EXPERT ACCOUNTANTS INSPECT UNIVERSITY

REPORT TO BE PUBLISHED—COST OF TEXT BOOKS AND SUPPLIES.

RANK OF THE UNIVERSITIES

Nebraska Ranks Twelfth in 1909—Columbia Is First With 6,132 Students—Report for This Semester Not Yet Out.

John M. Tulleys, state accountant, and John M. Gilchrist, special accountant, have completed a checking up of the university, which when put in shape for publication will be the most exhaustive inspection ever given that institution.

The published report will show just how much salary each instructor is paid and just how many days he has worked and how many hours a day. It will show further how many hours is devoted to each study and how much it costs the state to instruct the pupils in each line of study. It will show also just how many students are instructed by each professor or assistant.

Report on Text.

The report goes into the matter of text books, which are bought and sold to the students at cost, and shows that the state is running this department on a very narrow profit, though the students have been saved considerable money by the adoption of this plan of handling text books.

A complete report is made on the purchase of supplies for the institution and includes the copy of bids which have been filed. The indications are some of these bids will be a revelation to the public when published, as in some cases they are as wide apart as though some of the dealers did not expect to get the contract bid on.

Attendance at Schools.

The annual pamphlet, compiled and published by Prof. Rudolph Tombo, jr., of Columbia University, showing the enrollment of the twenty-eight leading American universities, is just off the press. His comparative statistics show that on the whole considerable gains have been made all along the line, although this year four institutions—Iowa, Minnesota, New York university and Yale—show a loss as compared with the previous year. The greatest gains have been made during the year by Columbia, Chicago, Wisconsin, California, Cornell, Ohio and Pennsylvania, in the order named.

According to the figures of 1909 the twenty-eight universities rank as follows:

| No. | Name. | Enrolled. |
|---|---|---|
| 1. | Columbia | 6,132 |
| 2. | Harvard | 5,558 |
| 3. | Chicago | 5,487 |
| 4. | Michigan | 5,269 |
| 5. | Cornell | 5,028 |
| 6. | Pennsylvania | 5,457 |
| 7. | Illinois | 4,502 |
| 8. | Minnesota | 4,351 |
| 9. | Wisconsin | 4,245 |
| 10. | California | 4,084 |
| 11. | New York University | 3,834 |
| 12. | Nebraska | 3,611 |
| 13. | Yale | 3,275 |
| 14. | Syracuse | 3,248 |
| 15. | Northwestern | 3,197 |
| 16. | Ohio | 3,012 |
| 17. | Missouri | 2,589 |
| 18. | Texas | 2,492 |
| 19. | Iowa | 2,246 |
| 20. | Indiana | 2,231 |
| 21. | Kansas | 2,114 |
| 22. | Tulane | 1,882 |
| 23. | Stanford | 1,620 |
| 24. | Princeton | 1,400 |
| 25. | Western Reserve | 1,083 |
| 26. | Washington | 1,003 |
| 27. | Virginia | 707 |
| 28. | St. Johns Hopkins | 710 |

With a few exceptions there have been general gains in the attendance of the male undergraduate academic departments, the most increases being shown by Princeton, Nebraska, Stanford and Kansas. The enrollment of undergraduate women also shows a satisfactory increase; at Cornell and Syracuse the number of undergraduate women is larger than that of the men. Harvard continues to lead in the number of male academic students, being followed by Yale, Princeton, Michigan, Chicago, Wisconsin, Columbia and Minnesota.
