A Word to The Voters. As I find that it is going to be impossible for me to make anything like a thorough canvass of the county, I take this means of addressing you.

Much is being said now days about the new primary law. The greatest concern of the politicians at the present is the construction to be given the law in regard to the effect of writing in names of candidates.

A Kansas editor mentions that he sometimes receives an envelope with a "V" in it after the paper had contained a painstaking wedding notice or obituary.

When you have one million $1 bills and pile them upon top of one another, if you want to reach the top one, you will have to reach 270 feet.

CLEVELAND'S GREAT BROADWAY

A Beautiful Boulevard Which Will Border the Rockefeller Estate. Mayfield road, when improvements begun yesterday are finished, is to be one of the finest thoroughfares in this section of the country, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Beginning at Garfield monument the highway, eighty feet in width, will run three miles east of the end of Cleveland heights village, paved with approved macadam like the city boulevards. A grass plot will run through its center, containing shade trees at intervals of about 100 feet the entire distance.

So far $181,000 has been spent in piping and grading, and the contract for paving will involve about $205,000 more. Even in the matter of trolley poles, Mayfield road isn't going to be surpassed. The poles will be fixed in the center of strip, hidden to a degree by the trees, and will be provided with ornamental iron arms.

The improvements have been under discussion for the last six years by Cleveland heights citizens. Next year's work will be begun on the Coventry road, connecting with the Shaker lakes. This thoroughfare will be made 130 feet wide.

DANGEROUS THINGS TO HAVE.

Married Man Carried Too Much Circumstantial Evidence. It probably never enters the minds of most people how perfectly innocent a man may be and yet lay himself open to suspicion through no fault of his own.

Plague of Birds in England.

The protection of birds in England has reached a stage that they have become a nuisance, and now it is not unlikely that a systematic war will be waged on them, says the New York Sun.

Of course, the sparrows are the worst. They have grown to millions in the southern part of England and the Kentish farmers have had to organize battues to reduce their numbers, as they were devouring seed and grain and destroying fruit to a ruinous extent.

The pigeons are the only birds constantly shot all the year around in England, and in spite of this their number never seems to diminish.

Each apple or pear has only a little peck taken from it, but it is thrown to the ground and rendered totally unmarketable. The farmers and fruit raisers here talk of organizing formal hunts to thin out the flocks of birds.

Starlings have also become extremely numerous and are badly in need of slaughter, the country people say.

In Collis of a Python. Mr. Cocklin, walking in thick grass near the Marico river, Bechuanaaland, was thrown to the ground by a fourteen foot python, which coiled around his legs and then tried to drag him to a tree near by.

When within two yards of the tree Mr. Cocklin got a hand free and shot the snake, which was so heavy that it needed three men to lift it.—East London Dispatch.
