EVENING STAR, CHALLENGE —AND— CHARTER OAK STOVES

The demand for CHARTER OAK, CHALLENGE and EVENING STAR Stoves has grown so rapidly of late that we have not filled orders as promptly as desirable; but having now secured the assistance of another Stove Foundry, we shall hereafter confine nearly the entire force of our own establishment to the production of the Stoves above named and hope to fill all orders without delay.

We would call the attention of those about purchasing, to the SUCCESS and POPULARITY of all of THESE STOVES. No better evidence of their intrinsic merit can be offered than a statement of the fact, that after 18 years use and being subject to severe tests in all kinds of localities, and to the most bitter and determined opposition that could be invented, that they are to-day, the MOST POPULAR STOVES in the market, and have given such universal satisfaction THAT THE DEMAND IS GREATER THAN EVER.

If you want THE BEST COOKING STOVE FOR WOOD, buy the CHARTER OAK.

If you want THE BEST COOKING STOVE FOR COAL, buy the CHALLENGE.

If you want THE NEATEST AND BEST SHEET IRON PARLOR STOVE ever made, buy the EVENING STAR.

THE WAR.

A Royal Order.

BERLIN, November 2.

The following royal order of the day is published this morning:

Soldiers of the Confederate armies:—When, three months since, we took the field, I said God would be with our just cause. That the confidence has been fully realized, witness Woerth, Saarbruck, Metz, Sedan, Beaumont, Strasbourg—each a victory for our arms. To you belong the merits and the glory; you have maintained all the virtues which especially distinguish soldiers.—With Metz, the last army of the enemy is destroyed. I take this opportunity to thank you all, from the general to the soldier. Whatever the future, I look forward to it calmly, because I know that with such soldiers victory cannot fail. Signed, WILLIAM.

BERLIN, November 3.

The bombardment of New Breisach is carried on by three batteries near Biescheim and and Wolf Ganger. Fort Montry is assailed by three batteries near Alt Breisach.

TOURS, Nov. 2.

The Government is in receipt of advices from Paris to October 28th. The Prussians had resumed, in force, some positions they had previously abandoned. From others they had been dislodged after hard fighting, and the Parisians held these points and were fortifying them. The principal cannon foundry of the city, which is capable of turning out ten guns per day, had completed iron clad locomotives armed with heavy ordnunce. The same establishment was busily employed in the manufacture of chassepots and light artillery. The National Guard had received 36 new field pieces.

Addresses to the Government demanding an energetic prosecution of the war continue to pour in from all parts of the country. At Marseilles the Mayor gave in his resignation in order to be free to enlist in the ranks, and he declares women may well call cowards now able bodied men who do not join the army.

Advices from Paris state that such a formidable system of defence by barricades has been arranged that it will be impossible to take Paris by assault.

Cable to the New York World.

LONDON, November 3.

A Paris correspondent writing on the 27th says that, after the departure of the Americans, the exodus of the English will take place, together with the remainder of the British embassy. The English staying here will be under the protection of the American Minister.—About 300 English avail themselves of the permission to depart, food becoming scarce and dearer daily. At the horse market yesterday 700 were sold for culinary purposes. There had been a previous sale. They all passed examinations as to fitness for food. Donkeys and mules were also bought for cooking purposes, the former being in great request on account of the resemblance of the flavor to veal.

A correspondent of the World was the first civilian allowed to enter Metz after the capitulation. He found two Americans who had been there during the whole siege, Charles M. Eustice, of Boston, and Dr. Baylan, of New Haven.—The latter belonged to the American ambulance corps. The citizens universally condemn the capitulation and conduct of the defense. There was positively no starvation and very little suffering. The city was full of all descriptions of provisions and prices were moderate. On the walls and in public places the inhabitants have written, "Bazaine et coffineres deux traitres et deux laches."—The forts in and around Metz were amply provisioned until March next.

Bismark is unwilling to let the war continue into winter, and fears popular outbreaks everywhere.

News from Italy is to the same effect. The following are the exact words of Garibaldi's orders of the day alluding to America: "President Grant, by lifting his little finger, might have sent Prim's soldiers in Cuba back to Madrid, but he allows the murder of the entire population of Cuba, who are a part of Washington's great family. He barely permits the great Republic to fling a word of sympathy to the brave descendants of Lafayette, but France has risen as one man and will make the old autocrat repent having sought this butchery."

A dispatch from Brussells states, that before leaving Metz, Bazaine took out of the army treasury his salary as Marshal and Senator.

The armistice has been concluded.—The conditions are as follows: Its duration will be 25 days; the inhabitants will be at liberty to bring in food during the interval.

VERSAILLES, November 3.

In consequence of the terms proposed yesterday by Thiers and accepted to-day by Bismarck, the latter offers to the French an armistice of 25 days to allow general elections to be held throughout France. The armistice to be based on the milliary status in quo existing on the day of signature.

BRUSSELS, November 3.

The independence Belge says we daily recive visits from escaped officers of Bazaine's army. Their testimony is conclusive as to the treachery of their commander. The municipal officers of Metz have issued an address to the inhabitants exhorting them to patience under misfortunes for which they are not responsible. The country and history will exhonerate the people of Metz from any share in ignominy of her commanders.

LONDON, November 3.

Garibaldi, in an order of the day, reproaches the republics for their failure to act for mutual defense. Referring to the United States, he says one of Washington's greatest family barely permits the Republic to fling a word of sympathy to the brave descendants of Lafayette. He makes a fervent appeal to America to aid her sister nation in her struggle for liberty.

LONDON, November 5.

The election in Paris on the question of the maintainance of the powers of government and national defense, has resulted in an overwhelming majority in favor of the government. The returns of the city are almost complete, with the exception of three arrondissements. The result is as follows in round numbers: Ayes, 441,000; noes, 49,000; majority, 343,000. Perfect tranquility exists in Paris. According to late advices there has been no military movements whatever since last Sunday.

Count De Chambord is reported to have arrived in France incognito, and is now near the Rhenish frontier.

There is increasing bitterness here at slights of Bismarck, as shown in his firm language to the English, as contrasted with his course to Americans and Prussians.

A special dispatch from Versailles, dated 10 p. m., Nov. 4th, says the provisional Government seem to be playing a double game. They officially assured the citizens that the government would consent to no peace involving cessation of territory, but Theirs assured Bismarck that every member of the government was convinced that the constitutional assembly would make peace on basis of surrender of the Rhine provinces, and payment of indemnity, and that they would not oppose such settlement.

BERLIN, November 5.

The General commanding at Metz made the following report:

By the capitulation of Bazaine 53 eagles, 541 field guns, ammunition for more than 85 batteries, 800 siege guns, 66 mitrailleuses, 400,000 rifles and sabres, 2,000 military carriages, a powder factory, etc., fell into the hands of the Prussians.

A correspondent at Paris, writing on the 29th says:

Yesterday my butcher gave me notice that he could give me no more meat. I went to the ward office and got a ticket authorizing the municipal butcher to give me one-fifth of a pound. I sent my servant for the meat at 8 a. m., and he returned at 2 p. m., having been compelled to wait six hours at the ward office to get the order filled.

Gustave Flourens has two of the Emperor's horses, which were in the stables. All is quiet in Paris. Napoleon has appointed an agent to pay his tradesmen's bills. Placards are on all the walls, calling upon all his creditors to attend a sale of the effects of Napoleon and Eugenie two months after the siege is over. The Provisional Government refuses to deliver to the Empress her cashmere shawls and laces.

The balloon factory turns out one a day. Silk is now too expensive, and they are made of cotton.

Many Parisian actors serve in gardes mobile at St. Denis, where nightly concerts at the maximum rate of admission are held.

Horse flesh, surloin and rump, are sold at eighteen cents, and all other parts at eight cents. There are still 42,000 eatable horses left. The catacombs have given six months' supply of saltpeter.—The cellars and one vault of the Pantheon have been stored with powder.

A World special, dated London 5th, says:

In various engagements, from the 20th of October to the present time, the French troops displayed increasing valor, and good discipline. The Prussian losses from that date amount to 2,819 men, killed, wounded and prisoners. Your correspondent, writing from Garibaldi's headquarters, dated 30th, says: On my way hither I saw Mazzini at Leghorn. He was as resolute as ever, but has grown white and worn. He could not bear to speak of Rome. He said: "I am proud that Italians offer their services and lives for republican principles in France.—Could they have thought they might have saved Italy and helped France.—More efficiently an Italian Republic was possible. Three months ago Garibaldi could have done it with me if he had dared, or without me if he did not choose to work with me when I was in prison. Should the war last, should France triumph, Garibaldi will be remembered."

NEW YORK, 5.

U. S. District Attorney Davis issued to-day his final instructions to the federal supervisors of each election district.—He informs them that while they have no power to arrest, it is their duty to call the attention of a deputy Marshal when ever they suspect a crime is about to be committed; it is their duty to be present during the canvass, and notice any violation of Sec. 22, of the act of Congress of May 1870; to call upon Deputy Marshals to protect them in the discharge of their duty; they may affix to each certificate any statement as to its fairness they may desire to make; they must not be deterred from the performance of their duty by threats or insult, as they are intitled to the amplest support, aid and protection from the U. S. authorities, and which will be accorded them.

Tours, November 4.

The announcement of the conclusion of the armistice at Paris has been officially made here.

Berlin, November 4.

The North German Gazette to-day says that before the capitulation of Metz Bazaine ordered his men not to destroy or throw away their arms and accoutrements, because if they were surrendered to the Prussians they would be restored at the close of the war, with all the fortresses, &c. This the Gazette, a semi-official organ, pronounces a deception and an unwarranted statement.

London, Nov. 4.

The Cabinet, while in extraordinary session to-day, received a dispatch announcing the acceptance by Trochu of the armistice on the termes proposed by Count Bismark.

The armistice commenced on the 4th of November and ends on the 28th.

The decree ordering the election will be issued to-morrow.

The constituent assembly is invoked to meet on the 15th inst.

Mark Twain pays the following just tribute to lovely woman:

Human intelligence cannot estimate what we owe to woman, sir. She sews on our buttons. She ropes us in at the church fairs; she confides in us; she tells us whatever she can find out about the little private affairs of the neighbors; she gives us good advice, and plenty of it; she gives us a piece of her mind, sometimes, and sometimes all of it. In all the relations of life, sir, it is but a just and grateful tribute to say of her that she is a "brick."

She is an ornament to society and a treasure to the world. As a sweetheart she has few equals and no superiors.—As a wealthy grandmother, with an incurable distemper, she is precious. As a wet nurse, she has no equal among men. What, sir, would the people of the earth be without women? They would be scarce! Then let us give her support, our encouragement, our sympathy—ourselves, if we ever get the chance.

The following from an exchange is so appropriate that we must publish it:

Last week a man stepped up to us and said he would pay us every cent he owed us if he lived till Saturday night. We presume the man died. Another said he would pay us in a day or two, as sure as he was born? Query—did the man lie, or was he ever born? Another said he would settle as sure as shooting. We are led to the conclusion that shooting is mighty uncertain. Another said he hoped to go to the devil if he did not pay us in three days. Have not seen him since, but we trust he has not hoped in vain. Quite a number said they would see us to-morrow. Those men have been blind or else to morrow has not come. One man told us six months ago that he would pay us as soon as he got it; he never got it.

A young man down in Bates county, about three weeks ago, made a small wager that he could eat a hundred peaches. He won the bet, but died, like any other hog. Last week a New York man made a bet that he could eat 50 lemons. He tried to prove it, and died in the attempt, and Doesticks is called to mourn the demise of another of the D. Phool family.

An Indiana man who wanted a divorce tried to save the lawyer's fee by persuading his wife to kindle the fire by pouring coal oil on it from a can. The widower afterwards found that the damage to the cooking stove was more than the fee would have been.

Real Estate.

WE HAVE MADE ARRANGEMENTS with Thomas Pollock and J. Wesley Barnes to take charge of our Abstract Books and carry on our Real Estate business. They will give their entire attention to the business—paying taxes for non-residents, buying and selling Real Estate on commission, examining titles, furnishing abstracts of title, and transacting all business pertaining to Real Estate, and will be found careful and reliable men in every respect.

The business will be carried on in our name and in our office adjoining our law office. Our Abstract will be posted up daily and will be found reliable.
