J. W. BURLEIGH, Ed. and Pub

Submission.

The following beautiful poem was taken from the Christian Herald of April 6th, written by our Presbyterian pastor:

Thou knowest, Lord, the way I go.
My wants, my cares, my joys, my fears:
The plan of life for all below
By Thee is marked for coming years
Yet Thou dost joy to have me pray,
And spread before Thy mind my cares:
The needs of life—its toils—and lay
Before Thine eyes temptation's snares.
I ask not that my life shall be
Henceforth without its cares or needs,
Or even from temptation free;
I only ask that He who feeds
The ravens when they cry—the fall
Of sparrows marks, and clothes the flower—
In deepest need shall hear my call
By giving me o'ercoming power.
And so, whate'er Thou choosest, Lord,
To give of blessing or deny;
However long may seem Thy word
In its fulfilment, I'll rely
Upon the wisdom of Thy mind,
That works for my completion; whose
All-seeing plans are ever kind.
Whatever Thou in love dost choose.
—DAVID WALLACE MONTGOMERY.

District court took a recess last week Wednesday till June

Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, the so-called boss of the senate, will not be up for re-election, is the latest of rare interest in politics. And it is mighty good news, too.

It is reported Senator Norris Brown's friends are putting him forward for the supreme judgship made vacant by the death of Justice Brewer But Norris says he does not want it and won't have it.

It is announced that Senator Hale of Maine will nor be a candidate for re-election to the U. S. senate. He is said to have gotten cold feet over a probable defeat, in case he tried. Just imagine Aldrich and Hale going way back ahd sitting down.

Well, William Jennings Bryan has "arrived hum" and is now in the Nebraska capital, with wondering democrats in suspense over what may happen, with Bryan insisting on Nebraska democrats taking up the cudjel in favor of county option.

The State Fair management has made a contract with the Curtiss peopls for aeroplane fights on four of the principal days of the fair. This will be one of the greatest attractions of the State Fair and will draw thousands of our people to see the airships.

The latest of senatorial interest on the democratic side of the house is the withdrawal of "Little Giant" Thompson of Grand Island as a candidate for the senatorial toga. The result is said to be attained by the refusal of the "Little Giant" to get into the race along Bryan's county option pronunciamento, Thompson not taking to the "dry" proposition promulgated by the "Peerless" leader.

Senator Burkett and Congressman Kinkaid appeared before the committee on public lands Monday morning in support of a bill enabling those who took 160 acres prior to the passage of the Kinkaid Act to take an additional 480 acres of land on Kinkaid homesteads. Congressman Kinkaid has the bill in the house and Senator Burkett in the senate and the chances are good for the passage of the measure.

The people of Fremont have been trying to secure Billy Sunday, the evangelist, for a series of meetings. They found that Sunday had engagements for two years ahead and they would have to raise $3,000 for the evangelistic genius, in order to secure him for a few weeks, and besides go to the expense of building a tabernacle of generous dimensions, costing quite a financial expenditure. They have taken the matter under advisment.

Boys' Acre Corn Contest

To the Nebraska boy under 18 years of age, growing the largest yield of corn from one acre of ground, in year 1910, $50; the second, $25; third, $20; fourth, $15; fifth, $10; and to the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh, $5 each.

The entire labor of preparing the ground, planting, cultivating and harvesting of this acre of corn to be performed by the contestant, who enters contest by recording his name in the office of W. R. Mellor, Secretary, Lincoln, not later than May 20, 1910. Said acre to be measured, husked and weighed in the presence of two disinterested free-holders, residents of said county in which the acre of corn is located. Said committee to forward affadavit as to weight and requirements of specifications in this contest to the secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, not later than November 15, 1910. The contestant shall file with the secretary a full and detailed account of his method of performing the work, fertilizer used, if any, and character of the soil on which the crop was grown. On request of secretary a sample of the ten ears must be exhibited by prize winners at the office of the Board in Lincoln. Over 90 boys entered this contest last year and one boy succeeded in raising 113 bushels on one acre. Boys, why don't you try?

Foul Murder Unearthed

Broken Bow, Neb., April 18.—Two years after the mysterious disappearance of O. F. Hamilton from Mullen, county seat of Hooker county, his body was Saturday dug from a hastily made grave near the stock yards at that place. The finding of the body was brought about by a confession made Saturday by Frank Cleavinger, who filed an affadavit stating that C. W. Rector and himself had been unwilling witnesses to the murder, and charges H. G. McIntyre, who is now a Burlington brakeman, with having committed the crime. On the night of the murder, which occurred about 11 o'clock, Cleavinger's confession states, he and McIntyre entered a saloon at Mullen by a rear entrance, and that Hamilton was seated in a corner, apparently asleep. According to Cleavinger, McIntyre first awoke Hamilton and then struck him over the head with a revolver, rendering him unconscious. The prostrate form was then rolled down the cellarway, where, the affadavit says, the murderous work was completed. Cleavinger states that C. W. Rector also was a witness to the murder, and that both were compelled to assist McIntyre, under threat of death, in burying the body, first in the cellar and the next night in removing it to the grave where it was found. Hamilton's body was recognized by a ring which he wore. Judge Homer Sullivan, who examined the exhumed body, declared he could find no evidence of the skull having been fractured. Cleavinger and McIntyre are under arrest but Rector has disappeared. McIntyre was a drayman at the time of the alleged murder, and he later became a railroad switchman at Seneca, Neb. He was given a preliminary hearing Saturday afternoon, at which he pleaded not guilty. The trial of the case has been set for the May term of the district court. Owing to considerable excitement at Mullen, McIntyre has been removed to Grand Island, as a precautionary measure. Two years ago secret service men were sent into Hooker county to investigate alleged land frauds. Hamilton was active in giving aid to these officers, and thereby, it is said, incurred the enmity of a number of people. Soon his property was burned and he received threatening letters, warning him to cease his activities. Hamilton then disappeared. Several weeks ago a statement from persons residing in the vicinity of Mullen was sent to Gov. Shallenberger. The statement was to the effect that many persons iu the vicinity believed Hamilton had met with foul play and asked that an investigation be made. The matter was placed in the hands of the county attorney.

Enumerators After You

Throughout the length and breadth of the land last Friday the census taker sallied forth with his string of questions. Some will seem silly, some impertinent, to the person quizzed. When the answers are tabulated at Washington the results will not seem so. It is therefore to be hoped that people will not mistake the enumerator for the assessor and will not answer him according to habits formed under the tutelage of the personal property tax. Your secret is safe with the census. If the enumerator "leaks" he is liable to a fine of $1,000. On the other hand, if you refuse to remember, a la captain of industry in court, a stiff fine awaits yourself. This is the nation's taking of stock. It should tell much of the general direction we are following, and should abound in suggestions of future improvement. To lie to the census taker is like luring a ship with false lights. Welcome him then, and tell him the truth as you never told the truth before. Here are the questions the census takers will ask from door to door:

Your name in full.
Relationship to the head of the family with which you live.
Sex.
Color or race.
Age at last birthday.
State whether you are "single" or "married" or "widowed" or "divorced" at the present time.
If married: Is this your first marriage?
Number of years married to your present husband or wife.
If a married, widowed or divorced woman:
How many children have you had?
How many of these children were living April 15, 1910?
Where were you born?
If foreign born, what is your mother tongue or native language?
Where was your father born?
If father was foreign born, what was his mother tongue or native language?
Where was your mother born?
If mother was foreign born what was her native tongue or language?
If of foreign birth:
In what year did you immigrate to the United States?
Have you been naturalized?
Can you speak English?
If not able to speak English, what is your native language or mother tongue?
What is youy trade, profession or usual occupationb
In what industry or business are you engaged?
State whether you are an employer, or a worker for wages, or a salary (employe), or are working on your own account, without employing others?
If you are an employe (worker), answer the two following questions (if an employer or working on your own account, omit these questions:
Were you out of work April 15, 1910?
How many weeks were you out of work during the year 1909?
Are you able to read (either English or some other language)?
Are you able to write (either Englis or some other language)?
Have you attended school or any educational institution any time since September 1, 1909?
If you are the head of the family livinš in this home, state:
Whether the house is owned by you or rented.
If owned by you, is it mortgaged?
Were you in either the confederate or union army or nacy at the time of the civil war?
Are you blind (both eyes)?
Are you deaf and dumb?
What is your mother tongue or native language?

St. Paul's oratorio society will give "The Messiah" this evening at Normal. No admission fee will be charged. Mrs. Tekla Farm-McKinnie, who is in the city for a few days, will be present and will assist on the program. Mrs. McKinnie was formerly with the Savage grand opera company, and later leading soprano soloist with Madam Schumann-Heink. She will also sing Sunday morning at St. Paul's Methodist church.—State Journal, April 15th.

The ground was just like a garden, but the wheat is a failure.
