A DISPATCH from Portland, Ore., concerning the State elections of the 9th, is as follows: Returns indicate the election of the Democratic candidates for Governor, State Treasurer and Judge of the Supreme Court, and probably Secretary of State. At the Democratic central committee's headquarters last night the State was claimed by a small majority. Pennoyer for Governor runs ahead of his ticket probably 1,500. He owes his election to the Knights of Labor and anti-coolie socialists, who were very active in his support. The Republicans elected the Superintendent of Public Instruction and a member of Congress. Pennoyer's home (Portland and Multnomah Counties) hitherto strongly Republican, gives him five hundred majority.

CONGRESSIONAL.

IN the Senate on the 5th Mr. Morrill, from the Committee on Finance, reported a bill for an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. This is intended to assist Secretary Manning during his ill health. A resolution was adopted calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for certain information as to extending the bonded period on whisky. A bill was passed providing for a commission of three persons to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to investigate the truth of the alleged discoveries of the specific cause of yellow fever. In the House the Committee on Pensions agreed to report as a substitute for Senator Blair's Pension bill the bill introduced by Mr. Barry, of Mississippi, with an amendment. The bill agreed upon provides for a uniform pension of twelve dollars per month for all soldiers and sailors absolutely disabled and unable to maintain themselves. After Mr. Kelley had addressed the House upon his resolution upon the subject of Mr. Wheeler's remarks as printed in the Record, reflecting upon Edwin M. Stanton, the House in Committee of the Whole considered the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill. When the committee rose the House adjourned.

JUNE 6 being private bill day in the Senate a large number of such bills passed, one being the bill to legalize the incorporation of National trades unions. In the House the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill was taken up in Committee of the Whole, and the debate which followed opened up the question of civil service, upon which many and diverse opinions were expressed by members. The debate closed, and pending the reading of the bill and the decision of a point of order raised by Mr. Morrison, the House adjourned.

IN the Senate on the 10th Senator Beck called up the bill to prohibit members of Congress from accepting retainers or compensation from railroad companies which received land grants or pecuniary aid from Congress, and it was passed by a vote of 31 to 11. The Agricultural Appropriation bill was then discussed at some length and passed. The Northern Pacific Land Forfeiture bill was then discussed. After agreeing to a motion by Senator Hawley to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed prohibiting members of Congress from accepting retainers from certain railroads, the senate adjourned. In the House the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill was taken up in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of which continued until adjournment.

THE Senate resumed consideration of the Northern Pacific Land Forfeiture bill on the 11th, which was the only business transacted. The bill finally went over. Mr. Spooner offered resolutions of condolence upon the death of Representative Rankin, of Missouri, and delivered a touching tribute to his memory. Adjourned. In the House the Senate bill legalizing the incorporation of trades unions passed. The House then went into Committee of the whole on the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill. A spicy debate ensued, Messrs. Findlay and Compton, of Maryland, being the central figures. At the evening session the debate on the bill continued until adjournment.

AFTER routine business in the Senate on the 12th Senator Whitthorne addressed the body in favor of Senator Frye's bill for a congress of American nations to secure closer commercial relations. The Army Appropriation bill was then passed as reported from the committee. After passing several bills of an important general interest the Northern Pacific Forfeiture bill was laid before the Senate. Adjourned. In the House after various committee reports the Legislative Appropriation bill was taken up in Committee of the Whole and its consideration occupied the time until adjournment. An evening session was held at which thirty-five pension bills passed.

HOME RULE.

Gladstone's Manifesto. He Concedes His Own Proposed Legislation for Ireland With Salisbury's.

LONDON, June 14.—Mr. Gladstone has issued the following manifesto to the electors of Midlothian:

GENTLEMEN: In consequence of the defeat of the bill for the better government of Ireland the Ministry resigned and her Majesty was pleased to entrust the Government of the country, for a short time, to the Marquis of Salisbury and my colleagues and myself. We have been authorized to state that her Majesty's Government will, if they shall be entrusted with the duty, lay before Parliament a measure for the purpose of giving to Ireland a local government in all matters which are purely Irish, and which are not matters of imperial concern, and which, without injuring the unity of the empire, will tend to the peace and happiness of Ireland, and will, by the creation of a new and important public business, lessen the pressure of Parliamentary work. We have also been authorized to state that Her Majesty's Government will be prepared to consider, in connection with such a measure, the question of the representation of Ireland in the Imperial Parliament, with a view to the adjustment of the representation of Ireland in such a manner as may be just to Ireland and to the other portions of the United Kingdom, and to state that we are not wedded to any particular plan for the purpose of securing the unity of the Government and the stability of the Imperial Parliament, and that we are willing to consider any other plan which may be suggested for the purpose by any other party in the State, and we are willing to consider any other plan which may be suggested for the purpose by any other party in the State, and we are willing to consider any other plan which may be suggested for the purpose by any other party in the State. We are also
