ANNOUNCEMENTS (Continued.)

The Van Sant School of Shorthand

304 South 18th Street

will open its fall term September 2d in its new quarters, at the corner of 18th and Farnam streets. While the enrollment is limited, the new rooms will accommodate an increased number this year. We should like to enroll as many well-educated, earnest young men and women as can be accommodated.

There is a special demand for young men at high salaries. There is also a good demand for young women.

The school is a specialty school for the training of stenographers, and teaches only shorthand, typewriting, spelling, punctuation and office practice. More than 98 per cent of the students who have ever enrolled have held good stenographic positions. The reason so high a percentage makes a success is that only those who have sufficient educational foundation are admitted. No one is enrolled merely for the sake of getting his money. No promises are made that can not be fulfilled. Students may attend a week before deciding whether they will enroll. If they do not enter no charge is made for that week. We will tell you frankly if we think you can not succeed.

Payments may be made monthly if preferred. If for any reason a student desires to leave the school money will be refunded for unexpired time.

The texts and methods used in the school are the latest and most approved.

Call and see us.
