2,000,000 TEUTON TOTS MAY STARVE

So Declares Head Director of German Children's Feeding Body.

Berlin,. Oct. 15.—More than 2,000,000 children in Germany face starvation this winter unless the outside world aids them with money and food.

That is the statement made at the headquarters of the German central relief committee by Hans Gramm, director of the children's feeding organization, whose principal task is saving the youth of the crumbling German nation.

"The committee is entirely out of funds," said Gramm. "There is not a penny in its coffers. Hitherto the committee has been financed chiefly from America by the Hoover relief administration, the Quakers and by Americans of German descent.

"Twelve million dollars have been distributed in four years, but last month the money ran out. Even before that only 500,000 of the 2,000,000 recommended by physicians to be taken care of could be fed.

"This winter the conditions are bound to become desperate. The catastrophic drop in the value of the mark has brought even larger sections of the people to the edge of starvation and has cut off possible native help to that extent. The collapse of the mark has established what is practically a blockade against the purchase of foreign foodstuffs because they cannot be paid for.

"The specter of Russian conditions of the last year and those of Austria of two years ago hangs over Germany this winter."

It is estimated that $8,000,000 will save tens of thousands of young lives.
