U. S. Interested in Possibility of New Parley

Rumors That Poincare May Ask Reparations Conference Creates Stir in Washington Circles.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Unofficial intimations from Paris that the Poincare ministry is considering a call for a new reparations conference created wide interest in government circles here, although it was said definitely that no hint of such a development was given in State department advices.

The Paris dispatches referring to the possible conference followed an authoritative disclosure here that administration officials viewed the Hughes' suggestion as still alive and before the French and other allied governments. Whether unofficial talk in Paris points to a possible resort to the principle advanced by Mr. Hughes is not know. It is generally assumed, in view of the tone of today's report from the Ruhr concerning difficulties of the task before the French technical forces, that economiec rather than policies must be the basis of any new conference approach to the crisis. That would be wholly in line with the Hughes' suggestion.

The nature and scope of any future steps to restore allied solidarity as to the course to be followed with respect to Germany depends almost entirely on the turn of events in the Ruhr region, as emphasized in all reports reaching Washington from agents abroad.

There can be no question that fears of the gravest nature have been entertained here and in London that violent disorders might accompany the French occupation. As time passes without such complications coupled with action of the reparations commission in extending the moratorium to the end of the month and the Franco-German agreement reported from Essen for resumption of coal deliveries, presumably international tension is lessening in a way to foster hope for a new understanding among the powers.

"Praying Carpenter" Released From Custody

Honolulu, T. H., Jan. 14.—(By A. P.)—Ira Colver Sparks, the "Praying Carpenter" from Peru, Indiana, who shipped himself to this port from San Francisco in a box labeled "freight" and who landed in jail when he was forced to dig out for fresh air after five days aboard a Japanese steamer in his coffin-like compartment, was released from custody.

The Indiana stowaway proved a puzzle to the authorities who read stacks of law books in an effort to find out some legitimate charge that could be preferred against him. But as he wasn't a vagrant, or an immigrant, and apparently had committed no crime in shipping himself as freight, there was nothing to do but turn him loose.
