Nothing is more pleasant and grander than a united citizenship. That's what makes a town prosperous. Commence the New Year right and don't be set down as a slacker.

OUR RESOLUTIONS

Here are a few of the things we have resolved for the coming year:

1. To quit hoping that the Nebraska legislature will be able to solve the financial and highway problem.

2. To cease believing there will ever be a reduction in income taxes, or any other form of taxation.

3. To quit printing propaganda in fulsome praise of the officers of the Nebraska Development Board and all other mutual admiration societies.

4. Never to pet a strange police dog.

5. Carefully refrain from arguments with traffic officers, wherein you always lose even if you win.

6. Never to go swimming while wearing a wristwatch.

7. To give motor trucks the right-of-way at all cross streets.

8. To quit trying to beat the other fellow into revolving doors.

9. To carefully memorize the words of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America," and insist that all members of our luncheon club do likewise.

10. Never to believe that the word "hot" means anything when you see it printed on the faucet at a golf club shower bath.

11. To give up trying to sleep in motion picture theatres.

12. To quit telling the preachers they must keep out of politics, because they won't do it, anyway.

13. Not fuss at the telephone girl when she gives the wrong number. Perhaps the poor girl has more numbers than she knows what to do with.

14. To call in a competent electrician every time the radio gets out of fix.

15. To refrain from forecasts of election results.

16. To take it for granted that the women are going to wear what they want to wear, and moralizing on the subject isn't going to do the least bit of good.

17. To decline stock market tips, even if they come from Chas. M. Schwab, and vouched for by J. Pierpont Morgan.

18. Not to make any more New Year's resolutions, because I can't think of any more just now.

MEADOW GOLD

Five hundred dollars is a lot of money to pay for a pound of butter. Yet the Plattsmouth Chamber of Commerce, which paid that much for the first pound made by the Cass County Co-operative creamery, bought it cheaply enough. Both the business men and the farmers are going to reap plenty of dollars in dividends from the first pound, and the check that paid for it.

For the last five years dairy development has been making sensible progress in Nebraska, guided by the Dairy Development association, of which Carl Gray has been president and Otto Liebers manager, and aided by the extension work of the state university. For five years there has been steady improvement in the breed of milk cows on the farmers in the state. Non-producers, cows that eat more than they give, have been sent to the packers. The North Platte experiment station with its famous Beauty Girl and her noted daughters, has shown what can be done by intelligent breeding and handling of cows. Farmers in all parts of the state are gaining independence from crop surplus problems by profitable dairy herds.

The cheese factories in the North Platte valley have shown what co-operative work will do in increasing dairy profits. The Orleans creamery is another example of the good results of applying business methods to farmers' projects. The Cass county creamery begins its production under most favorable omens of success.

Nebraska is ideally suited to dairy development. The climate is one under which cows flourish. People everywhere are appreciating the high food value of milk and milk products and the market is enlarging daily. With wise precautions lest dairy development be pushed too rapidly, there is every reason to believe that this extra source of wealth will add greatly to the farm productivity of Nebraska and the prosperity of her people.

CHURCH AND RACES

The attention of folks who objected strenuoutly to the religion of Governor Al Smith during the Presidential campaign last autumn is respectfully directed to the fact that Herbert Hoover attended church in Rio de Janiero last Sunday morning and Sunday afternoon he went to the races.

The press agent of the President-elect says that he attended the races in Rio "merely to give the masses a glimpse of him, and to give himself a chance to get a glimpse of the masses."

The church folks must admit that's a rather weak excuse, a mighty poor alibi.

Had a similar situation presented itself in the United States during the Presidential campaign, all the king's horses and all the king's men could not have dragged Herbert Hoover to a race track on Sunday.

It would have been better to offer a perfectly logical explanation of what happened. Sunday is a big day in Rio de Janeiro. Everybody goes to the races on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Hoover was merely following the old adage, "in Rome do as the Romans do." A visit to the race track was a part of the official program for his entertainment, and he could hardly have avoided it without given offense to his hosts.

The excuse that our new President went to see the crowds and let the crowds see him will hardly hold water. A more candid man would have admitted that he went to see the horses run.
