CENTRAL COMMITTEE MEETING.

The Republican central committee of the 14th judicial district is hereby called to meet at Indianola, Neb., on the 5th day of August, 1891, for the purpose of fixing a date for the judicial convention and transacting such other business as may come before the committee. CHAS. W. MEEKER, Chairman.
Attest: J. Byron Jennings, Secretary.

NEBRASKA republicans need nothing so imperatively as they do a change of leaders.

JUDGE COCHRAN'S errors have all been on the side of mercy. A fact which is not hurting him very much among the farmers.

GOV. THAYER will do until '92. If Nebraska Republicans feel that they must have a change, why lets reorganize the state central committee and unload a few bum leaders.

THE Arapahoe Mirror announces last week that whatever newspaper notoriety the candidates may acquire through its columns, this fall, must be paid for the same as a business man pays for his advertising.

WE betray no confidence when we state that Attorney Morlan will not be our next District Judge unless he secures the independent nomination. He will accept no other nomination under any circumstances. He has not withdrawn from the Alliance, either.

THE state board of transportation contemplates making a ruling reducing the time (48 hours) now allowed for holding cars, while filling same with grain, to 24 hours. It is claimed that to facilitate the handling of Nebraska's matchless crop, this season, this action will be necessary. Other more stringent regulations will be required also.

JUDGE COCHRAN is one of the best known public men in Western Nebraska. He is popular among all classes. He is an old pioneer, started with the country and grew up with it. He is and always has been identified with the interests of the people. He shares their fortunes and misfortunes. His ability as a lawyer is undoubted, his fairness as a judge is beyond suspicion, his honesty as a man is irreproachable. The party that nominates him will have no cause to regret it. He is a winner.

CITIZENS' vs. FARMERS' ALLIANCE.

From the Maywood Standard.

We do not wish to make this question monotonous but it is the honest belief of your humble servant that this subject deserves a rigid investigation and that now is the time to make it. As the conventions draw apace we see the croppings of deceit and malace from the old parties through their agents to destroy the prospects of a man that has stood by the farmer. I am in favor of the farmers naming the men for office. It was the Farmers' Alliance that championed and won the first grand victory for reform last fall. It is the Farmers' Alliance to which we look for grander results this fall. I do not believe it is prudent to recognize the demand made by those resolutions passed by the Independent Central Committee of Red Willow county, for they certainly signify something more than they show up. They have the appearance of being a sly dodge to make the nomination of some pet doubly sure. The Farmers' Alliance has no use for pets, lawyers or office seekers. They do not need to be subjected to iron-clad resolutions to do the right thing. They know whom to trust their interests with and will not stand subject to the dictates of a junior order in matters of vital importance. The Citizens' Alliance has not taken part in an important campaign yet and stands subject to criticism as much as any organization in existence until it proves by its acts that it deserves the place it claims to occupy. It admits attorneys one day and seeks their nomination by the farmers the next no matter what they were previous to becoming members of that order. If the farmer accepts the Citizens' Alliance as a prop to reform I fear a premature crash to the whole move by the giving away of that one prop. As the matter now stands in this, the 14th judicial district, we have a Citizens' Alliance figuring to secure the nomination of a lawyer and a politician for the office of district judge. Will the farmers submit to such an imposition or will they come to the front and nominate a man they know to be ready to stand between them and mortgage foreclosures when they are unable to meet the interest. I need not name the man that has nerve to do that godlike act for helpless humanity, for it is already a familiar name to every farmer in the district. I am sincere in this matter and propose to stand by Judge Cochran until the nomination is made regardless of the resolution that was passed for the sole purpose of barring him out of the Independent convention and thereby make certain the nomination of some unknown man.

THE PEOPLES' CHOICE.

From the Oxford Standard.

There having been a slight misunderstanding among a few regarding the position of Judge Cochran as a candidate for re-election, we were pleased to see the gentleman himself in Oxford, a few days ago, and have a talk with him concerning the subject. The Judge's attitude, if we understand him, is this: He has always been a republican, but as such he has been a conservative partisan and never a politician in the true sense of the word. He is free to admit, however, that touching some of its principles, he is not in entire harmony with the rank and file of his party, and that while he endorses certain measures advocated by the Independent, he is not willing to renounce his republicanism. He considers it poor policy to change one's policy on the eve of election, anyway. The Judge has spent most of his life on the farm and has always been in sympathy with the laborer and the poor man, a fact attested by his rulings during his term of office. He has received many assurances of support from this class, irrespective of political lines, and notwithstanding the combined opposition of corporations and designing politicians if the selection of a judge were to be left to the people, we believe the choice would fall upon Hon. J. E. Cochran. The Judge has hosts of staunch friends in the peoples' party, and if they see fit to confer upon him the honor of a nomination he will gladly accept.

S. R. SMITH'S District Judge boom is now chasing the dapper little Citizens' Alliance god around his law office in Indianola.

A TRUE FRIEND OF THE FARMER.

From the Arapahoe Pioneer.

The large number of candidates that are already laying plans and scheming to capture the nomination for Judge of the District Court, brings to mind the fact that this office of all others, should be given to the man who has the best legal ability, combined with a clear record for honesty and justice to the masses of the people. Judge J. E. Cochran, the present official, is a tried and true friend of the farmer, as his positive stand the past year very clearly shows. He stood out against the money lenders and loan companies, and by this fearless action prevented them from taking many a poor man's home. The monopolists and monied men are all against him because he believes in impartial justice to his constituents. It now remains for the farmers and laboring men to show their appreciation for his ability and past services by giving him the nomination by an overwhelming majority. There is not a man living in the district to-day who is better qualified for the office or who can give the masses fuller justice than Hon. J. E. Cochran.

IT IS said that Hon. W. S. Morlan of Arapahoe has become such an adept in Alliance matters that he recently instituted a new one up in Gosper county with his eyes bandaged and his hands tied behind him..... Those old party papers which persist in trying to read Farmer W. S. Morlan of Furnas county out of the Alliance do the gentleman a great wrong and it is difficult to see the object to be gained by their couse. Should Mr. Morlan fail finally to be nominated for something by the independents he will doubtless withdraw from the organization and make a draft on Burrows through some one of the dozen or more banks owned or controlled by him for the amount he has expended in initiatory fees and dues, but until he does so common fairness demands more considerate treatment of him by the old party press.—Journal.

THE farmers are not alone in their desire for capable, honest, fearless men for office. Principles without good men to represent them do no good. The bench is among the few places where legal ability is required. There is no official who comes so near the hearts of the people as the judge who impartially, fearlessly and honestly metes out justice between his fellow men. Judge Cochran is a man of ability, is worthy of the honor, and satisfactory to the people. No one can say anything against him as a judge.

GOV. THAYER is holding his position until his successor is elected and qualified. Such election must be held on even years and at the same relative time, according to the constitution. It is quibbling over a point upon which no controversy can be made, and substantiate it by the governing law of the state.—Kearney Enterprise-J.
