Watton Released from Custody.

Jesse Watton, the young man charged with "enticing away" Jennie Hastings, a girl under 15 years of age, whom he married in Omaha, was discharged by Justice Cooper yesterday. The youthful bride, who was given a hearing before Judge Macy in the juvenile court on complaint of her mother, Mrs. Josie O'Leary, did not secure her liberty. The court decided that he would continue the hearing until March 16, so as to afford the mother an opportunity to bring the necessary proceedings to have the marriage of her youthful daughter annulled. Pending the continuation of the hearing, Mrs. Watton is to be detained at St. Bernard's hospital in charge of the Sisters of Mercy and Rev. Henry DeLong, probation officer of the juvenile court.

After Judge Macy had ordered the girl returned to St. Bernard's hospital pending the suit to annul the marriage, he turned to young Watton, who was present in court, and said:

"Now, young man, you leave this girl alone."

"That's what he won't," exclaimed the youthful bride, as she left her seat and crossed to where young Watton was, threw herself into his lap and flung her arms around his neck.

When Deputy Sheriff McCaffery attempted to lead the young girl from the court room she clung to her youthful husband and the officer had to use some force before she would let loose of the young man.

It was practically established yesterday that the girl was under 15 years of age. The record in the family Bible, which had been introduced in evidence, gave the date of birth as October 9, 1894, but the record of births as filed in the office of the clerk of the district court showed that she was born on October 9, 1893.

It was stated that the mother of the girl, if she succeeded in having the marriage in Omaha annulled, would apply to have her daughter sent to the State Industrial school at Mitchellville until she is of age.

WHEELS CRUSH OUT LIFE

William Probstle Killed While Trying to Cross Broadway.

CAR CREW PLACED UNDER BONDS

Story of Eye Witnesses Seems to Indicate Motorman Attempted to Stop His Car, but Was Unable to Do So.

William Probstle, a harness maker of this city, was crushed to death Saturday under the wheels of a Fifth avenue and Fairmount park motor on Broadway just east of the east crossing at Main street. Probstle was crossing Broadway from the south to the north side when struck by the motor. His body was almost cut in two and death was instantaneous.

Frank Smith, the motorman, and P. A. Peterson, conductor, of the car were placed under arrest but later released on bonds in the sum of $2,000 each and Probstle's body was, on orders of Cornoer Treynor, removed to Cutler's undertaking rooms. Although the time had not been set last night, an inquest probably will be held Monday morning.

Whether Probstle slipped and fell in front of the car in attempting to get out of its way or whether he did not see the car, which was approaching from the east, is a matter of conjecture. Eye witnesses to the accident state that Probstle was crossing from the south side of Broadway to the north. He started to take the crossing in front of Sargent's shoe store, but half way across left the crossing and veered to the west as if to make the sidewalk near Main street when the car struck him.

Fred Frazier, employed at the Manhattan restaurant, almost in front of which the accident happened, and Henry Langmade, living at 739 West Broadway, who witnessed the accident, said the motorman rang his bell and applied sand before he reached the crossing in front of Sargent's store, but as the rails were wet and slippery, evidently could not stop the car in time to avoid striking Probstle. Both of these eye witnesses said they thought Probstle was carried a few feet on the fender before he rolled off and under the wheels.

Acting under instructions from officials of the street railway company, Motorman Smith and Conductor Peterson declined to make any statements last evening.

William Probstle had been a resident of Council Bluffs for over thirty years, it is said, and was commonly known as "Dutch Bill." He made his home with his widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Pauline Probstle, on North avenue. For several years he had been employed by the Wickhams as harness maker for their railroad construction camps. His mother, Mrs. Kolaps, is said to live in St. Joseph, Mo. Probstle, who was single, was about 50 years of age. A number of years ago Probstle and his brother conducted a harness shop on West Broadway.

STEVENS IS AGAIN CONVICTED

One Juryman Hangs Out Until the Early Morning.

For the second time Roy M. Stevens, the linotype machinist, has been found guilty by a jury in the district court of attempting to criminally assault 11-year-old Christina Christensen, daughter of C. J. Christensen, 158 Ridge street, on the night of June 17, 1907. The jury, which went out yesterday evening shortly before 6 o'clock, brought in a verdict of guilty as charged a little before 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

It was stated that the jury was delayed in returning a verdict by one juror, who finally voted for conviction. The defense will have twenty days in which to file a motion for a new trial. At the first trial Stevens was found guilty by the jury after a comparatively brief deliberation, but was granted a new trial on the grounds that the court erred in failing to instruct the jury that it could if it deemed the evidence warranted it, bring in a verdict of simple assault.

As the crime of which Stevens has been convicted was committed before the date of enforcement of the indeterminate sentence law, he will be sentenced to a definite term. The maximum punishment for this crime is twenty years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

There is another indictment hanging over Stevens, in which he is charged with enticing away a 10-year-old girl. The second offense is alleged to have been committed exactly one month from the date of the attack on the little Christensen girl.

The case of W. P. Jackson, Marion Hedgepeth's alleged accomplice in the blowing of the Council Bluffs Transfer and Stove Storage company's safe, was assigned for trial following the Stevens case, but as Judge Macy has to hold court in Harlan this week, it will now probably follow the Weber-Rock Island railway case in Judge Thornell's court.

He schedules his liabilities, including the judgment, at $1,353.65, with assets amounting to $110.50, of which $65.50 is claimed as exempt.

NO RESOLUTIONS THIS MEETING

Hamilton County Republicans Are Anxious for Respite.

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., Feb. 16.—(Special.)—The Hamilton county republican convention to be held in this city Tuesday will adopt no resolutions. This decision has been arrived at by the politicians in deference to the fact that the people will express their sentiments on all candidates at the primaries on June 2, and also because quite a row would be stirred up, which would result in much ill feeling, were any attempt made to pass resolutions for Governor Cummins or Congressman Conner. While Cummins would win on a fight of the kind here Conner would have difficulty, and the matter would open up a large field of action which in the end would be beneficial to neither faction of the republican party in Hamilton county.

For sheriff there are four candidates, H. I. Thompson, the present incumbent; C. H. Brown, his former deputy; W. H. Cunningham of this city, and George R. Strever, also of this city.

For clerk J. C. Sterling of Independence township is at present the only avowed candidate. Friends of the present clerk, Frank J. Lund, however, are urging him hard to become a candidate.

For treasurer there are two avowed candidates and two possibilities. J. E. Sogard, cashier of the Stanhope State bank, and Att Alexander, cashier of the Jewell First National bank, have both announced. The present incumbent, P. J. Brandrup, and his efficient deputy, Frank Hamilton, are prospective candidates.

For auditor no candidates have announced. It is known, however, that J. A. Stover, present deputy auditor, will be a candidate. J. E. Peterson, second deputy, may run, too, while Auditor Cragwick's many friends are bringing much pressure upon him to again stand as a candidate for the office.

Prof. J. M. Holaday, county superintendent; Miss D. J. Hunt, recorder; J. N. Iliff, surveyor, and J. D. Porter, county attorney, who are serving their first terms, will probably have no opposition. At least none has thus far developed.

The coming campaign will be one of the hottest contests ever held in the county. While it is early to foretell, it is not thought likely that any nominations will go into the convention. In the event of more candidates coming out, however, nothing can be told as to this. With five months intervening between now and June 2 the probability that more will be out is good.

Grain Men Select Sioux City.

FORT DODGE, Ia., Feb. 16.—(Special.)—Sioux City was selected as the place for the 1909 meeting of the Farmers' Grain Dealers' association of Iowa, which closed its convention here yesterday afternoon.

Resolutions were framed and adopted favoring the enactment of state and federal laws against speculative manipulation of prices of farm produce, the federal inspection and grading of grain, the immediate creation of a tariff commission, with a commissioner representing agricultural as well as manufacturing interests, and that political enmities be put aside and support be given to those senators and representatives who work for the cause of co-operation.

At the mass meeting Wednesday evening, when P. J. McCumber, Senator from North Dakota, praised Senator Allison highly, shouts of "Cummins! Cummins!" rang through the hall. Senator McCumber replied that Governor Cummins was too well known to the audience to need any comment from himself.

Rifles from Rock Island.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Feb. 16.—(Special.)—Rock Island arsenal is turning out rifles of the latest United States army type at the rate of 1,000 a day, the work on the large order placed here by the government having progressed to the point where the finished rifles are being turned out in this large number. The regular army is now fully supplied with this type of rifle, and the rifles are being shipped to the militia in the various states, in exchange for the Krags, as fast as they are requisitioned. The general plan is to supply first the states that are farthest from the arsenal, leaving those near at hand to be supplied later.

Inquest Set for Monday.

CLINTON, Ia., Feb. 16.—(Special.)—The inquest for the Taylor murder case has been set for Monday, it being held advisable that the authorities collect as much evidence as possible before the inquest. No new developments have occurred further than the turning of a 32-caliber revolver over to the authorities by the older Taylor boy, which he claimed had been hidden at home to keep it from the younger brother. The young man was very reluctant to hand over the weapon and not until he had been put through a severe examination would he produce the revolver. It is expected the investigation will bring out more clearly the mystery now hanging over the case.

Bankers to Meet in Sioux City.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Feb. 16.—(Special.)—Seven hundred of the leading bankers of Iowa, comprising the Iowa Bankers' association, will meet in Sioux City in June for their annual convention. The call for the gathering is being prepared by the executive committee. The association was organized in 1887 and is the largest association in point of membership of any state in the union. H. M. Carpenter of Monticello is president; J. D Easton, Waterloo, vice president; E. J. Curtin, Decorah, treasurer; J. M. Dinwiddie, Cedar Rapids, secretary. Mr. Dinwiddie has held the office of secretary for nineteen years.

Inman Candidate for Speaker.

CHARLES CITY, Ia., Feb. 16.—(Special.)—Representative Loren W. Inman of Floyd county, who has served one term in the legislature, in announcing his candidacy for re-election, has also announced he will be a candidate for speaker of the Iowa house of representatives. Mr. Inman was a member of many of the most important committees of the house at the last session and his chances of securing the place seem bright.

DRUGGIST SHOOTS DOCTOR

Des Moines Man Attempts to Kill Wife and Police Surgeon.

LATTER IS FATALLY INJURED

Woman Only Slightly Hurt by Husband, Who Had Been Drinking—Physician Shot in Chest.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 16.—M. E. Davis, a druggist, last night attempted to murder his wife, and later, fatally shot City Physician James E. Miller, who went with the police to the Davis home to attend the injured woman. Mrs. Davis was shot in the leg and the wound is not very serious. Dr. Miller was shot with a rifle ball through the lungs, and the chances for his recovery are slight.

Davis, who had been drinking heavily, attacked his wife with a rifle. He leveled it point blank at her, but a neighbor woman who was present, grabbed the weapon and turned it downward, so that the ball struck Mrs. Davis in the leg. Davis retired to the upper rooms, barricading himself there, while the neighbors turned in an alarm. Mr. Miller came with the police to take care of the injured woman, and as he stepped into the door-yard of the Davis home, a single shot was fired by Davis from an upstairs' window, the bullet hitting Mr. Miller in the chest and tearing its way through his lungs. For a time Davis defended himself in his barricaded room, but finally surrendered.

Dr. Miller was taken to the hospital, where he assisted the surgeons in diagnosing his own condition and in locating the bullet, refusing an anaesthetic for the operation. Dr. Miller himself, expressed the opinion that it would be impossible for him to live and did it with professional calmness, that little suggested that he was pronouncing his own death sentence.

Women Cannot Vote.

A determined effort on the part of a few women of Des Moines to establish the right of women to vote at municipal elections, especially on matters affecting borrowing money, ended in failure in the state courts today. Suit was brought in the name of the Political Equality club of Iowa to enjoin the city of Des Moines from the erection of a new city hall, on the ground that women were denied the right to vote on the proposition. As a matter of fact, three women sought to vote at the election the time the proposal was submitted and they were refused. They had not been registered and it was found there was no provision for registering them. But they claimed that the vote to bond the city was illegal because of this fact. In the state courts this matter was presented and the court decided adversely to the women. The real merits of the case were hardly reached, since it was decided that inasmuch as only three women offered to vote, their denial at the polls did not affect the result in any way. The court refused to pass on the weakness of the law in not providing for registration of women for such elections or providing that they may vote without registering.

The suit involved the erection of a city hall at an expense of $500,000. Work has already commenced upon the project.

Judge Gets Increase of Pay.

Justice S. M. Weaver of the supreme court, by reason of an opinion of Attorney General Byers rendered today, will get $6,000 a year instead of $4,000 a year as before. A question arose as to whether he was entitled to the raise which had been made by the legislature, the question being as to when he was elected to a new term. The attorney general held that he is entitled to the raise in pay to the same rate as the other judges.

Suiting the Occupation.

Cornelius V. Collins, New York's superintendent of state prisons, said at a recent dinner:

"Then there is the faddist type of prison warden, the man with some hobby or other that he quite runs into the ground.

"I know one such warden. It is his hobby to give to his prisoners congenial work—work which they like and are accustomed to.

"He said one day to a new convict:

"'Young man, I see that you are sentenced to hard labor. Now in providing you with work I shall take your former occupation into account. What were you?'

"'An anarchist, sir,' the convict replied.

"'Ahem,' said the warden, turning to his assistant, 'then we will put this man to road blasting.'"—Washington Star.

TAFT SPEAKS IN HARTFORD

Secretary of War Discusses Issues of the Campaign.

WORK OF TWO PRESIDENTS

Policies of McKinley and Roosevelt and Relations of Capital and Labor Are Considered.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 16.—Secretary Taft played a dual role in the course of his visit Saturday afternoon and last evening. A few minutes after he reached the city he addressed a big gathering at the Foot Guards' hall and later he was the gues of honor at the annual dinner of the Hartford-Yale Alumni association. At both gatherings he was given a rousing welcome. In his Foot Guards' hall speech the policies presented by the late President McKinley and those of the Roosevelt administration, together with some newer issues, formed the basis of his address. Secretary Taft indorsed all of the bigger issues of these administrations, including expansion, on which he spoke somewhat at length. He also discussed quite emphatically the relations of capital and labor, stating that if capital found it desirable to organize for the protection of its interests, labor had an equal right to do the same, but that violations of law by labor would be punished just as certainly as the misdeeds of capital.

He also discussed the Panama canal, predicting its completion in five years.

Issues of Campaign.

Secretary Taft referred to the policy likely to characterize the presidential campaign and placed them under two heads, the policy of the McKinley administration and the policies of the Roosevelt administration. The policies of the former, he said, might be placed under the term expansion, which policies did not cease when President Roosevelt began his administration. He said that the democrats predicted that if Roosevelt were elected the country would be involved in more wars than ever before, but instead President Roosevelt was instrumental in stopping one of the biggest wars in recent years. He characterized him as one of the greatest exponents of peace in the world's history. In discussing railroad measures and the legislation enacted regarding them, Secretary Taft said that if any of the railroad presidents were interviewed today, down deep in their secret hearts they would say that they were glad of what happened, because they are now able to hold up their heads, something some of them could not do before.

Capital and Labor.

An interruption occurred at this point, when a man in the audience asked about the $29,000,000 fine against the Standard Oil company, but the speaker turned the question off with an anecdote. The secretary took the issue of labor unionism, and conceded the right of the workingman to organize for his own protection. He said that on all but one point—the question of wages—the laboring man and capitalist were practically agreed. Both know that it is necessary to have capital and capital should have a suitable return, but there will always be a conflict on the matter of wages. It is necessary for the laboring man to provide a common fund if a strike be necessary.

Secretary Taft referred to the abuse practiced by fiduciary corporations, by which funds are diverted from the ward to the trustee.

The disclosures, he said, shook the public. There was a great moral awakening all over the country. He praised the employers' liability bill, and at the conclusion of his speech was loudly applauded.

BRISTOW SHIES HIS CASTOR

Salina Editor Would Go to Senate from Kansas.

SALINA, Kan., Feb. 16.—J. L. Bristow, ex-fourth assistant postmaster general, tonight announced his candidacy for the United States senate, to succeed Chester I. Long, whose term expires March 4, 1909. Mr. Bristow is editor of the Salina Journal. He announces himself as being in favor of an early revision of the tariff and says he is opposed to the passage of the Aldrich bill, or any other financial measure of that character. "I am," he says, "a progressive republican, and in the politics of the country stand with Roosevelt, Taft, La Follette and Hughes and the ideas they represent."
