Prison life in this country is getting to be more and more revolting.

—:o:—

What a great country this would be if it grew as rapidly as its prison population!

—:o:—

Maybe they want three houses of Congress so they can have one dry, medium and wet.

—:o:—

Shakespeare knew it all. "For a windy night," quoth he in Sonnet 90, "a rainy morrow."

—:o:—

If it wasn't for dancing we reckon a lot of girls wouldn't ever know what it means to perspire.

—:o:—

Seems that they investigate everything about primaries except the quality of men who run for office.

—:o:—

When you see her snuggled up that close to him it means she hasn't started in to do back seat driving yet.

—:o:—

Sunday is a good day in which to wonder whether any of our friends will figure in the Monday morning casuality list.

—:o:—

Women have robbed man of about everything else, but they haven't found any excuse for using up his shaving cream yet!

—:o:—

Somebody has stolen the cornerstone of a church in Los Angeles. No doubt he figured "the better the stone, the better the theft."

—:o:—

It's just possible that if some of the modern wives used more elbow grease around the house they wouldn't have so much fat to worry about.

—:o:—

"The older a tree the less it exudes sap," says a forestry expert. It may be true of trees, but it certainly does not apply to human beings.

—:o:—

We don't know of any word that gets more wear and tear than "MY" but it is strange how seldom you ever see it used before the word "Fault."

—:o:—

If President Hoover can get Congress to build as many prisons as we seem to need, there will be no end for all time to such a thing as unemployment.

—:o:—

The reason we don't believe pants will become popular with the girls is because skirts make it so much easier to keep the shapely legs and expensive hose from being a total loss.

—:o:—

Don't spoil the fun of the poor harmless insects! Put away your winter clothes in moth balls so that the moths can lay out their 18-hole golf course for the summer months.

—:o:—

"The earth is speeding up," says an astronomer. Undoubtedly true. We are all traveling at a dizzy pace, don't know exactly where we are going, and most folks don't give a darn.

—:o:—

Well, anyhow, it is definitely known where Mr. Morrow, of New Jersey, stands on the prohibition question, and that is more than can always be said in regard to senatorial candidates.

—:o:—

Maybe the reason given women the vote hasn't made such a whale of a lot of difference in politics is bebecause we gave them the cigarette, the flask and the right to be as ornery as the male about the same time.

—:o:—

Whether we want to or not, we may soon come face to face with the problem of doing business with Russia on a large scale, and, of course with the problem of recognition. Before we can decide whether Soviet Russia is a good credit risk at present, we must know something of the economic background of the country.

The proposal that Texas be divided into five States is absurd. One Texas is bad enough.

The old saying, the bigger they are the harder they fall, surely was not intended for parachutes.

—:o:—

The result of the Pennsylvania primaries go back to a confusion of issues, personalities and record.

—:o:—

Si Dry, the only prohibitionist in Burlington, says the people can't be buying all the corks to put on fishing lines.

—:o:—

Now the wet Republicans have a candidate for President—if that's what they have been looking for—Dwight W. Morrow.

—:o:—

It may reach the point where the thirty individuals will have to take a drink of fruit juice with a cake of yeast for a chaser.

—:o:—

John Phillips Sousa led twenty Salvation Army bands at one time. It takes a real genius to lead even one Salvation Army band.

—:o:—

Among the very hard problem dealing with modern youth are those the kids bring home from school and ask their parents to help solve.

—:o:—

Down in Alabama Mrs. Democracy is suing Senator Tom Heflin for an absolute divorce decree, and it looks like she is going to get it, but without alimony.

—:o:—

This is the time of year the poor dad who wasn't built to wear a belt starts getting bawled out by mother and the girls for sitting around without his coat.

—:o:—

The Florida authorities are still battling with Scarface Al Capone. If the Florida courts want to be real playful they should amputate Al's toes around his neck.

—:o:—

That sculptor who chopped down the wordage of Mr. Coolidge's mountain history should prove a valuable man if they give him a shot at the Congressional Record.

—:o:—

One or the nicest things about listening to a radio sermon is that people in the congregation do not turn and stare at you when the preacher denounces your pet sin.

—:o:—

"What is wanted," demands an exchange, "is a census that is correct." And a correct census is one that shows a larger growth in your town than in the neighbor town.

—:o:—

The watermelon, we are informed, contains vitamins A. B. C. and G. And the proper way to eat watermelon, in our opinion, is so that you get all the various vitamins in your ears.

—:o:—

Vanity is not confined wholly to the fair sex. We saw a man in the adjoining barber chair the other day who didn't have more than a dozen strands of hair on his cranium, yet he was so fussy over the way the barber was combing them as though he had as much hair as Paderwski.

ORDER OF HEARING

CUT THAT MELON

Our per capita circulation, they tell us, is now down to $37—its lowest level since April, 1914. Well, a lot of water has run under the bridges in these 16 galloping years and, so without more ado, we declare, without fear of successful contradiction, that the time is ripe for dividing up and passing around the $6,000,000,000 which, Prof. Irving Fisher has said, prohibition has been depositing in our bank accounts every merry twelve months. Yes, the hour has struck to cut that melon.

—:o:—

Since the crushing defeat in the Republican Senatorial primary in Pennsylvania perhaps Senator Grundy doesn't think quite so highly of his own ideas on the subject of tariff legislation.
