Pairings Set for Annual Moot Court Competition

The University College of Law board of advisors has announced pairings for the annual Allen Moot Court Competition which begins at the University Thursday.

Qualifying and semifinal rounds will be held this fall. The winners of the semifinal match will participate in the final round next spring.

Argue In Fall

Winners in the qualifying round, all sophomores and juniors in law, will again argue cases next spring to determine next year's semifinalists.

The final round will be held in the Nebraska Supreme Court chamber. The rest of the cases will be heard in the Moot Court room, first floor, College of Law.

The teams and time of arguments are as follows:

In the qualifying round Charles Wahl and John Sullivan v. Neil Stillinger and Jack Lewis, Nov. 20, 2 p.m.

Joe Carter and Blaine Riecke v. Bill Gilmore and Larry Frazier, Nov. 20, 7:30 p.m.

Jack Craven, Walt Gallawa and Herbert Mayer Jr. v. Claude Berreckman and Alan Grove, Nov. 21, 2 p.m.

Clarence Danley and Dale Babcock Jr. v. Robert McCalla and Robert Knapple, Nov. 21, 7:30 p.m.

John Haessler and Richard Huebbner v. Kennard Kelly and Ken Nakegawa, Nov. 24, 2 p.m.

Don Leonard and Robert Walker v. Howard Spencer and Larry Miller, Nov. 24, 7:30 p.m.

Roger Langenheim and Richard Petrie v. J. B. Fournier and Eugene Ballard, Nov. 25, 2 p.m.

Semi-Finals

Contest Arguers Chosen

Three senior law students were announced as members of the University's moot court team which will participate in regional competition at St. Louis, Mo., Wednesday through Friday.

Peter Andersen, Richard Fellman and Ronald Raitt will make up the court, Prof. Allen Axelrod, coach, announced today.

A case which involves the constitutionality of federal criminal statute will be argued at the court. The statute prohibits corporations from sponsoring television programs for candidates for the U. S. Senate.

Teams representing South Dakota, Creighton, Kansas, Kansas City, Missouri, Washington at St. Louis, Kentucky, Louisville, Washburn and St. Louis will also participate in the contest.

The winner of the regional competition will compete in the national contest in New York City Dec. 17-19. Since entering the competition in 1953, the University team has won the regional contest twice and the national once.

YWCA Interviewers Say Marriage Won't Interfere

Marriage won't interfere with a career in YWCA.

This was the opinion of Sally Beck, Young Adult Program Director of the Lincoln YWCA, and Betty Wilson, executive director of the University YWCA.

"The YWCA is just as interested in the young married woman who wants to combine work outside the home with marriage as it is with those whose wish is for a vocation first, then marriage," the two said.

Interviewing

Miss Wilson and Miss Beck are interviewing prospects for work within the YWCA.

Interviews with Miss Beck will be 1-5 p.m. Wednesday in Room 1, Rosa Bouton Hall and may be arranged through the YWCA campus office in Rosa Bouton, 420 No. 16th.

Interviews with Miss Wilson should be arranged in Room 116, Home Economics Bldg. She will interview prospects in the Social Room, Home Economics Bldg., 1-5 p.m., Dec. 2.

Wide Openings

Teen-age program directors, young adult program directors and health education directors are needed as well as staff members in coed programs.

Openings of these types are available throughout the country, in community YWCA's, on college campuses and in areas to which new YWCA programs are being set up.

The only qualifications necessary are the ability and desire to work with people of different ages, races and faiths, and imagination and concern for Christian and democratic principles.

An A.B. degree and experience in working with groups of people, either through camp counseling or playgrounds, or in campus projects, church or similar programs, also is helpful to those interested in working with the YWCA.

Read Slow? Try NU Counseling

Interested in a speed reading course?

Anyone who wishes to register in the course, offered by the University Counseling Services, must do so by Nov. 25.

Students may register at the Counseling Service, 108 Administration Hall.

Registration will be limited to undergraduates with grade averages of 6.0 or better, freshmen from the top 25 per cent of their high school class and graduate students or faculty.

According to the Counseling Service, a student may expect to get some of the following things from the course: how to read faster and learn more; how to read more widely and more wisely and how to improve comprehension.

Goal Won't Fall? Fans Saw a Way

Several hundred enthused Nebraska football fans couldn't manage to topple Memorial Stadium's steel goalposts Saturday afternoon, but an early Sunday morning enthusiast did leave his mark.

Students who worked at the stadium Sunday morning clearing away bleachers reported they found a hacksaw on the scene. Investigation showed that the saw had apparently been used during the night by a person or persons to cut off a vertical portion of one of the goalposts above the crossbar.

The students said the same culprit had apparently attempted to cut through the goalposts near the base but had found it too thick.

Final Bridge Lessons Planned

Concert Features Violinist

The University Orchestra, conducted by Prof. Emanuel Wishnow, will present its annual fall concert Sunday at the Union ballroom.

Miss Joyce Flissler, violinist, will be the featured guest artist. She will play Beethoven's Violin Concerto with the orchestra.

Miss Flissler is the only violinist outside the Iron Curtain to place in the international Tschaikowsky Music Competition. This competition was the same competitive festival which brought fame to Van Cliburn.

While in Russia, Miss Flissler also played with the Leningrad Symphony and gave a solo recital in Leningrad. She made her debut in the concert world as the winner of the Walter W. Namburg Musical Foundation Award. She has made concert tours through France, South America and the United States.

The University Orchestra will play "Overture to an Italian Comedy," by Benjamin; "A Dance Rhapsody," by Delius; "First Essay for Orchestra," by Barber; and "Midsommarvaka - Swedish Rhapsody," by Alfven.

Tickets for the concert are free and may be obtained this week at the Union Ticket office. They will be honored at the door until 7:45 p.m., when non-ticket holders will be admitted if seats are available.

Students Placed On Probation

Three students have been placed on conduct probation by J. Philip Colbert, Dean of Student Affairs, following a recommendation by the Student Tribunal.

The students were tried in an open hearing reported by the Daily Nebraskan. They will be on conduct probation until the end of the semester, Judy Truell, Tribunal secretary said.

School System Approved With Reservations—Beggs

"The American people want some changes in education but in the main, after taking a long hard look at education, they like what they saw," Dr. Walter Beggs, dean of Teachers College said Friday evening.

Dr. Beggs delivered the closing speech of the two-day sesion of the Nebraska Association of School Administrators held at the University.

Climate of Panic

"The year 1958 started out in a climate of panic and is ending on a note of determined and guarded optimism," he said.

Dr. Beggs called the controversy a very healthy experience. He said somewhere during the year, the public quit listening to the "calamity howlers" and began looking at the real situation.

"The public wants higher performance on all levels in skilled as well as academic areas," Dr. Beggs said.

Shifted Emphasis

Friday morning, Dr. Frank Henzlik, professor of school administration, told the administrators that "school administration has shifted its emphasis from things to people."

Dr. Henslik, the former dean of Teachers College, listed seven qualities that lead to administrative effectivness or success.

The qualities included purpose, interest and enthusiasm, and the ability to make executive decisions and to work with and handle people.
