NEW YORK STOCKS AND BONDS

Pressure to Sell Increases and Values Are Lower.

INDUSTRIAL OUTLOOK BETTER

Inclusion of Trust Company Reports in Bank Statement Causes Forced Marketing of Securities.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—There was nothing striking in the news today to account for the increase of selling pressure in the stock market. The movement was rather the cumulative effect of the feeling of discouragement that has grown up during the week as to any prospect for an early revival of a widespread demand for securities, such as can only form the proper basis for successful speculative operations.

A considerable period of dullness and neglect of the stock market is the clearly expressed anticipation heard among habitual operators and voiced in the action of the market. There is the apprehension also of possible delay in the revival of industrial and business activity in the country. Sundry items of information which appeared today were of a more cheerful complexion on this subject than has been the recent dule, but their purport was ignored in the movement of prices. The placing of orders for steel rails by some of the railroad companies following the determination of the new type of rail promised some revival of that important industry and the president of the United States Steel corporation imparted the information that it was now operating at between 45 and 50 per cent of its usual production compared with only 36 per cent of its capacity at the low tide in the middle of December. The ratio of decrease in gross earnings of railroads reporting for the later weeks of January shows a less favorable comparison with last year's corresponding period than in earlier stages of the contraction, giving ground for an inference of betterment in that field of enterprise. Conservative opinions of improvement were recorded also by the mercantile reviews. There was an inclination to look for special causes for some of the weakness today. One that was suggested was the probability of some selling out of collateral being in progress which had figured in loans of the trust companies that were helped during the late crisis and are now completing the straightening out of their affairs. The weakness of stocks was unrelieved during the progress of the session and last prices were the lowest.

The complexion of the bank statement when it appeared after the market closed was seen to be affected by the preparations of the trust companies for their inclusion this week for the first time in the public statement of condition. Evidently the trust companies have drawn on their banking neighbors freely to replenish their cash showing, the decrease in bank cash of nearly $11,000,000 comparing at an indicated gain from the known movements of money between one and two million dollars. The 8 per cent reserve held by the other banks and trust companies will be significant only for future comparisons. It is interesting to note that the actual percentage of reserve of 27.7 per cent of the clearing house members compares with a percentage of 27.82 per cent in the comparison by averages, thus proving that the latter understated rather than overstated the actual condition on this occasion.

Bonds were easy. Total sales, par value, $1,300,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call during the week.
