Growing in Popularity.

The silo is growing in popularity among the farmers who have carefully tested out the merits of the same. The Benkelman News reports the following rsults in Dundy county:

"Five head of cattle in the feed lot, fed 40 pounds of ensilage and 10 pounds of alfalfa, each, per day, for 46 days, resulted in an increased weight for each beast of 110 pounds, or a gain of more than 2 3-10 pounds each per day. This was the record made by Clyde Ketler of Big Timber for the five head he recently sold, and proves the value of the silo for feeding purposes. Heretofore the best record in this section, so far as known, has been a gain of 2½ pounds a day in a period of 90 days,made by a feeder in southern Cheyenne county."
