COMPUTER RENTAL !
In house and off-site rental.
IBM compatibles and Macintosh available.
Support and training on most popular packages.
Open weeknights and weekends.
When you need a computer for an hour, a day, a week or a month.
Discounts with Student I.D..
For more information call,
Computer Designs, Inc.
477-4944
835 "S" Street

American Heart Association
This space provided as a public service.
©1993, American Heart Association

Society in Turmoil.
MAD FOREST
February 16-18 & 21-25
TICKETS ON SALE NOW!
CALL 472.2073
THEATRE ARTS & DANCE
BOX OFFICE: TEMPLE BUILDING, 12TH & R STREETS
UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA-LINCOLN

Great music Great Clothes.
ZeRo StReeT & THE OZONE
Indies & Imports
Records, Tapes
CDs, Videos
Zines
Special Orders
Many CDs for less.
Buy • Sell • Trade
435-8299 for both stores
Buying Leather Jackets
New & Used Clothes
Silver Jewelry
Shoes & Things
Levi's - $10
Ear Piercing - $6
Body Piercing - $35
CASH for used Levi 501s & Doc Martins
2 Great Stores
1417 O Street 14th & "O"
1 Great Location
1411 O Street

▶ 10% Discount with UNL Student I.D.
NO APPOINMENT NECESSARY
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK
▶ 15 tanning beds
▶ Register for Spring Break Tanning Pkg. GIVEAWAY
MAX TAN INC.
"The Guaranteed Tan"
Just 5 minutes from campus
Westgate Shopping Center
(Behind Runza)
477-7444
MasterCard VISA

Plug Into the World with FREE Herbie Classes
Now that you have your computer account you can discover how to tap into the resources available to you on the internet. These classes are free and no reservations are required. Seats are available on a first come, first served basis. Call 472-0515 if you have any questions.

Intro to E-Mail
Friday, February 17	12:30 - 2:00 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Monday, February 20	12:30 - 2:00 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Tuesday, February 21	1:30 - 3:00 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Tuesday, February 21	3:30 - 5:00 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Advanced E-Mail
Thursday, February 23	12:00 - 1:30 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Friday, February 24	12:30 - 2:00 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Electronic News
Wednesday, February 15	9:30 - 11:00 a.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Friday, February 17	9:00 - 10:30 a.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Friday, February 17	2:00 - 3:30 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Monday, February 20	2:00 - 3:30 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Wednesday, February 22	2:30 - 4:00 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Finger/Talk
Thursday, February 16	12:30 - 1:30 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239
Friday, February 24	2:00 - 3:00 p.m.	Bancroft Hall, 239

Men's golf coach hopes team will get into swing of things

By Andrew Strnad
Staff Reporter

After a fifth-place finish in the Big Eight last fall, the Nebraska men's golf team is hoping for bigger and better things as the spring season fast approaches.

Coach Larry Romjue, in his 25th year as the men's coach at Nebraska, said the fall season had given him good reason to be optimistic this spring.

"We played pretty well the entire fall," he said. "I felt like we continued to improve from tournament to tournament. We turned in some very consistent performances."

The Cornhuskers return with most of last year's team, with the exception of Jamie Rogers, who returned to his home in Australia.

Romjue said as many as five players had a legitimate chance to compete at the NCAA Championships.

Trent Morrison returns as the No. 1 golfer for the Huskers.

Morrison, a sophomore from Brisbane, Australia, finished tied for 12th at Regionals last year, one shot away from qualifying for the NCAAs.

Other key returners for the Huskers include junior Henrik Johansson and senior Steve Reiter.

"Johansson made a big improvement from last year," Romjue said. "He played extremely well in the fall."

Nebraska added freshman Ryan Niefeldt, a two-time Nebraska junior champion from Grand Island.

Romjue said everyone would have to step up for the Huskers to make a run in the Big Eight.

"Oklahoma State and Oklahoma, of course, will be on top as usual," he said. "The rest of the teams in the conference won't be too far behind."

Oklahoma State and Oklahoma are ranked second and fifth nationally.

The Husker men's golf team begins play Feb. 24-26 at the South Florida Invitational in Tampa, Fla. Romjue said he hoped this meet would help his players get into the swing of things.

"We are looking for much better things this spring," Romjue said. "Last year we did what we had to do to squeak into regionals, but we didn't have any illusions of doing anything beyond that. We have three people back from that team, and we've added some quality depth and talent."

Romjue said his team had a shot at advancing beyond the regionals to the NCAA meet this spring.

Going to NCAAs wasn't a reasonable goal last season," he said. "This year should be a different story. The talent level is certainly good enough to get it done."

Coach says early season opener will benefit women's golf team

By Trevor Parks
Staff Reporter

The Nebraska women's golf team got a boost in morale last week.

The Cornhuskers, who have been practicing at the track area in the Bob Devaney Sports Center, finished ninth with a three-round team score of 941 at the UCLA Pioneer Electronics Golf Classic last week.

Coach Robin Krapfl said competing in the earliest meet in school history would have major benefits.

"It helps to get a tournament under our belts," Krapfl said. "It definitely helps morale because hitting indoors gets kind of boring."

The Huskers had some good individual performances at their spring opener in Los Angeles.

Junior Molly Mullin led the Huskers, finishing in a tie for 22nd with a three-round total of 232.

Mullin finished 16 strokes behind the winner, Arizona State's Heather Bowie.

Junior Michelle Patterson and junior Heidi Wall finished tied for 33rd with a total of 236.

Other finishers for the Huskers were freshman Rachelle Tacha, who finished 43rd with a 239, and senior Melissa Odell, who finished in a tie for 58th with a three-round total of 243.

But after being in Los Angeles for almost a week, the Huskers must go back indoors now.

Krapfl said the winter weather could affect her team, but she didn't expect any major problems.

"As long as we're mentally prepared, practicing indoors is not that big of deal," she said.

But Krapfl said the Huskers' short game may be affected.

The Huskers are coming off a successful fall, in which they won the Husker Golf Classic, finished fourth at the Gopher Invitational in Minnesota and fifth at both the Diet Coke Roadrunner Invite and the Memphis Women's Invitational.

Nebraska has picked up one member since the fall season.

Maureen Regan, a transfer from Minnesota, will compete in her first meet as a Husker when Nebraska travels to Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 20-21 for the River Wilderness Invitational.

Another transfer, Heidi Wall, helped Nebraska tremendously last year after transferring from Georgia.

Krapfl said she would have liked Wall, a graduate of Lincoln Southeast, to stay in her hometown, but understood why she left to go to school out of state.

"She was definitely the top recruit we wanted," Krapfl said. "I think once you leave Nebraska and then come back you realize it's not such a bad place after all."

Gym

Continued from Page 7

The Huskers have the weekend off before hitting the road again to face Oklahoma in Norman, Okla., on Feb. 24. By then, Nebraska should be completely healthy and poised to hit mid-season form.

"I think we should be at 228 for the rest of the year," he said. "I just haven't convinced them of that yet."

NOTE:

- Nebraska, averaging 226.865 points a meet, trails only New Mexico (227.0375) and Ohio State (226.935) in the national rankings. Stanford, which finished runner-up to Nebraska at nationals a year ago and won the championship in 1992 and 1993, is in danger of failing to qualify for regionals if it doesn't shape up, Allen said.

"They don't care right now," he said. "They think they can wait a month and turn it on. But if they don't step it up, they aren't going to make it."

Huskers

Continued from Page 7

"Me and Jaron weren't on the floor together a lot of the time," Strickland said. "That made it a lot easier on Kansas to concentrate on shutting us down."

Strickland said the combination of Boone and himself could be a weapon Nebraska shouldn't waste.

"It really is important because it makes the other team concentrate more on us, and the other guys can really get into the game," Strickland said. "Then we get those other guys contributing."

Kansas started the second half on a 13-4 run and increased its 47-45 halftime lead to 70-56 with 10:19 remaining in the game.

Boone said the start of the second half was crucial to the outcome, especially in close games.

"Nobody was being selfish," Boone said. "We were just playing as a team. When you come in at the beginning of the half, the first three minutes is when you finally get loosened up. You're ready to get into the flow."

Kansas

Continued from Page 7

From that point on, it was all Kansas, which improved to 19-3 and 8-2 in the Big Eight.

"I think it was their defense," Nee said. "We started missing the shots, and they didn't give us the good open 3s like they did in the first half. We missed a couple of easy shots and the lid just went on. When it went on, that was it. The frustration had set in."

Kansas, which had nine players score in the first half, opened the second half with a 15-6 run and increased its lead to 70-56 after a basket by Raef LaFrentz with 10:19 left in the game.

"We talked about how we had to put two good halves together," Nee said. "Why (Nebraska didn't), I can't answer."

Nebraska made one last run after falling behind 70-56.

Senior forward Melvin Brooks scored six of Nebraska's eight unanswered points, which cut Kansas' lead to 70-64 with 6:56 left.

But consecutive 3-pointers by Greg Gurley and Billy Thomas answered the Husker threat as the Jayhawks pulled out to a 76-65 lead — a lead that would never drop back into single digits.

Meanwhile, Nebraska scored only one point in more than five minutes until Boone's basket with 1:52 left.

"You just can't do that against a top 10 team," Nee said. "You can't play like that in the final six minutes."

Boone and Strickland, who combined for 27 first half points, finished with 20 and 17, respectively.

Badgett, who finished with 10 points and nine rebounds, said the Huskers wouldn't give up after the loss dropped them to 16-8 overall and 3-6 in the Big Eight.

"Anything can happen," Badgett said. "It's not really over. We'll just have to tighten up and find a solution to this problem."