School Notes.

The winter weather has no effect on the attendance of the 2nd and 3rd grades. With a few exceptions on account of the mumps, the attendance is excellent.

The 5th grade received a piece of fir wood from Vancouver, Washington, and a sample bale of cotton from Shawnee, Okla, to put in their geography collection.

Susie Lenox has been absent for two weeks on account of sickness at her home. Marie Biermann and Edith Davis are back again after a week's absence with sickness. Blanch Ayres is on the sick list.

Edgar Howard of the Parker district entered the 6th grade Monday. Hugo Stebner, who was absent with blood poison caused by a dog bite, is back in school.

The 6th grade are reviewing in geography and hoping that the much needed geographies will soon be here. The absentees are increasing instead of decreasing in the high school. Mumps seems to be a bad. Esther Leamer is having her second trial with them.

We were agreeably surprised when we recently learned that our school was recognized as a free tuition school of the first rank, and as the first school in the county. Little did we then dream that we would so soon be reaping the profits and high reputation so often accorded such schools.

What positions can we not expect for our graduates when those in the lower grades receive positions at good salaries with a chance to rise. The 11th grade should furnish a president, president's wife, governor, chief justice, or some other such officer.

Dick Lenox, a leader in 3rd grade, is assistant publisher at the Eagle office on a salary of 75 cents per week. We predict that ere long he will be chief manager and editorial writer at a salary that will exhaust the company's treasury.
