Jake Daubert, Veteran Ball Player, Dies

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 9.—Weakened by a double operation, Jake Daubert, captain and veteran first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, died early today.

Blood transfusions, attempted yesterday as a last desperate effort to save the ball player, were futile.

Daubert, who was 39 years old, was extremely popular with the fans. He had been on the team six seasons, starting the year Cincinnati won a world's championship, largely by Daubert's heavy hitting and clever work at first base.

Mrs. Daubert was with him when he died at Good Samaritan hospital. His home was in Schulkill Haven, Pa. Funeral arrangements have not been completel. A son, George, is a freshman at Pennsylvania State college. Daubert was struck on the head by a ball pitched by Allan Sotheron at St. Louis last May. Last week he was operated upon for appendicitis and gall bladder trouble.

Rain Handicaps Bluejay Squad

An aggravating rain that drenched the Creighton university athletic field and some 30 or 40 varsity aspirants, kept Coach Chet Wynne's warriors from scrimmage last night.

Instead of bucking up against Coach McGahan's "frosh," the crippled eleven went through signal practice, followed by a long session of skull improvement via the chalk board route.

The big gap left by Krasne, giant tackle who will be out of the lineup for some time due to a dislocated shoulder suffered in scrimmage Tuesday, was plugged up by Morgan and Benolken in last night's workout.

Final scrimmage before the opening North Central conference game with Des Moines university Saturday will be held tonight on the Bluejay field.

Tickets for the first collegiate football game in Omaha this season which are on sale at the regular ticket stations, are reported to be going fast. A nominal charge of $1 for general admission, and $1.50 for reserved seats will be charged.

President Coolidge Rearranges Working Program to Attend Series

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 9.—Working schedules were shifted today at the White House to continue for a two-day period. The usual program gave way this afternoon when President Coolidge slipped out to the ball park for the sixth game of the world series and when Washington tied it up the president immediately decided on another shift in his plans to permit attendance at the final contest tomorrow.

White House attaches registered their full approval, for the jinx which has followed the Washington team on Mr. Cooldge's last two trips to the baseball park here have been broken. He attended the first game of the season when Walter Johnson shut out Philadelphia and they insisted his attendance at the final tomorrow will bring the same luck.

The ecstacies of joy indulged in by the capital rooters this afternoon when Zachary subdued the Giants and brought Washington even terms for the series were shared in only slightly milder form by the president and Mrs. Coolidge.

Manager Harris' drive to right in the fifth which sent the tying and winning runs over the plate brought Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge to their feet with the shouting mass of rooters, cheering enthusiastically. Mr. Coolidge expressed his enthusiasm by vigorous handclapping, but Mrs. Coolidge, a close follower of the Senators, dropped her score card to wave a part of the shawl draped over her shoulders as Peckinpaugh and McNeely dashed over the home plate.

The fans had sensed the turning point for not until Washington went to bat in that inning did the president pull out a cigar. He had no sooner lighted it than the fireworks began.

Leaving the park after Zachary had forced Wilson to swing at the third strike ending the game, the presidential party ran into members of the Washington team leaving the field by a subway and Mr. Coolidge stopped to shake hands with "Muddy" Ruel, Washington catcher.

THREE ARRESTED IN MINE SHOOTING

Elkins, W. Va., Oct. 8.—Three former employes of the Rock Island Coal company were arrested late today in connection with the shooting at the company's mine at Meriden today in which Lee J. Sandridge, general manager and vice president of the company, and three of his associates were wounded.

The three men, all negroes, who gave their names as Granville Norris, Clifford Norris and Joe Newman, were arrested at Phillipi, near Meriden, after bloodhounds had followed a trail to their homes.

The four mine officers were enroute to reopen the Meriden on a non-union basis when they were shot by persons concealed in the underbrush on a hillside. With Sandridge at the time were Brown Talbott, H. P. Currens and Paul Wamsley. All were brought to a hospital here where it was said tonight all will probably recover.

SNOWSTORM TIES UP RAILROADS

Denver, Colo., Oct. 8.—A severe rain and snow storm, which entered Colorado from the northwest Tuesday night ,interrupted telephone communication over the Denver and Salt Lake railroad's line, suspended the power supply at the west portal of the Moffat tunnel and delayed Denver and Salt Lake passenger train No. 2 five hours today on its journey from Craig to Denver.

Two feet of snow was reported tonight at the east portal of the Moffat tunnel and over Berthoud pass in the most severe snow storm in Colorado since last spring.

Dawes Campaign Enters Wyoming

Candidate to Swing East Again After Speech Thursday at Casper.

Dawes Special En Route to Casper, Wyo., Long Pine, Neb., Oct. 9.—Charles G. Dawes, republican candidate for vice president, carried his speaking campaign today from the prairie region of the middlewest into the plains state of Wyoming.

The trip into Wyoming today for two speeches, a rear platform talk at Douglas and an afternoon speech at Casper, represented the farthest point west that Dawes will reach in his campaign. Plans already have been tentatively made for an eastern tour to follow the present trip, and it has been virtually decided that the vice presidential nominee will conclude his campaign in the middle west.

General Dawes, after his address at Casper, will turn about eastward and will spend Friday in Nebraska, speaking from his train at Grand Island, Columbus and Fremont, and at a night mass meeting in Omaha.

Tells of Nebraska Work.

Dawes called on his own experience to illustrate his frequently made declaration that the nation's problems cannot be solved by demagoguery in a speech last evening at Norfolk, Neb.

"I have been thinking as I have been riding through Nebraska of what they call western radicalism, because I learned what it was at that time, for I was called a radical," he related.

"You had a system of freight rates in this state which had been employed on what is called the 'long haul' theory to get the largest rates the traffic could bear. But, in addition to that, they had framed the local rates in the state of Nebraska so as to discourage the production of those goods and commodities within this state which could be sold in your home markets of Omaha and Lincoln. They had arbitrarily raised the rates locally in the state of Nebraska above the states around it because they wanted to keep this state devoted to the production of raw materials upon which they could get the rates to the east and prevent the production of commodities here which could be sold in Omaha and Lincoln.

Radicalism of Two Types.

"We got that adjusted. We didn't get it adjusted by demagoguery. We didn't get it adjusted by oratory. We got it adjusted among the farmers and among the business men by a presentation of the case in a business way. Yet they called us radicals, and I remember what the radicalism of the west was at that time. It was the effort of earnest men who objected to things in the existing order and wanted to right them. They were not against the existing order of things. They were patriotic, liberty-loving, law-abiding citizens who wanted to correct faults, who wanted to make government better, who wanted to make it fairer, who wanted to make it something that was just.

"There is a great difference between that kind of radicalism and the radicalism of New York and Chicago, where men are opposed to the existing order of things, not simply against some things in the existing order."

Victim of Diphtheria.

Cleo, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Winebrenner, Bellevue, died Wednesday at her home of diphtheria. Funeral services were held at 10 Thursday morning from the residence. Burial was in Bellevue cemetery.
