prime feeders, $8.25@8.40; good to choice stockers and feeders, $7.50@8.25; fair to good stockers and feeders, $6.60@7.40; common to fair stockers and feeders, $6.00@6.50; stock heifers, $5.50@6.75; stock cows, $4.50@6.00; stock calves, $6.50@8.00; veal calves, $8.00@10.25; bulls, stags, etc., $5.25@7.00.

HOGS—Supplies were larger than on Wednesday, but with prospects of a good killing outlet the market opened about steady, best grades selling at slightly stronger prices. Trade remained on a steady basis until toward the close, when, with most of the buyers pretty well filled up one packer, who had laid out all morning, started bidding figures that were quoted at 5@10c lower than the general trade.

Of course, there was practically no competition at this time and as the most of the hogs still unsold were rough heavies it looked as though they would sell at the buyers' figure. Most of the sellers, however, hung on for a return to early prices and before these last hogs sold values braced a little on the best end of them, and the late sales were quoted as about a nickel lower than yesterday's average, while the most of them were pretty nearly steady with Wednesday's low close. Summing up the general trade, most of the sales are about steady, but the lower close puts the average a trifle under yesterday. Today's prices set a new low mark for the year.

Sales were pretty well scattered over a range of $7.00@7.50, but the bulk of them landed at $7.20@7.30. Quality on the whole was probably about the same as yesterday, but the offerings included a larger percentage of both the pretty good lights and butchers, and the common heavies, so that there is more of a sprinkling of sales both above and below the bulk. Some very good butchers went to a packer at $7.55, top for the day. Shippers and speculators found themselves pretty well filled up this morning, and as there were few fresh orders the shipper buy was light in comparison to the previous days of the week. This naturally left packers in a better position to discriminate against the rough heavy grades.

Receipts were estimated at seventy-two cars, or 4,800 head, bringing the total for the four days up to 14,927 head. This is more than 5,500 smaller than last week and nearly 6,500 lighter than for the same days of last year.

SHEEP—The fresh receipts of 27,000 head today included quite a number of good fat lambs, more than for several days back, but very few good sheep. The fat ewes and wethers moved readily at prices fully steady, while the majority of the lamb offerings was slow sale, with the packers trying to buy at a reduction in prices and sellers asking some improvement over yesterday. After considerable dickering the bulk of the lambs changed hands shortly before noon, showing little if any change from Wednesday's market, about steady with Monday and the close of last week. Today's receipts were moderate, if anything, and this week's supply of killers for the week so far show a decrease from the same time last week and also from the corresponding days of last year. The schedule of prices on the local market continues relatively high compared with most outside points, with fat sheep still bringing figures on a par with the Chicago market.

There was more activity in the feeder trade than in the case of killers and if anything prices showed a continuation of strength the same as on the previous days of the week. Early some good feeding lambs moved at $7.00. The feeder supply of all classes was little if any different from yesterday, there not being quite enough to meet all inquiries. There still is an active demand for feeding wethers and yearlings, but very little of this kind of stuff shows up from day to day. There was a good clearance in feeders again today, indicating a healthy tone to the whole trade at current prices.

Denver Will Hold Today Its Initial Recall Election

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 15.—A recall election, the first to be held in Denver, will take place tomorrow to determine whether Alexander Nisbet, commissioner of safety, will be removed from office. Charges of "grafting and non-enforcement of gambling and vice regulations" are made by those upon whose petition the recall movement was instituted.

Commissioner Nesbit seeks re-election and there are nine other candidates.

The movement for the recall of Commissioner Nisbet grew out of the abduction of alleged robbery of Rev. Otis L. Spurgeon of Des Moines, who was taken from a local hotel by a party of men who invaded his room on the night of April 5, placed in an automobile and spirited out of the city and warned not to return. The occurrence followed a lecture by Spurgeon on the preceding night in which he attacked the morality of the Catholic clergy.

Two trials of thirteen men, charged with the kidnaping of the lecturer resulted in hung juries. Felix O'Neil, chief of police, and a Nisbet appointee, was charged with failure to perform his duties in permitting Spurgeon to be abducted. When Nisbet ignored a demand that O'Neil be discharged, the petition for the recall of the commissioner was circulated and, after several weeks had been spent in legal preliminaries, the election was called.
