WILD HORSE VALLEY

C. G. Peterson is shelling corn for the neighbors.

Sewing society meets with Mrs. John Johnson on Thursday, December 28th.

We have considerable warmer weather this week than last.

There will be early morning services at the Svea Dal church Christmas.

Wilbert Helberg has conducted services at the church since Sunday and will continue over Christmas.

The Elander and the Wickstrom schools will give a program Friday evening at the Elander school house.

Sam Camblin attended the Gaudreault cattle sale at Hastings and bought four Herefords.

Wilbert Helberg arrived home on Saturday to spend his Christmas vacation. He is a student at the North Park college, Chicago.

Harm Kruse and Harold Lindberg were business callers at the county seat last Saturday and again this week.

There being no snow on the ground people are busy husking corn although it is below zero some mornings when they leave the place for the field.

Our young people away at High school will enjoy their holiday vacation at their homes. Edith Peterson attends school at Brady; Albin Elander, Gunhild Larson, Evelyn Anderson and Elizabeth Nelson at Gothenburg; and Gertrude Preitauer at North Platte.

EASY NOW TO VACCINATE HOGS

Hog Cholera Can Be Prevented Surely And Inexpensively By Home Vaccination.

A prominent and widely known veterinarian has written a book entitled "The Secrets of Vaccination", which any reader may have free of charge. By following the simple directions in this book any farmer can vaccinate his own hogs with the AMVETSC hog cholera serum, and save from twenty-five to fifty percent.

Heretofore it has been practically impossible to buy serum at home. However, since vaccinating is made so easy under this prominent veterinarian's suggestions and instrucitons, incorporated in this free book, the Stone's Pharmacy has decided on this policy as it will enable farmers to vaccinate at any time they wish and also save a great deal of money.

There can be no better serum than they supply because it is made under Government supervision and then thoroughly tested under actual field conditions, making a double test serum.

Simply call or send you name to Stone's Pharmacy, North Platte, Nebr. and get and interesting booklet on the prevention of hog cholera and special price list free. —Advertisement.
