Owing to the continued story started in this week's Northwestern, by that versatile author, R. M. Hiddleson, entitled "Delinquent Tax List," we are caught short of room for the next three weeks for the news events but will try and give a gist of the happenings boiled down to the last degree.

The following is one of ohe many commendations from the press on the Slayton's Tenneeseeans Entertainment, which will be the first number of the Lyceum Course, at the opera house, Wednesday evening, Oct. 6th. Here is what the Parsons (Kas.) Daily Sun says—The first of the series of entertainments to be given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. took place at the opera house last night and a more cultured audience has seldom filled that hall of amusement. Slayton's Tenneeseeans fully sustained the praises bestowed upon them by the press and public by furnishing an evening of rare song, which fairly captivated the large and critical audience. Last night's demonstration is a solid guarantee of the success of the course.

The experiences of the late carnival were of such a nature that it is not a future repitition of the same will be made in Loup City for a goodly period at least. We refer especially to the gambling and daylight robbery games. Loup City has undoubtedly had her eye teeth cut in good shape.

Every situation in the new play of the "Hidden Hand" appeals to the human heart, say the critics who have seen it and they have most flattering compliments for the author and producer. The most encouraging praise is added that the drama is high class. It appears to have all the thrills and powerful climaxes a melodrama should have without any of the absurdities and cheap sensation.

An attraction of the carnival here not down on the boards is said to have been a roulette wheel in rooms above Herschlag's saloon. Those who claim to have been visitors to the gambling room say a man named Art Hall of Ord was the manipulator of the game, assisted by some of our home talent. The game was so quietly carried on that outside of those interested the fact of its progress was not known till the agony was over. It is claimed that Arcadia and surrounding country contributed some three hundred and over dollars to the Omaha gamblers here.

Earl Thompson was called to Kanorado, Kansas, last week by the death of his twin sister, Mrs. Geo. Cramer, who died Thursday, Sept. 26th, at the age of 29 years, 6 months and 14 days. She leaves besides her husband and brother, three small children to mourn her loss. The many friends of Earl here will deeply sympathize with him in his irreparable loss of a loving sister. The remains were shipped to Beatrice, Neb., for burial.

Jesse Marvel left last Friday morning to re-enter school at Bellevue college. Jess had not intended going to school for this year, but stay and assist in running their big farm, but the temptation, and insistance of his parents that they could manage home affairs, coupled with a bunch of letters received each day from the college boys, proved too strong and Jess capitulated. By the way, he is considered one of the very best of Bellevue's champion football team, and good anywhere you place him.

Have you noticed that fine street lamp placed in front of their store by Hayhurst & Gallaway Hardware company? It is one of the finest we ever saw. It's radiance is great and will allow of the reading of a paper for a block either way. It holds a 3-gallon gasoline tank and has a clock attachment within the frame work which can set the time for the lamp to go out at any hour desired. It is a great invention and two or three of these at convenient places on our business streets would give better service than so many arc lights.

Death of Grandpa Criss

Last Thursday, Sept. 26, 1907, at 7 o'clook in the morning, occurred the death of Simpson Criss in the 78th year of his age, after a lingering illness of many weeks. The funeral took place from the residence Saturday afternoon, Rev. L. C. McEwen of the Presbyterian church of this city giving the discourse, a large number of the friends being present to pay their last respects to the departed, who was universally esteemed and respected by all. Grandpa Criss was born in Carolton, Carroll county, Ohio, in 1830, and died in Loup City, Neb, Sept. 26, 1907. He was married twice, five children being born to the first union, three of whom are still living, and six children born to the second wedlock, all of whom are living. He was a veteran of the War of the Rebellion, enlisting in 1864, receiving his discharge in 1865, on account of ill health. Grandpa Criss was one of those men who are universally esteemed by all with whom they come in contact and his death is regretted by the entire community.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to the kind friends who were of such valuable assistance during the illness and subsequent death of our loved husband and father.

Well Known in Every Home.

A new stage version of the famous family story, "The Hidden Hand," will be seen at the opera house, Loup City, Neb., Tuesday, Oct. 15th. This is the story which set Robt. Bonner, then the struggling owner of the New York Ledger, on the road to millions, and made Capitola, Black Donald, Wool and other characters of the novel, well known in almost every home in the country. Eugene Moore, the actor, is the author of this dramatizatiun.

The Tenneeseeans.

The sweet singers of the sunny South will be the first number on the Lyceum Course, opera house, Oct. 9th. K. of P. lodges, Chautauqua's and Y. M. C. A. committees and opera house managers are all of one accord in saying that this is one of the finest entertainments on the road. Holders of tickets remember the date.

School Notes.

Several of the pupils were absent from school Thursday and Friday on account of the carnival and the rainy weather.

The high school literature books have at last arrived.

Miss Conger was unable to fill her place as teacher Tuesday, so Maggie Minshull served as substitute.

Clifton Thornton entered the 8th grade Monday.

Ray Kearns, Mr. Williams from Columbus, Fanny Kenjon and Bertha Boecking from Litchfield, and Josie Fisher from Dannebrog were visitors of the high school the past week.

Exit Carnival.

The trite old saying that charity covereth a multitude of sins might be aptly applied to anything that might be said of our late lamented carnival of last week. A minister once told the story of a good old man who proverbially was known to always have a good word for everybody, but who once was nearly stumped when he was asked what he thought of a certain worthless character in the community The old man stroked his flowing beard slowly and thoughtfully to find expression, when he drawled, "Well, he's a good whistler." Applying that to the exhibition given last week, we can truthfully say "It was a good whistler." In letting the mantle of charity fall over the whole affair, we do not follow the universal expression of our people, who will be slow to inaugurate another so-called carnival in the years to come, unless assured of something far betfer than we were given in the one alluded to. In getting up the late lamented, it was thought best to have all amusements and entertainments upon our streets, eliminating the racing at the fair grounds, always a part of former carnivals and one of its greatest attractions, and this was done in part, the only entertainment otherwise given being the ball games at the park, which were admittedly interesting, the game between the fats and leans on Wednesday, in which the pride was completely broken in the bombastical fats, the leans getting them good and plenty, while the game Thursday between the Auroras and Prairie Dogs was one of the prettiest exhibitions one could ask, in which the latter won in a closely contested struggle by a score of 3 to 1. On the streets, the free exhibitions consisted of fellows hanging by their knees from horizontal bars and talking back to each other in clownish fashion on one platform, while on another four colored gentry sang songs and did dialogue stunts. The concessions were placed in a sort of a "bull pen" on the bank corners, much to the complaint of the business men, who thought they should properly be placed along the entire two business blocks, thereby benefiting all kinds of mercantile houses, rather than one almost entirely. The feature of the carnival was the running of two or three daylight robbery games, one of them being said to be the noted Tom Dennison collar button policy game, which, before the committee got them stopped, and they claim they did as soon as they could after complaint was given, robbed the gullible innocents of over $1,000, as claimed by the so-called gamblers themselves. Thursday was the biggest day, because of excursions from Aurora, St. Paul and Grand Island and crowds from Arcadia, Sargent and the countround about Loup City. A heavy rain coming Thursday night and keeping up its blessed work all the forenoon of Friday rendered the carnival hors du combat on its last day, not greatly to the regret of others than the concessionaires, none of whom are accredited with gaining much wealth during the three days.

Hymeneal.

Last Friday at the court house, Judge Angier officiating, Lewis S. Bly and Miss Inez Fisher were united in wedlock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher of Logan township, a very charming young lady and has a host of friends among her young associates. The groom is a son of E. Bly of Schaupps and highly esteemed by those who know him. The Northwestern extends congratulations.

Spite Affairs Wink Out.

Another spite newspaper has gone the way alloted to the newspaper that is not a newspaper but a club. When the Howells Journal began to insist on enforcing the Sunday closing laws in the village an opposition paper was started, presumably on encouragement furnished by the liquor dealers. That venture soon failed. Then a second paper was started on the ruins of the old, supposedly by the same interests. Those who had promised support failed to keep their word. They had discovered that such a weapon is a sword of tin. It languished and has finally expired.—State Journal.

Notice to Non-Resident Defendant.

State of Nebraska, } SS
Sherman County, }

To Arrow Lumber and Shingle Co., a corporation, non-resident defendant:

You will take notice that on September 10th, 1907, the Keystone Lumber Company filed its bill of particulars against you before J. A. Angier, County Judge of Sherman county, Nebraska, the object and prayer of which are to recover the sum of $190.00, now due and payable for the breach of a certain contract for the delivery of certain lumber, and that an order of attachment was duly issued in said action by said County Judge for said sum of $190.00, which was made returnable on Sept. 20th, 1907, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, and that said order of attachment and a notice of garnishment were duly served upon the J. P. Leininger Company, as garnishee in said action, and that on Sept. 20th, 1907, said garnishee appeared and answered and admitted that it was indebted to you in the sum of $190.00, and was ordered to pay the said sum into court.

Said cause was continued to the seventh day of November, 1907, at the hour of nine o'clock in the forenoon, at which time you are required to appear at the office of J. A. Angier, County Judge of Sherman county, Nebraska, in Loup City, Nebraska, and answer said petition, or judgment will be rendered against you, and said indebtedness, so attached and garnished, be applied in satisfaction thereof.

the Studebaker Wagon stands for the qualities that make wagons desirable. Light-running and easy on the team, durable because the lumber is seasoned right before being finished. Made to stand up under heavy loads.

THE STUDEBAKER WAGON

is built from first-class material down to the minutest detail. The slow-growing, fine-grained, tough-fibered black birch from the rocky hills of New England is used in the hubs, select white oak is made into spokes and felloes and choice second growth, butt cut hickory is used for the axles. Every other part as carefully selected. The skeins, tough and hard, are forced into place on the axles under 100 tons pressure. Studebaker slope shoulder spokes are driven into the hub under the same tremendous pressure. Best and toughest iron and steel strongly reinforces every part where needed. The Studebaker is
