GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Export Demand and Heavy Sales Create Undercurrent in Wheat.

CORN ALSO A LITTLE WEAKER

Recent Storm and Shortage of Cars Curtail Its Strength and It Has Undergone Weakening Influence in Price.

OMAHA, Jan. 13, 1913.

With but a few exceptions there was an undercurrent of strength in the wheat market all last week. Several factors entered into the situation, the principal one of which was a sudden export demand and rather heavy sales. At times the shorts stampeded to cover and until values had crept up about 5 cents per bushel there did not appear to be anything like conservatism in trading. Early in the week there was also the fear of a heavy freeze in the winter wheat belt because of lack of snow covering and the winter drouth, but before mid-week those fears were dissipated by a liberal fall of snow all over the country, which was unaccompanied by any real severe cold weather. This influence, however, was supplanted by the other factors mentioned, and up to practically the end of the week there was nothing in the market to suggest weakness except that the movement was large and th market had the appearance of being overbought. Statistics were practically ignored and were in the main more bearish than bullish, taking everything into consideration.

Argentina is shipping liberally as compared with a year ago, and with the exception of Russia there is no indication of a serious shortage. In this country it is known that supplies are plentiful and much talk was indulged in as to where the surplus would go.

Cash wheat unchanged.

The corn market sympathized with wheat to a more or less greater extent, but at times held aloof from the influences of other grains. General conditions were favorable for the maturing of corn, but owing to the recent storm and the shortage of cars the movement was somewhat curtailed, although it is still large.

The oats market continues dull, moving a little now and then in sympathy with wheat.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Features of the Trading and Closing Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Wheat and corn advanced a cent at the best today and closed close to the top. Oats and provisions were firm.

A good general demand for wheat tells the story of the advance in that market, for it occurred in the face of the fact that the visible supply is the largest in twelve years at this season. The nearness of spot wheat to a workable export basis and a visible increase smaller than expected were bullish factors. There was a fair demand for spot from millers.

Corn closed at the highest of the recent upturn, speculative demand responding to active export business. Country offerings increased and primary arrivals were double those of the corresponding day a year ago, but as in wheat bearish news was ignored.

A moderately higher range of prices prevailed in the oats market, but the trade as a whole was only slightly responsive to the advance in wheat and corn. May at close was ⅛c over Saturday.

Provisions were dull but firm on a moderate demand from the stock yards. Closing prices were 5@7½c over Saturday.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

Quotations fall in Decisive Way in Day's Dealing.

WILSON'S SPEECH DISPLEASING

Bears Hammer Copper Issues with Considerable Effect, Leading Companies Having Cut Old Price of Metal.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Quotations fell in a decisive way on the stock exchange today. In all departments of the list inroads were made on quoted values and there were frequent losses of 2 to 4 points. Trading was more active and the uncertain tone of the early session was changed into weakness as the day wore on. Bear operators showed more confidence in their dealings and made a number of successful drives, with the coppers, the coalers and steel as the especial objects of attack. Steel sold down to the lowest price since May.

On the exchange and in customers' rooms of commission houses the topic most often discussed today was the speech of President-elect Wilson at Chicago on Saturday. His remarks upon the banking and credit system attracted wide attention and the street chose to place a bearish construction upon them. The weakness of the stock market was attributed largely to the influence upon market sentiment.

The copper group was again a sore spot in the list. It was admitted quotations of leading companies had been cut under the long-established rate of 17½c. There was another sharp break in the metal market in London. The bears hammered the copper stocks with considerable effect. Amalgamated being heaviest of the group. Coalers also betrayed a decided weakness and among the specialties there was a large number of sharp declines. Telephone stocks were under unusual pressure which was associated with rumors of a governmental investigation. Announcement of the first step on the part of Harriman interests in complying with the dissolution decree was of little effect, some such a move having been looked for. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific moved with the general market.

Bonds were under pressure with a sharp fall of the copper lines. Total sales, par value, $2,190,000. United States 3s, coupon, declined ¼ per cent and the 4s ⅛ per cent on call.

Number of sales and leading quotations on stocks were as follows:
