RIDICULOUS IDEAS

ARE ENTERTAINED ABOUT PURGATIVES. IT IS DANGEROUS TO SCOURGE THE STOMACH, TO RASP THE BOWELS, TO PROSTRATE THE NERVOUS SYSTEM, WITH FURIOUS EVACUANTS. NATURE HAS GIVEN A SAMPLE IN THE FAMOUS SELTZER SPRING, OF WHAT THE BILIOUS CONSTIPATED OR DYSPEPTIC SYSTEM NEEDS FOR ITS RESTORATION, AND IN Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient SCIENCE HAS IMPROVED ON NATURE BY COMBINING ALL THE VALUABLE INGREDIENTS OF THE GERMAN FOUNTAIN IN A PORTABLE FORM. Time and Love.

Time flies. The swift hours hurry by,
And speed us on to untried ways;
New seasons ripen, perish, die—
And yet Love stays—
The old, old Love, like sweet at first,
At last like bitter wine;
I know not if it blest or curst
Thy life and mine.

Time flies. In vain our prayers, our tears;
We cannot tempt him to delays;
Down to the past he bears the years—
And yet Love stays.
Through changing task and varying dream
We hear the same refrain,
As one can hear a plaintive theme
Run through each strain.

Time flies. He steals our pulsing youth;
He robs us of our care-free days;
He takes away our trust, our truth—
And yet Love stays.
O Time! Take Love. When Love is vain,
When all its best joys die,
When only its regrets remain,
Let Love, too, fly!
—Ella Wheeler in "Poems of Passion."

Extreme Tired Feeling.

A lady tells us "the first bottle has done my daughter a great deal of good, her food does not distress her now, nor does she suffer from that extreme tired feeling which she did before taking Hood's Sarsaparilla." A second bottle effected a cure. No other preparation contains such a concentration of vitalizing, enriching, purifying and invigorating properties as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

IMPIETIES.

There are three negro preachers in the Henderson, Ky., county jail, one charged with adultery, one with burglary, and one with grand larceny.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of East Saginaw figures out that there are in that place over twelve thousand people who never hear the gospel preached. They should pass the hat for more missionary contributions at Burmah Poolrah at once.

The day of the big accident at Hunter's Point one New York publishing house announced a new book, called "How Shall I Go to God?" while another advertised a neat little volume entitled "Take the Long Island Railroad." This is a great year for coincidences.

In Maine, the religious calling is about evenly divided between two classes of religionists—the Universalists, who don't damn anybody, and the Baptists, who damn everybody except themselves.

Mr. Spurgeon, the London preacher, being asked whether a man could be a Christian and belong to a brass band, replied: "Yes, I think he might; but it would be a very difficult matter for his next door neighbor to be a Christian."

It is noted as a charming coincidence that while one jury at Gallatin, Mo., was acquitting Frank James, another in Mexico, same commonwealth, was fining Hamilton Hall $5 for selling on Sunday "one cigar of the value of five cents, and one glass of soda water of the value of five cents, contrary to the peace and dignity of the State."

About a week ago an itinerant minister with more zeal than learning preached to a congregation composed principally of oyster dredgers on the eastern shore of Maryland. During his harangue he used the expression: "If your right arm offend thee, pluck it out; if your eye offend thee, cut it off." An old oysterman who occupied a front seat, on hearing the above expression, remarked in a stage whisper that was heard all over the church: "Do you think we've got eyes like a crab."

A man in Saco, Me., recently bought a box of second-hand theological books and two hundred manuscript sermons which had belonged to a Baptist minister. A curious feature about the sermons is that they have numerous stage directions, of which a few samples are given: "Deliver this passage in solemn tones;" "scornful smile after this word 'never'"; "pause long enough to count twenty-five after this passage;" "close Bible with violent slam after this passage;" "contemplate ceiling in attitude of adoration at this point;" "sarcastic wave of hand;" "rapid gesture."

"Fire Him Out."

This is a common remark when roughs and rowdys insult public decency by their unseemly ways. Dyspepsia is a horrible bore. Fire it out with Burdock Blood Bitters. You can do it.

UNDER THE CARS.

A Union Pacific Brakeman Loses a Limb.

A serious accident occurred Thursday at Fremont, which resulted in one of the brakemen of the Union Pacific, James Peterson, having one of his legs cut off.

Peterson was one of the crew on No. 1, the evening passenger train west from Omaha. As the train started to pull out from Fremont station he attempted to jump on the platform between two emigrant cars, but by some mishap lost his hold and fell under the moving train, the wheels passing over him with the result noted above.

Mr. Peterson is a married man and resides in Omaha where he is well-known.

A Verse on Brown.

Editor Bee.

We are told that Tennyson has been commanded by the Queen to write, as Poet Laureate, a poem commemorative of the late John Brown, and that he finds it a distasteful and difficult task. I do not see why he should. Some of the papers are making fun of the matter and volunteering disrespectful verses. I offer the following:

Though but an humble serving man,
John Brown.
To after ages shall thy name be Handed down.
No warrior, author, artist, actor thou,
Of high renown.
Simply Victoria's gillie, tried and true,
John Brown.

LUTHERAN SYNOD.

The Growth of the Church and the Present Outlook.

The Present Meeting at Tekamah, Burt County.

This synod was organized 11 years ago, with four members. For the first nine years its growth was slow, but for the past two years it has been making rapid strides, until to day it has on its rolls 41 clerical members and 56 members and visitors present at this convention. For the first eight years the synod clung to the banks of the Missouri river. Today its members come from Grand Island, Red Cloud and North Platte, thus extending its growth 200 miles westward within two years. Judging the future from the past, it will not be long until Wyoming and Colorado will feel its touch, California hear the sound of its trumpets, and Sacramento be its outpost, with a watchman on the walls to whom the synod of that day will cry, "What of the night," when the answer will come, "The waters of the deep glisten with the light." Those from the other side see its rays and are crying, "Come over and help us." Our hearts will beat in sympathy for China, the mission ship will spread its sails, and ere long China will be our possession.

The present annual meeting opened this, Thursday, morning with devotional services for a half hour, when the president opened the session by the liturgical service, the reading of the 48th psalm and prayer. The president read his report of the past year's work, which was full of encouragement. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, G. H. Schiner, Wayne, Germany; secretaries, J. Dirks, Febing, England, C. Huber, Clear Creek; treasurer, C. F. Goodman, Omaha. The report of delegates to the general convention was full of good cheer. The report of the trustee from Carthage college was a mingling of joy and sorrow. Remarks on the report gave it a brighter hue, and promise of better things in the future. The avenue from whence will come the laborers for the mighty field west of Nebraska

The evening session was the anniversary of the foreign missions. After prayer by Rev. Granmiller, Rev. Huber was introduced, who spoke of the grandeur of the work and the duty we owe it, and our noble missionaries laboring in India and Africa. The old missionary hymn, "From Greenland's icy mountains," was sung with spirit. Revs. Shrader, Mossner and Barnitz followed with excellent addresses. The meeting was led by Rev. Wilhelm, and was full of interest to its close. "Wake, the song of jubilee," was sung, and benediction pronounced by Rev. Wilhelm.

BUCKING THE BONDS.

A Restraining Order Allowed Against the Re-Issue of Bonds

On the Petition of J. H. Baldwin and a Minority of the Council.

J. H. Baldwin, the house mover, and other signers filed a petition with the clerk of the district court yesterday morning, asking that an injunction be allowed against the proposed re-issue of the late five per cent paving bonds at six per cent, as voted by the city council at its meeting Wednesday evening by a two-thirds ballot. The bonds had been taken by the Omaha National at a premium, and when the New York parties to whom they sold them discovered that the proposition submitted to the people had been for six per cent, they sent these five per cents back under an opinion given them that they were not legal.

The injunction claims it that was the duty of the council to issue these bonds at a low rate and that five per cent was sufficient, as proved, that the owners of the bonds have operated with members of the council; that the proffered opinion is a subterfuge; and that the city attorney's opinion is against the reissue.

A temporary restraining order was allowed by the court.

The summons is made out against the Mayor and the seven Councilmen who voted for the re-issue. It is made returnable October 1st and October 22nd is the answer day.

Men and Things in Washington.

Correspondence of the N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—In conversation with public men of both parties during the last few weeks, your correspondent finds a belief prevalent among them that the following subjects will be prominent in the proceedings of congress next winter: Questions relating to the forfeiture of railroad land grants, to the establishment of a postal telegraph system, and to the extension of the bonded period for distilled spirits.

The land grant question will be pressed with much earnestness from the beginning of the session. It is full of complications, and as in former congresses it will again give rise to delay, and if there be action at all it will come after long controversy. On thing is morally certain, there will be no legislation seriously affecting the great Pacific railroads For instance, even those who are preparing to make a fight in favor of forfeiting all lands not earned by railroads in accordance with the strict letter of the law, do not believe that the Northern Pacific grants will be disturbed. But it is doubtful whether any influence will be strong enough to prevent legislation forfeiting those numerous grants which have been made from time to time since 1853 to states and corporations for railroad purposes, and to earn which the states and corporations have done nothing. The forfeiting of these grants will throw millions of acres of land open to the market.

There is good reason to believe that the 15,000,000 acres of lands in the grant which the Texas Pacific has transferred (on paper) to the Southern Pacific will never fall into the clutches of the latter road, but will be declared forfeited. The industrious officials, attorneys and agents of the Southern Pacific have been laying siege to the interior department for four months, endeavoring to capture therefrom a decision which would confirm their right to the old Texas Pacific grant; but they have thus far failed, and as they can get from congress no affirmative action favorable to their interests, their best energies will no doubt be directed to defeating legislation declaring the land forfeited, hoping that the nonsaction of the next congress would strengthen their case before the interior department.

From information obtained by your correspondent it is safe to conclude that most of the Democratic leaders in the next congress will oppose the establishment of a postal telegraph system; but if the scheme should reach a vote it will receive some support from Democrats in both houses. The maturing of a bill will be committed to the Republican leaders of the senate, and the parliamentary probability is that the subject will not be considered by the house until after the senate shall have acted. Senator Edmunds, the Republican leader of the senate, has declared himself unequivocally in opposition to the purchase of any existing telegraph lines, and he is equally positive in his support of a governmental scheme for constructing new lines to be under the control of the post-office department. Hence it is almost inevitable that the advocates of Edmund's plan and those favoring the purchase of existing lines will cut each other's throats. While the party lines will not be closely drawn, it has already been developed that the bulk of the opposition to a postal telegraph will be found in the Democratic ranks, and that its chief support will come from the Republicans.

The bonded whiskey extension subject will come up in some shape at the next session. It will probably take the form of the bill prepared by Senator Sherman, and which was passed by the senate last winter as a substitute for the indefinite extension bill passed by the house during the first session of the last congress. But inasmuch as the proposed legislation comes within the constitutional provision relating to revenue measures, it must originate in the house, and this fact involves the subject in the greatest uncertainty. The temper of the next house in this matter is one of those things concerning which no one can even speculate with safety. Political considerations are likely to have some influence in the final desposition of the subject.

A prominent Democratic senator said to your correspondent a few days ago: "I think that the coinage of the silver dollar ought to be stopped, but this will not be done next winter. Neither political party is ready or willing to make it an issue, especially at a time immediately preceding a presidential compaign."
