The Fee Hike . . .

The Board of Regents' action in approving a tuition fee increase of $.50 per student for the present size Daily Nebraskan has caused some confusion in several students' minds. Since the Board met after the final edition of last spring's Daily Nebraskan, very few students were informed of the decision. Although a summary appeared in yesterday's paper, the raise in tuition should merit a more detailed explanation.

Most of the confusion stems from the purpose of the student poll conducted last spring to determine student reaction to a raise in tuition. This fee hike would provide funds for a Student Union building addition and for the continuation of the larger Daily Nebraskan. The vote was conducted by the Student council with faculty supervision.

The final results revealed student approval of the Union addition but the provision for the larger Nebraskan was voted down. And here is what was confusing. The vote was conducted for student reaction to the proposal, not for student approval or disapproval. This purpose was clearly stated in the first published information on the vote, and both the Student council and concerned faculty members were aware that this vote was not final.

This poll was conducted in the period between two Board of Regents meetings. At the meeting immediately prior to the vote, the Board had approved a $1.50 tuition hike that would provide additional funds for the Student Health center. The Union and Nebraskan request were computed so as not to exceed the $80 tuition limit set by the Board.

At the meeting held after the vote, the Union and the Rag petitioned the Board for their respective requests. The Board approved both petitions and the tuition was raised to $80 for the following semester.

One immediate result of this decision by the Board of Regents is evident in the Rag you are reading. But the culmination of this decision will appear in the future when University students will enjoy enlarged recreational facilities in their Union.

The Rag Congratulates...

MISS SUE ALLEN . . . recently-elected national president of the student YWCA. Throughout her college career, Miss Allen has been an inspiring part of the University and its activities. Her reputation as a leader and an outstanding worker is not only a personal triumph for her, but is a compliment to the University which she attends. DR. WILLIAM H. WERKMEISTER . . . for his recognition as an author. His latest work, "History of Philosophical Ideas in America," was cited as a major contribution to the development of philosophy in America. All of Dr. Werkmeister's books, four in number, are used extensively as textbooks throughout the nation. THE 1951 CORNHUSKER STAFF . . . for reducing the prices of the yearbook and the individual pictures. Long a sore spot among the students, the price of this year's Cornhusker should help immensely in promoting the worthwhile investment in a college yearbook. DUANE LAKE . . . director of the Union and president of the National Association of College Unions, who has been asked to lead a discussion concerning recreation on college campuses at the meeting of the National Recreation congress. The request reflects the efforts of Mr. Lake and his associates to achieve an excellent recreation program at this University. FRESHMEN AND NEW STUDENTS . . . for their decision to make the University their educational home.

Vacancies Exist In Navy ROTC Training Program

Freshmen entering the University were advised Thursday that vacancies still exist in the Navy ROTC contract training program.

Sapt. T. A. Donovan, professor of Naval Science and Tactics, said the program provides for four years of training. After graduation the student receives a commission as an ensign in the U.S. Naval Reserve or a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps reserve.

While enrolled in the training program, students are exempt from the draft, Donovan said.

During the last two years, the trainees receive subsistence pay during the school year. While on the summer cruise in either the junior or senior year, they receive active duty pay. Trainees may take any course leading to a bachelor of arts or science degree, plus a stipulated number of naval science courses.

Interested students are urged to visit the Navy ROTC office, Room 103, Military and Naval Science building.

ROTC Selects Honor Students

Sixteen University ROTC students have been designated Distinguished Military Students, Col. Jomes H. Workman, professor of Military Science and Tactics, announced Friday.

The sixteen students are:

John E. Gudgel Jr., John W. Maher, Miroslave H. Mataja, Robert B. Myers, James M. Rosenquist, Gordon R. Denker, Henry D. Kadavy, Charles M. Bressman, Allan P. Decker, Donald D. Jensen, Sanford W. Jones, Rolland L. Egger, Richard H. Meisner, Edward D. Pullen, James M. Wroth, Oscar F. Decker.

Frosh Pepster Group Complete

The freshmen pep group in its second year of existence has filled its quota of 308. Applications for membership have been accepted from 154 students.

Dick Kuska and Janet Carr, representing Corn Cobs and Tassels are in charge of the pepsters and are hoping to expand the number of activities of the group this year.

The pep squad members are required to attend all football games and all pep rallies. The boys wear red sweaters with white megaphone emblems, and the girls, white sweaters with red megaphone emblems. All squad members will be required to wear freshman beanies to intensify the red color of the "N", which is formed by the group on the student side during every game.

Members of Corn Cobs and Tassels will have charge of the freshman members. Each leader will have charge of approximately ten members. They will check the attendance and general behavior of the freshmen.

Student Health Provides Complete Medical Care

The Student Health center offers many services to the University students. Dr. Sam Fuenning, director, is operating an efficient staff for the disposal of the students.

The staff is composed of three full-time doctors, ten full-time nurses, 16 visiting specialists, ten consulting specialists, one lab. technician, one X-ray technician, and one dietition. Specialists come once a week. They include consultants on eye, ear, nose, and throat; surgery, internal medicine, orthopedics, urology, allergy, gynecology, skin or dermitology, neurology, and psychiatry.

A physiotherapist has also been added to the staff Sept. 1. He divides his time between the health center and the athletic department.

Other facilities available to the students are X-ray units, laboratories, E. K. G. tests, and basal metabolism tests.

Entrance to the center is by I. D. card only. Upon presentation of the card at the reception desk you can be admitted or examined. Examinations include blood tests, chest X-rays and test, laboratory tests, immunizations, speech and hearing exams, etc.

Hospitalization is taken care of on the second floor. Surgery is referred to any city hospital of your own preference, but about 95% of the hospitalization cases are taken care of in the center. Isolation is provided for contagious diseases.

These many services are available without extra charge seven day a week at any time. After service calls are restricted to emergencies as much as possible.

Student health doctors do not make house calls. If house calls are requested students are referred to an approved doctor who will make the call.

When staying in the center a $2 charge per day is made to cover its operation expenses. Funds for the majcr expenses are alloted then from the tuition fees paid.

Any prescriptions given are filled at the pharmacy dispensory at cost plus ten percent.

Visiting hours at the Health Center are 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. and 7:00 to 8:30 p. m.

College Poll Analyzes Job Qualities

Are you tired of government expense? Are you enthusiastic?

If yes is the answer to both these questions, then you agree with the minority of college and high school boys according to Eugene Gilbert, founder and president of the Gilbert Youth Research organization.

Sixty percent of the boys in high school and college want the government to guarantee that they get a job, declares the 24-year-old, Chicago-born executive in an article entitled "If I were Looking for a Job" in the September American magazine.

"If I were looking for a job today, I'd start out with all the enthusiasm I could muster to find my opportunity and sell myself. I'd start out by knowing the products or abilities I have to sell. You aren't likely to get hired if you have no idea what you want to do or can do," declares Gilbert.

His advice is to take an aptitude test or examination that will help discover your potentialities if you are confused about your type of work or abilities.

"By being enthusiastic you unconsciously let your prospective employer know about yourself. Sometimes that's all that is needed to get the job," he stated.

He added that few people are ever antagonized by real enthusiasm. There are many organizations which aid in discovering the locality in which the type of work desired is likely to be found.

Alumni Plan Buffet Lunches

The University Alumni association is making plans to continue its buffet luncheons at the Union prior to the Cornhusker home football games this fall

John Lawlor, association president, said Thursday the luncheons are for Nebraska alumni, their families and friends. They will be held in the main dining room on the second floor of the Union from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., to assure everyone plenty of time to get to their seats in the Stadium.

The luncheons are informal and there is no program. They were started two years ago, Lawlor said, to give Cornhuskers opportunity to gather near the Stadium, eat their lunches and get to the game. The response of alumni to the idea has been very enthusiastic, Lawlor said.

Alumni wishing to join these noonday reunions preceding home games are asked to make reservations with the Alumni office, Student Union, Lincoln; as early as possible.

Coeds' Dresses Brightened By Different 'Dress Tags'

"Your dress tag is showing" some freshman is apt to say. "Dress tag nothing," she says. "It's identification for my sorority!"

Just another detail for the newcomers to learn, especially if they want to find an easier way to introductions. Here is a list to help them out.

If you are one of those who aren't familiar with the system, the ribbons will be substituted for the more recognizable pledge pins, in about six weeks if not sooner. Until then, remember to watch for these bright identification tags.

Alpha Chi Omega—red and green.

Alpha Omicron Pi—red.

Four Foreign Students Enroll

Three German and an Austrian joined the ranks of foreign students at the University this week.

Early arrivals include Heinz Schreiner, University of Vienna; Emmy Werner, University of Mainz, Germany; and Gudrun Wiebe, Stuttgart university. As they arrived in Lincoln, the three were met by faculty and student representatives. A later arrival was Huebert Bruns, German student from the University of Munich.

Schreiner is a chemistry major, who is also interested in radio. Miss Werner, from the French zone of Germany, majors in psycology. Wiebe is a geography student.

All speak English but have had to become used to midwestern pronunciation. "At home they taught us to pronounce "a" with an "ah" sound," mourned one, "while here. . ." American slang will also be added to their vocabularies.

. . . and remember what I said about clean sportmsmanship . . . don't use 'em unless you have to.
