EDITORIAL.

Mrs. Tout has just received a Keda for Written Thought. When we heard that we were highly pleased and hastened to inquire what it was. We were told that it was little wooden disc with certain decorations upon it and that is was to be worn on a ceremonial gown. We suggested that it would look well on our watch fob but were told that it was awarded to her for her work in getting up a little paper telling of the Campfire girls' camp and that it was awarded upon the recommendation of the National Honor Committee of the Campfire Girls. No one else has the right to wear it so we gave up. Mrs. M. E. Crosby was the first to win a National Honor and others are planning to earn one as soon as they can.

The Tribune has a communication from Mrs. I. M. Abercrombie, President of the Bignell Community Club as follows: We, the people of the Bignell Community Club wish to thank the people of North Platte and vicinity for their able assistance and hearty support during our Fall Festival and also at the County Fair. In these few brief words the Bignell people fully express their feeling toward the rest of Lincoln county for the good will and financial support which has been given them. The Tribune editor has heard a great many people express themselves about the Bignell Community Club and he is of the opinion that Lincoln County should thank the Bignell people for a good time at the Fall Festival, for inspiring every part of the County by showing what co-operation can do and for their interest and activities in helping to make the County Fair the success that it was. With this feeling on the part of all concerned, we start in on a period of even greater opportunities than ever before. Lincoln County will advance just as fast as this spirit of co-operation gets hold of our people and we work together for the good of all the people.

The other day we saw a sign which read, "Save something and Be Somebody." It made a quick appeal to us and we have been thinking about it ever since. The word somebody, like every other word that amounts to anything, has two meanings. Use one meaning and the motto is sordid; use the other and it is trite. You are somebody when you respect yourself and others respect you. With this the motto would read "Save something and have the self-respect of yourself and others." But it has lost something in expression so we prefer the original. Then there is the meaning of "somebody" which emphasizes riches as the measure of success. In the eyes of some people only those are "somebody" who have wealth. Character, service, love, generosity— none of these can balance riches with such people. Our own self respect and the respect of others is what makes us go at full speed and makes somebody of us and we surely can help ourselves to be somebodp if we save something.

OF INTEREST TO RURAL READERS

FARM BUREAU NEWS SERVICE SUPPLIES ITEMS FOR THE TRIBUNE READERS

Farmers who are desirous of securing lambs for feeding purposes should communicate with the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation at Lincoln which has a line on a number of places in Arizona where they can be purchased.

The Nashua Woolen Mills at Nashua Iowa, which some time ago advised the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation that it is in position to process raw wool for the growers, has further advised that their factory has been recently overhauled, its capacity doubled and much new machinery installed. The mill is in position to process the growers' wool in almost any quantities into yarn, blankets, and higher grades of woven material, the cost being what the company charges for its services in converting the material.

Groups of farmers throughout the state who wish to purchase their winter's supply of apples in car load lots should communicate with the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation which is in touch with several large fruit growers' associations in Idaho who are selling direct to the consumer in car lots. Idaho has a strict state grading law and purchasers are advised by the Idaho director of extension to insist upon state grading and in that way the purchaser is assured of only high grade fruit.

Headquarters of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation has taken no action in setting a price for corn husking, though several county farm bureaus have agreed to a price of two and half to three and a half cents per bushel, with a half cent added where corn must be scooped. This, according to the Nebraska Farm Bureau people, when board, room and supervision is added means an expenditure of approximately a fifth or sixth of the crop, to which is added the suggestion that this is a good year to turn in the "four legged huskers" who do the job for nothing and pay their board in the bargain.

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation has been advised by members of the Nebraska war finance committee that the interest rate on loans to farmers is to be made even less than was at first expected. Loans are already being made through the Nebraska committee on the basis of approximately eight per cent. This is because the war finance corporation has agreed to put the money through the banks at the same rate as is charged by the federal reserve bank, or six percent to which must be added a probable charge by the bank handling the loan of two per cent, making the loan to the farmer eight per cent. Most bankers insist that they cannot handle the loans for less than two per cent but if they find they can shade this figure there is a possibility that the money may yet come to the farmer slightly under eight per cent

The Nebraska agricultural council composed of the heads of the various state agricultural organizations will hold a meeting in Omaha on October 12, probably at the Castle Hotel, to discuss the interest rate proposition about which much has been said recently in connection with the federal reserve loans, also about the Great Lakes—St. Lawrence tidewater project. Governor S. R. McKelvie of Nebraska who uncovered the apparent profiteering by banks in interest charges when he made a request to the federal reserve board for a more liberal credit for farmers, will attend the conference largely in the interests of farm credits. Ex-Govenor Harding of Iowa, who is one of the principal backers of his state of the Great Lakes—St. Lawrence tidewater project will speak on that subject. Invitations have been sent out to all persons interested in the agricultural activities.

—:o:—

A good sized crowd assembled at the Franklin Auditorium last Friday evening for the illustrated lecture on "Getting the Most Out of Retailing" Mr. Farley talked in a conversational style and his address was intensely interesting from begining to end. What he said was convincingly portrayed on the canvas by the lantern or the moving pictures. Some of the business men were there with all of their clerks while others were conspicuous by their absence. The lecturer paid a tribute to those who were present in saying that he took it they were there to learn something. Continuing he said "As long as anything is green it keeps on growing. Nothing is sadder than the merchant who thinks he knows it all and stops growing." He then discussed Store or Shop Organization, Advertising, Window Display, Selling and Store Accounting. Under each head he gave helpful suggestions which will mean much to local retailers in giving a better service at a lower cost to their customers and a greater profit to themselves.

—:o:—

H. J. Rathman, manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store here has just returned from a sectional convention of the firm which was held in St. Louis on Sept. 16th and 17th. In an interview yesterday Mr. Rathman said:

"Prevailing conditions as they are generally understood to exist, are not reflected in the financial report of this nation-wide institution, which shows that for the first eight months of this year the gross receipts were $4,700, 735.76 in excess of the figures for the corresponding period of last year.

President E. C. Sams attributes this increase largely to the fact that the public nowadays is shopping around and buying merchandise of quality at the lowest possible price. The purchasing power of such a tremendous organization as the J. C. Penney Co naturally makes possible the buying of selected merchandise of high quality so as to retail it at low prices.
