in case of fire. In ten letters the telephone patrons are told to call "100." In additional instructions the patron is told to give his or her name in reporting the fire to "100," together with the location of the fire and the nearest street crossing. A person giving an alarm is asked to stay at the telephone until the operator repeats the alarm message.

Sounds Alarm in Office.

As soon as a connection is made with "100," a buzzing gong rings on the desk of the chief operator in the central office. The operator receives the location of the fire and at once notifies the power house. A special telephone installed at the fire hall plant is used for no other purpose than this. The fire whistle is sounded at the power house on this information.

Then Calls the Chief

The next step of the fire operator is to call Fire Chief Krantz. He is called first at his office and then at his home. The next call goes to the assistant chief. These telephone numbers are prominently displayed on the chief operator's desk. The fire bell is rung by some one from the Krantz barn.

How the Firemen Are Notified.

"Where is the fire, Central?"

As soon as the fire whistle blows or the fire bell rings, the telephone exchange board is one mass of white dancing balls, the little marble-like balls that spring into sight indicating patrons all anxious for fire information.

Among the scores who ask "Where is the fire?" are the firemen to whom moments are precious. So every one of the white marble-like balls that represents a fireman's telephone has a little red line on it. When the exchange board is filled with calls at "fire time" the operators answer the red marks first. As soon as the firemen have been answered, the rest of the population has its curiosity satisfied.

Saved His Boy's Life.

"My three-year-old boy was badly constipated, had a high fever and was in an awful condition. I gave him two doses of Foley's Orino Laxative and the next morning the fever was gone and he was entirely well. Foley's Orino Laxative saved his life."—A Wolkush, Casimer, Wis. Klesau Drug Co.

The meeting of the West Side Whist club, which had been scheduled for the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Butterfield for Thursday evening has been postponed until a later date on account of "The Ide of" booked for the Auditorium.

Editor Weimer of the Gregory Advocate predicts that South Dakota will be overwhelmingly for Taft and the state ticket, and says that Gregory county will be Republican by a safe margin. The Republicans of Gregory county have placed a splendid ticket in the field.

The last work of printing the election ballots for eight northern Nebraska counties was finished in The News printing plant at noon. The work required strenuous labor since last Friday, a force being kept at the work night and day. The News has left print a ballot for more counties than it has ever printed before.

Miss Edith Parks of this city is the victim of a suitcase thief. Miss Parks had just returned from Albion and had placed her suitcase in the family carriage, which had been driven to the station to meet her. She then left the vehicle for five minutes to go into a store, and upon her return she found that the suitcase had been stolen. It contained clothing.

Judge Elsley has pronounced a unique sentence. To George Mowary a baker who had lost his job, he said: "I fine you $1 and sentence you to carry in coal for the city hall offices and to sweep out the basement of the building." "Judge, $12 is all I have in God's world and I have no job," the man had pleaded. So the judge's heart was touched and he decided to have the building cleaned.

Some of the Norfolk Democrats who heard him declare that H. B. Fleharty who spoke here Tuesday night, is almost the equal of Mr. Bryan, himself in oratorical powers. They say that Mr. Fleharty was the most eloquent man they have had here this fall. Mr. Fleharty, during his brief stay, called upon a number of Norfolk friends whom he had met at the state Eagles' encampment last spring, at which he made an eloquent speech.

John Oesterling, who with several other citizens of Norfolk, attended the annual Odd Fellows convention at Lincoln, remarked yesterday on the scarcity of the Bryan badges on coat lapels to be seen there. He said that of the 120 lodge men who attended the convention but twenty-five openly displayed their Democracy by wearing badges; the red, white and blue buttons inscribed with the word "Taft" being much more prominent.

The only outcome of the council meeting last night was a card game and the net outcome of the card game was that Councilman Puesler and H. V. Hardy beat City Attorney Hazen and City Clerk Harter two out of three games of old fashioned "high five." Chief of Police Peters presided over the game as referee while Mayor Strahan dropped in as an innocent bystander. The council meeting for lack of a quorum was adjourned until November 10.

The News has found those "two girls" for his Missourian who carried home two Norfolk coffee cups and two spoons marked "A. F." Mrs. O. L. Hyde and Miss Nettie Burich were the girls. Miss Smith was the one receiving the cups with a cream on it. She still wears the same pin, "O. L." ahead for "Unsuccessful church." It was from the 10 bright dimes received in the collection of the church that the cups and spoons were lost. The Missouri man who was returning home from the Eisebud took the two cups of coffee through the car window. The train started to move away and he was asked if he didn't intend to return the cups. "Sure I do," he answered. But he didn't. The train moved faster. The Missourian laughed. "We're doing this for the church," the ladies protested. "You look it," said Mr. Missouri, still laughing. Then the train moved away and with it the cups and spoons. When he got home he thought better of it and sent a want ad. to The News stating that if the "two girls" would send their addresses, he'd return the cups and spoons, prepaid. It is said he reiterates points out the fact that Judge Taft stands upon a record of actual achievement for his country, while Mr. Bryan has never done anything of service to the nation, preferring to suggest and take back and suggest and take back remedies which have proved fallacious. The honest and praying attention to many people passing along the streets and it seems probable that they will bring home to many new-found arguments which will convince Nebraskans that Mr. Taft's election at this time is needed if present prosperity is to continue.

A Jeweler's Experience.

C. R. Kilgore, The Jeweler, 1060 Virginia avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a quarter of a block. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured my complaint. I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed." Klesau Drug Co.
