The Knock-out Blow. The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was almed for the jaw he temple or the jugular vein. Stomach nunches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most veinerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing one to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulcerable organ out of the price ring as well as in it. - Wo protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the deficient we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Plerce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulner able spot. No Such Horse for His Stature as the One the Sculptur Pat Under South. When Gen. John M. Wilson, U. S. A., retired, was superintendent of public buildings and grounds in Washington, under Cleveland, he was lavited one afternoon by Gen. "Phil" Sheridan to accompany him on a carriage drive about the city. The hero of Winchester was in fine spirits until they approached Scott circle, in the center of which loomed the equestrian statue of Gen. Winfield Scott, Then "Little Phil" because serious. Reining up his horse, he sat and gazed earnestly at the statue, says the Washington Herald. "Wilson," said Gen. Sheridan, "I have an incurable malady, and do not expect to live more than a year. When I am dead, I suppose that my equestrian statue will be ore red somewhere in Washington. I request here and now that you see to it that I am not sented upon such an Intrarcous looking horse as that upon which the sculptor has placed Scott,"

The Scott horse, by the way, was modeled after one of the favorite mares ridden by Gen. John Morgan, the dashing Kentucky Confederate cavalryman, a fact known only to Gen. Wilson and a few other persons in Washington, Although fourteen years have passed since Congress provided for the erection of an equestrian statue of Gen. Sheridan, the capital is as yet devoid of that piece of monumental art. Work was begun on 4t several years ago by J. Q. A. Word, the American sculptor, who, it is said, finally has abandored the task, largely because of the injunction of Gen. Sheridan that his bronze likeness be not placed upon any but a real war horse. Mr. Ward, It is stated, has made numerous models of horses, none of which pleased him, and he destroyed them in turn.

In Portuguest East Africa an explorer has discovered a new species of zebra, resembling the ordinary zebra in shape, but the head, neck, forelegs and fore half of the body are dark brown in color, the hind part of the body, including the legs, being striped. He also discovered a peculiar type of antelope similar in size and shape to the Boer roebuck or Impala, the distinctive difference being a black line down the center of the back and on either hind leg down to the foot. When the animal is startled it immediately what takes to flight, the initial leap being fully ten feet through the air.

The process is simple but slow, Pirst the logs are cut into "bolts" of from thirty-two juches to forty-two inches long and the bolts sawed into billets two and a half inches or three inches square at the ends. Three years' seasoning is required for the best bats, either in the log or billet. The kilndrying process is rapid, but not considered as good. The billets are placed to an automatic lattle, which quickly transforms the stick into the graceful form of the but. The bat is then smoothed and polished by being held against a rapidly moving horizontal belt which is covered with sand. It is then ready for its coat of oil, varnish or paint, as the Save the Babies.

NEANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twentytwo per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirtyseven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher. Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria.

in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy." Dr. E. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients." Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several. patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm." Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed you. Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartly commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children." Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: 'Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Casteria helds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments." Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merits." Dr. Norman M. Gee., of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "During the last twelve years I have frequently recommended your Castoria as one of the best preparations of the kind, being safe in the hands of parents and very effective in relieving children's disorders, while the case with which such. a pleasant preparation can be administered is a great advantage."

Notwithstanding the fearlessness with which the New Zealanders have cut loose from the established economic order one finds among them a curious strain of conservatism.
