Last Monday Mr. Weatherwax's team broke loose from a post in front of Edwards store, and took a whirl around town and finely brought up at the M. E. church. They did but little damage but gave one of the editors a mark in the shape of a turned up finger nail to remember them by. A little more hemp would make that team a little more secure.

We are pained to learn of the accident which befell Mr. Ballard recently, who had his limb broken by the unpleasant familiarity of one of his horses who kicked him on the leg. He is at White Rock, Kansas, where he met with the accident, and understand he is doing nicely.

To us has been committed the honor and responsibility of writing up what we might deem an appropriate aposhophe to the life and character of the late, whose demise we briefly chronicled in our last issue. While grateful for the honor thus conferred on us, we cannot avoid the feeling, that a more intimate acquaintance with the subject of our task should have been selected in order to secure to him such a memorial notice as his real merits demand, but to gratify the expressed desire of a near relative of the deceased, we venture to write what the spirit and circumstances may suggest as follows:

From data supplied us we learn that he was born in Rockingham, county, Virginia, December 11th, 1821, which shows that at the time of his decease, he was sixty years and ten months old. In early childhood he removed to Ohio, where he grew to manhood and married the mother of his seven children, five sons and two daughters, all of whom survive him. About the time of his marriage he removed to Iowa, where his father had just died, leaving quite a family of minor sons, of whom our present candidate for State Senator, Joseph Garber, was the youngest, and at that time about eleven years of age, for this family of children the deceased provided a home until they chose to establish others for themselves. As we remember the recital of a brother, "he was the third issue of his father," an elder sister having died in early childhood—thus virtually leaving him second member of his father's family. We learn that in early life he had acquired quite a competency of the good things of this life, but confiding to much in the wisdom and integrity of business partners he became what our informant styled "swamped" financially. But exercising the spirit of an energetic and honest soul, he strove earnestly, patiently and successfully to overcome, or retrieve this mismove of earlier days, and having gathered the snug little sum of four or five thousand dollars, he came to Webster county in the summer of 1871, settling near the eastern limits of the county, where he opened up perhaps one of the best stock farms in the county, and stocked it with a small stock of short horns, which he brought from Iowa with him. About '74 or '75 as our memory serves us, he came to Red Cloud, bought a stock farm of four hundred acres adjoining town, and a large share in the original town site, and engaged extensively in the general merchandise business of which he made a grand success, and at the time of decease was supposed to be worth some twenty or thirty thousand dollars. Mr. Garber made no pretentions to Christianty, as a churchman, but he prided himself on being a straightforward business man, to be relied on whenever he gave his word of honor to execute any measure. His delight was financial business, and when unable to attend to that, he was out of his element, and only a short time before his death he was arranging—as we understand—for some important improvements in his business relations. He leaves his family in comfortable and happy circumstances, two grown sons being at home to take charge of business matters.

The present comet in the eastern sky, which can be distinctly seen by everyone at early morning, is certainly the most remarkable one of all the modern comets. Prof. Lewis Swift director of the Warner Observatory, Rochester, N. Y., states that the comet grazed the sun so closely as to cause great disturbance, so much so that it has divided into no less than eight separate parts, all of which can be distinctly seen by a good telescope. There is only one other instance on record where a comet has divided, that one being Biella's comet of 1846, which separated into two parts. Applications have been made on Mr. H. H. Warner by parties who have noted these cometary offshoots, claiming the $200 prize for each one of them. Whether the great comet will continue to produce a brood of smaller comets remains to be seen.

HE DECLINES.

To the Editor of the Chief.

Your issue of last week contains my name as a nominee for representative of the 41st district. While I would not deny or attempt to conceal the fact that I should deem a seat in the legislature a very high honor, especially if conferred by a constituency so enterprising, moral and intelligent as the citizens of Webster and Franklin counties, are known to be, I am constrained to decline the nomination, with thanks to the unknown friends that presented my name and to the convention that honored it.

I was named in this county as a candidate or the republican nomination for representative for the 40th district; another man was nominated fairly. Now should I accept the nomination tendered by a competing party, no protestations on my part would remove the impression that I was unduly sensative in defeat or very eager for an office. Further; since the action above referred to, I have so arranged my affairs that it would be impossible for me to make a canvas of the district, and extremely difficult for me to attend the session of the legislature if elected. My sympathies and my interests are with farmers and laboring men in this struggle. All I have is invested in farming enterprises. I hope, whoever may pronounce the wilt of Webster and Franklin in the next general assembly, it will be for the benefit and relief of the men whose industry has transformed it from a desert to a fruitful region, dotted over with happy homes. Should this be the result I am satisfied. If not, the men who betray our interests, will hear from me through the press and in the campaign of '84, if life be spared. In conclusion, there is another reason which would, even standing alone, decide me to decline this nomination. My candidacy might imperil prohibition, and that is worth vastly more than any man's preferment. I trust the papers of the district will do me the favor to copy or notice this letter.

GARFIELD MONUMENT.

CIRCULAR OF THE NEBRASKA COMMISSIONERS INVITING CONTRIBUTIONS FOR THE FUND.

ANNOUNCED BY COL. C. S. CHASE, PRESIDENT OF THE NEBRASKA BOARD.

Washington, D. C. October 3, 1882.

To the People of the State of Nebraska: The society of the army of the Cumberland, through its Garfield monument committee, has determined to give, under provisions of joint resolution of congress of August 5, 1882, a national fair and reception, industrial and art exposition, to be held in the rotunda and adjacent rooms of tha U. S. capitol, commencing on the 25th day of November and to continue until the 3d day of December, 1882, its object being to raise the greatest possible amount of funds to aid in the erection of a statue at Washington, D. C., to perpetuate and honor the memory of our late president, James Abram Garfield; and in furtherance of said object has, in addition to the board of direction, which is composed of some of the most prominent of our public men, appointed a board of commissioners to represent the state of Nebraska; and in compliance with the instructions of the board of direction we have the honor to present to you the method by which the cause may be aided: (1). Contributions of money sent through our board, for which engraved receipts will be returned to the contributors. (2). Contributions of articles. Under this head every branch of productive industry and art will be represented; and such contributions will be placed on exhibition, properly classified and displayed, with the name of the maker and donor attached. In all cases such exhibits will remain until the close of the exposition, when they will be sold. The especial attention of agriculturists, manufacturers, dealers and artists is asked to this class of exhibits. (3). Articles of industry, virtu, and art, for exhibition merely. The unusual and extraordinary character of the Bazaar must commend itself to every one desirous of advertising his or her business, or of bringing the results of his or her invention or handiwork to the attention of the world. Held at the nation's capital at a season when congress is about to assemble and the representatives of foreign powers present at their legations and to become guests of the exposition, with a host of journalists, representing every prominent newspaper in America, sending daily telegraphic reports of its progress and likely to notice the more worthy exhibits and donations, it may be confidently asserted that no equal opportunity was ever before afforded for bringing the interests of agriculturists, manufacturers, artists and artisans to the attentions of the public. (5). Contributions from the ladies in the way of needle and fancy work are especially invited and anticipated as one of the more prominent features of the fair.

A board of award has also been provided for, whose duty it shall be to examine and report upon the various exhibits, awarding medals and such honorable mention as, in its judgement, may be deserved, and give suitable engraved certificates of the same, according to the rules and regulations adopted and observed at the centenial exhibition at Philadelphia. Transportation on all articles donated will be at the cost of the board of direction.

Colonel C. S. Chase, of Omaha, has been chosen president of the board of commissioners in the state, with authority to nominate and associate in each county; and it is desired that the county associates shall advise this board, through the state chairman, of the progress of the work in hand.

It is intended that the exhibits from each state shall be received at Washington by the commissioners for the state, and remain under their special charge during the exhibition; to this and all donations, excepting money exhibits, etc., should be carefully shipped to Board of Direction, Washington, and the bill of lading sent to the secretary of this board. It is confidently hoped and believed that our great and prosperous state will respond liberally to this most praiseworthy object, and exhibit thereby a generous rivalry with the older and richer states of our glorious union.

W. L. Peabody

Jno. W. Rawlins, Chairman.
Secretary.

Omaha, Oct. 16th 1882.—By virtue of the authority conferred upon me by the board of commissioners for the state of Nebraska of the National Bazaar Industrial and Art Exposition, for the benefit of the Garfield monument fund, to be held in Washington next month, I hereby appoint the postmaster at the county seat of each county in the state as local agent, and commissions to such appointees will be sent from Washington.

In the meantime, as but few days are left for preperation, these agents will please commence work at once, on learning of this appointment and receipt of circulars.

Arrangements are being perfected whereby local agents will act in aid of such farmers es may have grain or other products which they desire converted into money at the various stations, the funds to be forwarded to the state board at Omaha.

A cause so noble and worthy must not suffer for want of willing hands to work for it, in young, prosperous Nebraska.

C. S. Chase,
President State Board.
R. W. Breckenridge, Secretary.

THE FLEEING OUTLAWS.

THEY ARE STILL AT LARGE WITH POSSES OF MEN IN FRONT OF THEM, BEHIND THEM, AND ON EACH SIDE OF THEM.

Nebraska State Journal Oct. 21.

The news from the Minden murders is very meagre, in fact we have hardly anything fresh to communicate on the subject. It is feared the murderes have gained the country where they will find friends, and be assisted in making good their escape out of the settled portion of Kansas. It seems incredible that they could travel through a fairly settled country, with men in close pursuit, and yet manage to make their way to the uninhabited portions of northwestern Kansas. Large posses of men accustomed to the prairies, have been on their trail and in front of them since last Tuesday morning, and as yet have been unable to overtake them.

The latest from Adjutant General Alexander was received by the governor yesterday morning, and dated Lenora, Thursday evening, and stated that he was leaving for the south with a large body of well armed men, and hoped to intercept the murders, but had no information as to their whereabouts. Yesterday afternoon sheriff Ensign received the following telegram:

Indianola, Oct. 20.

I have just received the following note from sheriff Wilburn, dated Abilence, that the murderers of sheriff Woods stole two horses and left their ponies about four miles northwest of Lyndon mills, in Furnas county, Nebraska, Wednesday night Oct. 18, and were last seen about twenty miles northeast of the divide between the Sappa and the Beaver creeks, Thursday afternoon about three o'clock, supposed to be traveling southwest.

S. W. H.

Last night Gov. Nance received a telegram from a constable of Lenora, Kansas, (the point which Gen. St. Alexander left yesterday morning) stating that two men, brothers of the murderers, had been arrested at that place last Thursday night on charge of horse stealing.

THE LATEST.

Gov. Nance received last night about midnight a dispatch from Secretary Alexander, dated Buffalo Park, (old Buffalo gap) a station on the Central Branch U. P., near the northern line of Gove county, Kansas, about 40 miles west of south from Lenora. He had learned the real names of the desperadoes—Mart Simmerman and Dick Belmont. Nothing reliable had been learned of the whereabouts of the fugitives, but the posse was divided into small parties and was scouring the country in all directions.

A dispatch from Gov. St. John states that it was reported that the murderers were seen to cross the north fork of the Solomon at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, but this is probably a mistake, or else the governor's information was twenty-four hours behind time.

W. J. Hobson, W. A. Reese and J. R. Sawyer, a firm doing business under the name and style of Hobson, Reese & Sawyer, Def't.

The above named defendant will take notice that on the 31st day of August, 1882, Frank R. Gump, a Justice of the Peace, in and for Red Cloud precinct, Webster county, Nebraska, issued an order of attachment for the sum of ($126.68,) in an action pending before him, wherein the said Jones & Magee Lumber Company, is plaintiff, and the said W. J. Hobson, W. A. Reese and J. R. Sawyer, a firm doing business under the name and style of Hobson, Reese & Sawyer, and that property consisting of a certain quality of oak piling and timber, has been attached under said order. That on the 11th day of September, 1882, in the same action, by and between the same parties, a second order of attachment was issued, and property consisting of 6 pieces piling, one lot of rope, four truck rollers, two crow-bars, two cable chains, one sledge hammer, one wrench, three hand rings and one grab-hook has been attached. Said case was continued to the 3d day of November, 1882, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

AGENTS! For Gen. Dodge's new book,

THIRTY-THREE YEARS AMONG OUR WILD INDIANS

Introduction by Gen. W. T. Sherman. Contains a truthful and graphic record of the author's observations, thrilling adventures and exciting experiences during 33 years among the wildest tribes of the Great West. Splendidly Illustrated with Steel Plates, Fine Engravings and Superb Chromo-Lithograph Plates in fifteen colors. Has received the unqualified endorsement of the most eminent men of our country. Gen. Grant writes: "The best book on Indian and Frontier Life ever written." Bishop Wiley, of Cincinnati, says: "A much needed book and one of immense value." Chicago Interior: "A book of standard and substantial value." Chicago Advance: "No other book contains so full and accurate account of the Indians." Chicago Tribune: "It reads like a romance, and is far superior to any book ever published on the subject." The Chicago Inter Ocean: "It vividly portrays the Indian just as he is."
