EARLY MAN TO BE PROVEN

Writer in Scientific Bulletin Discusses Bones Found by Omaha Man at Florence.

More than thirty pages of the bulletin just issued by the Smithsonian institute on "Skeletal Remains Suggested or Attributed to Early Man in North America" is devoted to a discussion of the remains of the "Loess" man, discovered buried in the bluffs north of Florence by Robert F. Gilder of Omaha. The bulletin is compiled by Ales Hrdlicka. The report embodies a detailed account of the finding of the remains and a minute description of the skulls that were excavated. Extracts from a number of papers which have been written on the subject are also included in the report.

In summing up his conclusions the writer declares evidence is yet to be produced that early man existed in North America. Continuing he says:

"Referring particularly to the Nebraska 'Loess' man, the mind searches in vain for solid ground on which to base an estimate of more than moderate antiquity for the Gilder mound specimens. The evidence as a whole only strengthens the above conclusion that the existence on this continent of a man of distinctly primitive type and of exceptional geological antiquity has not yet been proved."

MORNING SHOPPING

An experienced shopper tells us that she can do twice as much shopping in the forenoon as in the afternoon, with one-half the fatigue.

She says there are no crowds then; that she has no difficulty in obtaining a seat in the street cars; that she is waited upon more promptly at all the stores and that the clerks are more courteous and take more pains to show goods, because they, like herself, are not tired at that time of the day.

Knowing this to be true, we suggest to all ladies able to do so, to try this plan and do their shopping in the early part of the day.

HOW BALL MAGNATES STAND

American Association Owners All Wants to Enter Chicago.

SOME MAY WAIT FOR PERMISSION

Majority Said to Favor Entering Anyway and Believe Big Leagues Will Consent Before Fighting.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Before the American Base Ball association officially decides upon placing a team in Chicago it must settle what promises to be a sharp controversy within its own membership.

The contest over this important proposition is due to come up December 28, the date when the American association will convene in this city in annual meeting. For the association to enter Chicago the vote would have to be unanimous, and, as several of the magnates are determined to go through with that project, it is unknown what pressure may be brought to bear on the others.

A member of the American association said that every club owner in that league was in favor of coming into Chicago, but that two or three of them would hold back for what they term "proper conditions." Those conditions mean permission from the National and American leagues. The other members are in favor of coming in and then asking "what are you going to do about it?" As there is no chance to get the major leagues' permission, the more warlike of the association magnates are wondering how much persuasion they will have to use upon their fellow magnates.

Bryce of the Columbus club, reputed to be the best money maker in the American association, refuses to jeopardize his business by getting into a base ball war.

How the Magnates Stand.

Watkins of Indianapolis and Armour of Toledo, who are on the doubtful list, are not expected to stand as firm against the invasion as Bryce. Havenor of Milwaukee, M. E. Cantillon of Minneapolis and George Tebeau, who controls the Kansas City and Louisville clubs, are all strong for the entry into Chicago. G. E. Lennon, owner of the St. Paul franchise, is placed in a delicate position. He has been anxious to get out of base ball, but in disposing of his club naturally wants to see the team kept in St. Paul.

Cantillon, Havenor and Tebeau believe that the National and American leagues will give them permission to place a team in Chicago rather than precipitate another ruinous base ball war.

James Callahan, who expects to get the St. Paul franchise takes strenuous exceptions to the objections made by President Johnson of the American league to the association's right to enter Chicago.

"Johnson," said Callahan, "had a hand in invading Chicago and several other cities in 1900 and it isn't up to him to say anything now. Johnson has said that I would never play in a league again as long as he was in base ball, but unless the association falls in its present project, I'll be in a pretty good league."

The Byrne-Hammers all had their little hatchets with them last night on the Metropolitan alleys, and the way they knocked the pins down made the News team open their eyes, although they bowled a fairly good game themselves. Rigdon celebrated his first 600 game, and nothing was too good for the boys. This puts the Byrne-Hammers in second place and Captain Rempke says now for the Bicycles. WHO IS THE BREWER IN OMAHA?

Question Some Fans Would Like to Have Settled.

OMAHA, Dec. 18.—An effort will be made by an Omaha syndicate, said to be headed by a prominent brewer, to secure the St. Paul American association franchise. Omaha is the largest city in the Western league and base ball interests here are said to have been trying for two years to purchase for Omaha a berth in the American association.

The above telegram appearing in the Chicago Tribune sounds good, but does not appear to be founded on facts. No brewer can be found in Omaha who is organizing such a syndicate. Arthur Metz, who is one of the leading base ball fans of Omaha and who was probably referred to, said he had heard of no such move.

"It will be pretty hard for president of the Inter-City Base Ball league this summer," said Mr. Metz.

Pa Rourke says he has heard nothing of any such move and does not know what to make of the turn affairs have taken in Chicago.

"It all looks to me like 'dope,'" said Pa. "The American league has voted unanimously not to allow the American association to enter Chicago, so the only way they can put a team in is by becoming outlaws. There are altogether too many level heads in that association to attempt any such move as that, according to my notion. There is no doubt the American association would like to put a team in Chicago, and there is a good field for another team, which would be sure to make money, but the big league magnates have no use for some of the owners in the American association and will never consent to let them in.

"It is interesting to consider what the status of the Western league would be if a team is put in Chicago and that association becomes an outlaw. Two of the owners in the Western league are also owners in the American association. Would that outlaw the Western?"

QUICK IS NOT SIGNED FOR YEAR

Man of Fancy Vests is Advertising for a Job Any Old Place.

Two whilom Omaha pitchers, Edwin S. Quick and Ben Henderson, are enjoying the blessings of freedom to an extent that becomes irksome. Both on the Pacific coast, they are up at taw lagging for a place. Henderson, as readers of The Bee know, has been writ down as "a contract jumper pure and simple." Now comes Quick, who pitched for San Francisco last season and batted at the terrific clip of .131, with this item in the want ad columns of the Sporting News:

"Pitcher, five years' experience in Class A leagues. With San Francisco past season; also play outfield or first base. At liberty for 1908. Edwin S. Quick, Palo Alto hotel, 1550 Polk street, San Francisco, Cal."

Quick went from Omaha to Little Rock and tried pitching for a while, but was sent to left field. From there he went to San Francisco and was at first touted as a great find on the coast. Quick outdistanced all other players in Omaha in one regard, namely, his popularity as a ladies' day pitcher.

Mike Kelley has been engaged to manage the Toronto base ball club and play first base.

Some New York writers are figuring where the Giants got the lemon end of the recent trade of players. They say that the Tenney and McGann part may be all right, but that New York surely got the lemon end on the rest of the bunch.

Michigan leads the western foot ball teams with a total of 107 points to 6 for their opponents. Among the big eastern colleges Yale and Dartmouth were each scored on for 10 points. Yale finished the season with 208 and Dartmouth 159 points.

Answering a correspondent who wants the address of Slats Davis, a sporting paper says address him care Tip O'Neil, president Western league, Marquette building, Chicago. Why not send direct to Oakland, Cal., since you're going to send it care O'Neil?

One of two things is true—either the Kansas City Times has a new sporting editor or the Western league has kidnaped him. The Times says Doc Shively is president of the Western league. The doctor, who up to last accounts, was still president of the Western association, was also sporting editor of the Star, of which the Times is the morning sister.

"I came to Chicago unbidden and I feel like saying to the American association, welcome to our city," is Comiskey's comment on the reported invasion of Chicago. Is that merely a bid for additional popularity or a veiled confirmation of suspicions dwelling in so many minds that the Old Roman is "in on the deal?" But even Comiskey doesn't deny it would make an outlaw of the association.
