Dunn's Trade Review.

New York, April 18.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

With all its lack of uniformity, commercial news gives tangible reason for encouragement and optimism, and even poorest reports suggest no basic weakness. Considering the formidable problems of readjustment, it is far from strange that sharp contrasts are still presented, nor do the divergent conditions in trades and industries obscure the fact that the main movement is steadily forward. Where the gain is most slight and unconvincing, or where none whatever appears, the retarding elements are both economic and political in character, and it becomes increasingly clear that the broader business development waits largely on the actual consummation of the peace treaty. It is significant, however, that whereas special stress was recently put on the various uncertainties and obstacles, now the emphasis is on the hopeful and constructive aspects, and the change of sentiment marks a distinct advance toward the attainment of that full measure of progress which seems to be plainly foreshadowed. Weekly bank clearings $6,362,941,289.
