CORNELL DECLINES IF CONKLING CAN SUCCEED.

ALBANY, June 1.—1 a. m.—The half-breeds tried in vain to get Cornell, to say whether he would accept or decline the election, but he openly asserted that he would not accept, and therefore instructed his followers to scatter their votes until such a time that he could be convinced that Conkling was absolutely defeated. Up to midnight Cornell gave no sign that the use of his name was authorized.

The half-breeds say "silence means consent," and it was resolved at the conference last night to consolidate on him at the first opportunity either to-day or Thursday. The half-breeds have decided to bulldoze Cornell into accepting if possible.

Speaker Sharpe has announced that all votes cast for him should be turned to Conkling and Platt.

The stalwarts point to the fealty of Sharpe and compare it with the position of Cornell, asserting that the latter is secretly working in his own behalf and using the power of his present position to insure his election as senator. Cornell's position is strong and he has in his possession nearly two hundred bills in which the members are personally interested, and awaiting his signature or veto. The "half-breeds" also urge that Cornell feels his key to the position and is determined to show the full power and effect of his position; that he is resentful, because of the statements of Conkling's friends, that he is the political creation of Conkling.

NO CAUCUS.

ALBANY, June 1.—There was no caucus of the stalwarts last evening, nor of the half-breeds. The latter held a conference and renewed their pledges of faith. It was decided to continue voting "scattering" for the few ballots in joint convention to-day, and if the test showed strength enough to be relied upon, they would confer again. The fact is the half-breeds are entirely at sea. The first choice candidates are: Cornell and Depew, but up to this time, Cornell positively refuses to be a candidate, and remains openly true to the stalwarts. There was a sharp contest in the half-breeds conference last night to force the naming of candidates, but was opposed by a majority of the faction.

A Ghastly Mystery.

CHICAGO, May 31—Further startling discoveries have been made in connection with the severed head and headless corpse of a man found in the woods in a suburb north of this city yesterday. A bundle of clothing consisting of a comforter, hat and coat were discovered, stowed away in a hollow tree where the head was found. The hat and coat were of unusually fine material, but evidently of foreign manufacture. Inside the hat were blood stains and tufts of fine light colored hair. The pockets of the coat contained the cards of a hotel in Bremen, printed in German and Bohemian, and also several little articles that would naturally be carried only by a well-to-do person. The identity of the man is still a mystery. Everything leads to show he was a newly arrived foreigner, and murdered for his money.

PROBLEM YET UNSOLVED.

Conkling Struggling Hard for His Return to the United States Senate.

Cornell Coming to the Front with a Following Likely to Take the Prize.

Both Factions Fail to Obtain Enough Followers to Hold a Caucus Last Night.

In all Probability the Muddle Will be Settled To-day or To-morrow.

Resigned to Their Fate.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 31.—All hopes of a preliminary republican caucus were abandoned this morning, and the stalwarts determined to test their strength in the house and senate without calling together their forces outside of the regular sessions. Last night conferences were held up to a late hour at the Delevan House, and Geo. Sharpe and Assemblyman Astor were closely closeted with Messrs. Conkling and Platt, and an earnest discussion took place which did not end till early this morning. The senate and house will proceed to ballot this morning, for successors to the seats in the United States senate made vacant by the resignations. After the first ballot it is expected that an adjournment will take place, and an effort to be made to unite upon a caucus nominee. The half breeds claim that the number of republican pledged to keep out of caucus is sufficient to defeat any caucus whatever.

The first ballot in the house resulted as follows: Conkling 26, W. A. Wheeler 15, Choate 5, Wm. M. Evarts 3, Rogers 6, Cornell 5, Lapham 1, Ward 1, Warner Miller 1, Samuel F. Edeck 1, Judge Telger 2, Wadsworth 2, Andrew D. White 2, Theodore M. Pomeroy 1, O. N. Chapman 1, H. E. Siemain 2, S. B. Dutcher 1, R. E. Trenton 1, Hamilton Fish 1, T. G. Alvord 2

In the senate the first ballot for United States Senator, as successor to Platt resulted as follows: Wm A. Wheeler, 1; E. G. Lashan, 2; Francis Kernan, 7; Thomas C. Platt, 8; Noah Davis, 2; Sherman S. Rogert, 1; Chauncey M. Depew, 7; Wainer Miller, 2; Jos. H. Choate, 1; Speaker Sharpe, 1.

For successor to the short term vacated by Conkling, the vote was as follows: W. A. Wheeler, 4; Sherman S. Rogers, 5; John C. Jacobs, 6; Jude Telger, 2; Geo. B. Bradley, 1; Theodore M. Somersy, 2; Governor Cornell, 3.

SECOND DISPATCH.

The vote in the assembly to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Conkling resulted as follows: Roscoe Conkling 26, John C. Jacobs 47, Wm. A. Wheeler 15, Sherman S. Rogers 8, R. A. Crowly 5, Alonzo B. Cornell 6, A. C. White 2, Thos. G. Alvord 2, J. W. Wadsworth 2, Charles J. Folger 2, Henry E. Tremaine 2, Wm. M. Evarts 2, Hamilton Fish, Silas R. Dutcher, Reuben E. Fenton, O. W. Chapman, Theo. M. Pomeroy, Warner E. Miller, Hamilton Ward, Sam. S. Edick one each.

THE REPUBLICAN VALLEY

Bountiful Crops Reported in the Entire Valley,

And Business of all Kinds in a Prosperous Condition.

Correspondence of the Bee.

CAMBRIDGE, Neb., May 27.—During a recent trip through the Republican valley I frequently heard it remarked by traveling men that the crops looked better than in any other portion of the country. The rye is from forty to forty-five inches high, and headed out. Most of the spring grain is ten inches high and growing very fast. Some corn is up, but only a part of the corn ground has been planted yet. There has been plenty of rain and the ground is in excellent condition.

Home hunters are numerous. Hundreds of emigrant wagons are coming from the east. Business has been very dull during a few months past, but is improving now.

Stock growers have been more successful in the valley than grain raisers. Many of the immigrants are bringing herds of cattle and flocks of sheep, and the Republican valley is not likely to call for aid again. There are fifty thousand sheep in Furnas, Harlan, Franklin and Webster counties alone, and this will be increased sixty per cent during this year.

A few brick buildings are being built. The largest brick structure in process of construction is the new hotel at Cambridge. The building will be 36 by 40 feet, with three floors. It is the property of C. C. Messer, one of the most popular hotel men in the west.

This spring the ice-break carried away all the bridges on the river except the one at Riverton. Many of these will be rebuilt.

A few years ago this was considered exclusively St. Joe territory for mercantile trade, but now the greater part of this trade is handled by Omaha firms. J.

The Iowa Dairy.

Hawkeye.

With the opening of the present season an immense impetus has been given this branch of agriculture, not altogether unexpected by those who have been watching its rise and progress during a short period of years past, and yet surpassing somewhat the most ardent expectations. The almost unequalled good pasturage, beginning with the early days of May and continuing until the present, has been the means of vastly increasing the product of the dairy above that of any corresponding period of time, and has had a tendency to considerably depress the price of butter throughout the entire breadth of the country. The product of the various factories being mainly sent away in bulk has resulted advantageously to the family dairy on a small scale, in keeping the local markets from becoming over stocked, and enabling families who manufacture but a few pounds of butter weekly to dispose of the same readily at a fair price, just alike to producer and consumer.

It is to be hoped that ere long the dairy business will so adjust itself that butter will not be manufactured so nearly exclusively as has been the case for about two years past, but that dairymen will soon find it to their interest to return to the manufacture of a good, honest full cream cheese, uncontaminated with that miserable fraud known as "anti-huff," one of the greatest misnomers in the English tongue, and the presence of which in a cheese, will set well disposed persons in the most violent "huff" imaginable. It is a notorious fact that through the robbery of the cream, and the introduction of this fraud, but a very modicum of the real old-time cheese has been placed on the market for two years past, while the shelves of the factory and the counters of the grocer have been disgraced by the presence of a substance having the form and outward appearance of cheese, while in reality it was but a delusion and scarcely more gratifying to the palate than common sawdust. We shall hope soon to see all the old-time honored full cream cheese again in the ascendancy; and sufficiently plenty that lovers of the genuine article will experience but little trouble in obtaining it—when in possession of sufficient of the "circulating medium" to produre it.
