

BACKACHE--A SIGNAL OF DISTRESS

A WARNING THAT MUST NOT BE IGNORED

Pain in the back is the kidneys' signal of distress! If this timely warning is ignored, kidney disease silently fastens its deadly grip--for kidney sickness first shows itself in pains and disorders in other parts; and the real cause is too often hidden until fatal Bright's disease or diabetes has set in. Suspect the kidneys if you are rheumatic and nervous or have lame back, painful, too frequent or scanty urination, weak heart, dizzy spells, headaches, bloating or neuralgia. What you want is a special kidney medicine--not an experiment, but one that has stood the test for years! Doan's Kidney Pills relieve weak, congested kidneys--cure backache--regulate the urine.

A KIDNEY REMEDY OF 75 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS began curing lame backs and sick kidneys 75 years ago. The demand led a nearby druggist, James Doan, to prepare it for sale. From him the magic formula passed to the present proprietors. Now as in those early days, Doan's Kidney Pills are made from only the purest drugs and are absolutely non-poisonous. They are used and praised all over the civilized world.

Doan's Kidney Pills Make Lasting Cures

Mrs. Solomon Sawyer, 429 W. Jackson St., Brazil, Ind., says: "I do not think there is a better kidney remedy on the market than Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered from kidney and bladder trouble for seven or eight years, and there was a constant, dull pain across the small of my back which was almost unbearable. Damp weather greatly aggravated the complaint, and there were other annoying kidney disorders that made me feel miserable. My health finally became affected, and the doctors seemed unable to help me. Having my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at F. W. Schultz's drug store and had taken them only a short time when I began to improve. Before long I was free from the trouble and my kidneys were restored to a healthy condition."

Charles Hanning, 524 South Hiller St., Galena, Ill., says: "I am only too pleased to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement, in the hope that other kidney sufferers will profit by my experience. For a month or more I suffered from a steady, dull ache across the small of my back, and if I sat down for awhile, it was all I could do to get up. Often I was compelled to place my hands on my knees as a support, so severe was the pain in my back. I did not rest with any comfort and any sudden movement sent sharp twinges through my kidneys. After plasters, liniments and various remedies which I took had failed to help me, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, and the contents of two boxes effected a cure. I have never lost an opportunity of saying a good word for this medicine since. The above statement was given in Feb., 1907, and on Mar. 31, 1909, Mr. Hanning said: "During the past two years I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills, having been free from kidney complaint. I take pleasure in confirming all I have heretofore said regarding the merit of this remedy."

OLD ANNE ROYALL.
She Was Once One of the Quaint Characters of Washington.
Old, queer, sharp-tongued Anne Royall, traveler, editress and interviewer, was for many years a familiar figure in the streets of Washington, trotting indomitably about her business, very poor, very persistent, often troublesome, honest and courageous to be respected. Life is given in the story of her travels by Sarah Haxby Porter a delightful glimpse of her visit to ex-President Madison and his wife. The contrast between the gracious mature beauty of charming Dolly Madison, elegant in her rustling black silk, and the funny little Hopping, shabby figure in antiquated skirts and ridiculous wadded bonnet, could scarcely have been enhanced.

As usual, old Anne Royall had tramped to save carriage hire; as usual, her errand, probably none too welcome to her hosts, was to secure an interview and a descriptive background. But Dolly Madison saw in the absurd, inquisitive, bespattered person before her neither the reporter nor the guy--only an aged and weary woman who was her guest. She hurried to bring her a glass of water, then quite simply stooped and retied her loosened shoe laces and wiped the Virginia mud from the tired old feet.

It is small wonder that Mrs. Royall's clothes were queer. She was scarcely of a bent of mind frivolously to pursue the fashions had she had the time and money, but she had neither. Her paper, the Huntress, of which she was owner, editor and chief reporter, once published conspicuously on the editorial page a notice which is perhaps unique in journalism:

"No paper will be issued from this office this week. We really must take one week more in ten years to fix up our wardrobe, which is getting shabby. Our next issue will welcome Congress."

REMEMBERS HIS OLD HOME.
Not Ashamed of the Humble Cottage of His Boyhood.
"Your business, you say, is house-moving?"
"Yes."
"You seem to have made a lot of money out of it?"
"I have. You see, I don't work the way other house movers do. I have a plan of my own."
Lighting a 50-cent cigar, the house mover mused a moment. Then he went on.

"Years ago, when I was a little boy, my father used to take me on his knee and talk to me. 'Johnny,' he would say, 'although you have been born in poverty, you are smart, and you will rise to wealth some day. But never be ashamed of your first home, my boy. Be as proud of it as if it were a royal palace.'"
"It was a four-room cottage where we lived then. And when I went out to make my way in the world, my father's last words were these: 'My son, wherever you go, whatever you do, remember the old home. It will be a star in the heavens to you in the cloudiest night of despair.'"
The house mover dropped a lump of cigar ash upon a diamond-studded tray and continued:

"I have never forgotten my father's words. Wherever I have gone, whatever I have done, I have remembered the old home, and it has been my guiding star to fortune. My parents have long departed this life. The cottage is my most dearly treasured possession now. In fact, it becomes more valuable to me every year. I have a friend in the city hall. When the city is about to open up a new street or lay out a park, I get a quiet tip from my friend, and as quickly as possible I move my cottage to where the new street or park is to be."

"He flicked a flake of ash from his meekish waistcoat.
"Persecution follows my old home wherever it goes," he sighed. "The street and park people have condemned it fifty times, but I have defended it manfully and compelled the municipality to shell out handsomely every time. I figure that my little four-room cottage has brought me in $200,000 in the last twenty years. House moving," he added, "is a profitable business if a man goes at it properly."--Newark News.

A Miracle of Science.
Aeroplane is another miracle of practical science--another impossibility shown to be possible--another dream of centuries realized, but realized in a manner which none but this generation could have understood. Will the history of the steam locomotive repeat itself? The actual maximum speed on railways is no higher to-day than it was sixty years ago, though, of course, the train loads are very different. Will it be so with the aeroplane?

Store Built Around Graveyard.
One of the big New York department stores is built on three sides of an ancient cemetery. The windows that give view over the spot are more than a breath for a tall man, so that the average patrons of the place, unless they make an effort, could not see the graveyard, and would pass and repeat it for years without suspecting its existence.

A Burning Eruption Covered Her Head to Feet.
"Four years ago I suffered severely with a terrible eczema, being a mass of sores from head to feet and for six weeks confined to my bed. During that time I suffered continual torture from itching and burning. After being given up by my doctor I was advised to try Cuticura Remedies. After the first bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment I enjoyed the first good sleep during my entire illness. I also used Cuticura Resolvent and the treatment was continued for about three weeks. At the end of that time I was able to be about the house, entirely cured, and have felt no ill effects since. I would advise any person suffering from any form of skin trouble to try the Cuticura Remedies as I know what they did for me. Mrs. Edward Nanning, 1112 Salina St., Watertown, N. Y., Apr. 11, 1909."

ENGLISH HALF-PENNY PAPER.
Jewish Writer Objects to a Bill and Flippant Press.
They are so silly, so flippant without being funny, so solemn without being serious, and withal so dull, says Edwin Pugh in London T. P.'s Weekly. The special articles by accredited experts, which they are in the habit of publishing occasionally, are always too short to deal adequately with their subject, while the clever writers of the lighter articles seem always to be too heavily obsessed by the feeling that they must be topical at any cost to do themselves justice. And this rage for topicality is yet another irritating fault in itself. I know that the staple of a newspaper's contents should be news; nevertheless, I cannot see why one particular event--even if it be the birth of a foreign prince--should crowd out or whittle down all other items of news; and this not always for a day or two, but sometimes for weeks on end. I can imagine that it is not easy to edit a newspaper, and I suppose that is why they are not edited, but in their general policy left to drift before the cross-winds of their readers' fickle favor. At the same time, I remember that the English press was once the most potent force in our national life, that it is to-day more powerful than it has ever been--and I am sorry for the nation if it has gone to press it deserves.

CONGRESS AND TRADES UNIONS

President, in Message, Presents Plan of Railroad Regulation and Corporation Control.

CHECK ON SECURITY ISSUES.

Legislation Is Asked to Prevent Watering of Stocks and Other Kindred Evils.

WOULD RETAIN SHERMAN LAW.

Aims to Foster "Economizing" Features of Combinations and End "Monopolizing" Evils.

President Taft has sent to Congress his long delayed and much discussed message on interstate commerce and anti-trust legislation.

In it he strikes at the existence of holding corporations by which major trusts control their subsidiaries and at the watering of corporation stock. To insure the more complete control of railroads by the government he demands the formation of a Court of Commerce, to comprise five judges, having power to act as a court of appeals from the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The President dips into railway employees' safety also, urging new features of the liability law.

State control of corporations is vigorously attacked; the President charges it with the responsibility for many corporation abuses, and he takes a firm stand for centralized power. He demands that railroads be forbidden to control their competitors and would give the Interstate Commission sweeping increases in power.

Declaring distinction between good and bad trusts to be impossible, the President says emphatically that if the trusts are to be kept within the law new legislation creating national corporations under charter is urgently needed. This, the main provision of the anti-trust section, was announced some time ago, as were many of the other terms of the message.

Such a move, the President points out, is not to afford the trust a refuge, as the Sherman law's repeal is not contemplated. The proposed statute, according to the message, "is not to be framed so as to permit the doing of the wrongs which it is the purpose of that (the Sherman) law to prevent, but only to foster a continuance and advance of the highest industrial efficiency without permitting industrial abuses."

The President also includes a vigorous promise that the United States prosecution of trusts will be continued unrelentingly. To the Senate and House of Representatives: "What is of supreme importance is that a uniformity of decision be secured so as to bring about an effective, systematic and scientific enforcement of the commerce law, rather than conflicting decisions and uncertainty of final result. For this purpose I recommend the establishment of a court of the United States composed of five judges designated for the purpose of investigating the activities of the United States, to be known as the 'United States Court of Commerce' which shall have jurisdiction with exclusive original jurisdiction over the following classes of cases: (1) All cases for the enforcement, otherwise than by adjudication and collection, of a forfeiture or penalty, or by inflicting no criminal punishment, in order of the Interstate Commerce Commission other than for the payment of money. (2) All cases brought to enjoin, set aside, annul or suspend any order or requirement of the Interstate Commerce Commission. (3) All such cases as under section 3 of the act of Feb. 15, 1903, known as the 'Elkins act' are authorized to be maintained in a Circuit Court of the United States. (4) All such mandamus proceedings as under the provisions of section 20 or section 21 of the Interstate Commerce law are authorized to be maintained in a Circuit Court of the United States. In my opinion all litigation affecting the government should be under the direct control of the Department of Justice, and I therefore recommend that all proceedings affecting orders and decrees of the Interstate Commerce Commission be brought by or against the United States and that the United States be authorized to employ an assistant attorney general acting under the direction of the attorney general, federal authority after a full and complete disclosure of all the facts pertaining to the value of such property and the interests therein of the persons to whom it is proposed to issue stock in payment of such property. It should be subject to the approval and signature only of such corporations to the same taxation as imposed by the States with the exception of the States of New York and Pennsylvania which should require such corporations to file with the State a statement of their operations with the Department of Commerce and Labor at regular intervals. Corporations organized under this act should be prohibited from acquiring and holding stock in other corporations (except for special purposes upon approval by the proper federal authorities) thus avoiding the creation, under national auspices, of holding companies, which has been such an effective agency in the creation of the great trusts and monopolies. Sure of Opposition. Such a national incorporation law will be opposed, first, by those who believe that trusts should be completely broken up and their property destroyed. It will be opposed, second, by those who doubt the constitutionality of such a law, and even if it is valid, object to it as too great a federal centralization. It will be opposed, third, by those who will insist that a mere voluntary incorporation subject to the interstate commerce act shall hereafter for any purpose connected with the payment of any part of its business governed by said act, issue any capital stock without previous or simultaneous payment of not less than the par value of such stock, or any bonds or other obligations (except notes maturing not more than one year from the date of their issue, without the previous or simultaneous payment to such corporation of not less than the par value of such bonds, or other obligations, or if issued at less than their par value, then not without such payment of the reasonable value of such bonds, or other obligations as ascertained by the interstate commerce commission) and that no property, service, or other thing of value shall be taken in payment to such carrier corporation, of the par or large required portion of which stock, bond or other obligation, except the fair value of such property, service or other thing as ascertained by the interstate commerce commission, in order to prevent the abuse by the improvement of the period not exceeding twelve months from date, in such manner as to commit the commission to the approval of a large amount of stock or bonds in order to retire such notes that should legitimately have been paid.

Such act should also provide for the approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the amount of stock and bonds to be issued by any railroad company subject to this act upon any reorganization, pursuant to judicial sale or other legal proceedings, in order to prevent the issue of stock and bonds to an amount in excess of the fair value of the property which is the subject of such reorganization.

Would Prevent Evil Practices.
I believe these suggested modifications in and amendments to the interstate commerce act would make it a complete and effective measure for securing enforcement of rates and fairness of practices in the operation of interstate railroad lines, without undue preference to any individual or class over any others, and would prevent the recurrence of many of the evils which have attended the operation of the interstate commerce act in the past to so much public inconvenience and loss.

In addition to the foregoing amendments of the interstate commerce law, the Interstate Commerce Commission should be given the power, after a hearing, to determine upon the uniform construction of these appliances--such as all stop-blocks, ladders, roof hand holds, run-down boards and hand brakes on freight cars engaged in interstate commerce--used by the trainmen in the operation of the interstate commerce act, in which are apt to produce accidents and injuries to railway trainmen.

The question has arisen in the operation of the interstate commerce act, whether the Interstate Commerce Commission should be authorized to make, and enforce, in any place other than that of its home office, the right to bring the suit under this act should be as to enforcement of the company's employ to sue on an ordinary claim, and process in such suit should be sufficiently served if upon the station agent of the company upon whom service is authorized to make, both the company in ordinary actions arising under state laws. Bills for both the foregoing purposes have been considered by the House of Representatives and have been passed, and are now before the Interstate Commerce Commission of the Senate. I earnestly urge that they be enacted into law.

Anti-Trust Law.
The increase in the capital of a business for the purpose of reducing the cost of production and effecting economy in the management has become an essential part of modern progress as the change from the hand tool to the machine. Monopoly of production entirely and the restraint of the full and free operation of competition has a tendency to restrain commerce and trade. The object of the anti-trust law was to suppress the abuses of business of the kind described, and to prevent the accumulation of a great volume of capital which, concentrated under one organization, reduced the cost of production and increased the profit thereby, and took no advantage of it, but by methods akin to duress, to stifle competition and to drive out of business those who were more successful than they. It is not meant that there is not a limit beyond which the economy of management by the enlargement of plant causes, and which this happens and combination continues beyond this point, the very fact shows intent to monopolize production to economic ends.

Fears Universal Trust.
There are enough, however, of such successful combinations to arouse the fears of good, patriotic men as to the result of a continuance of this movement toward the concentration of the hands of a few of the absolute control of the prices of all manufactured products. The question which I wish in this message to bring clearly to the consideration and decision of the Senate and House is to avoid business danger something cannot be done by which these business combinations are not broken up, without great financial disturbance, or changing the character, organization and extent of the business into one within the lines of the law under federal control and supervision, securing compliance with the anti-trust statute.

Many people conducting great businesses have cherished a hope and a belief that in some way or other a line may be drawn between the "good" and "bad" trusts. Certainly under the present anti-trust law no such distinction exists. Through all our consideration of this grave question, however, we must insist that the suppression of competition, the controlling of prices and the monopoly or attempt to monopolize in interstate commerce and business are not only unlawful, but they are to the public good, and that they must be restrained and punished until ended.

Asks National Corporation Law.
I therefore recommend that a bill be introduced by Congress of a general law providing for the formation of corporations to engage in trade and commerce among the States and with foreign nations, and to exempt them from undue interference by the States and regulating their activities so as to prevent the recurrence, under national auspices, of those abuses which have arisen under State control. Such a law should provide for the issue of stock of such corporations to an amount equal only to the cash paid in on the stock and for the stock to be issued for property, then at a fair valuation ascertained under approval and supervision of federal authority after a full and complete disclosure of all the facts pertaining to the value of such property and the interests therein of the persons to whom it is proposed to issue stock in payment of such property. It should be subject to the approval and signature only of such corporations to the same taxation as imposed by the States with the exception of the States of New York and Pennsylvania which should require such corporations to file with the State a statement of their operations with the Department of Commerce and Labor at regular intervals.

First Step in Copper Merger.
The merging of the big copper interests by the Morgan clique, which has been talked of in Wall street for some time, was definitely decided upon at a meeting of the various boards of directors of the Guggenheim companies at New York. The directors of the Utah Copper Company authorized an increase of capital stock from 750,000 shares to 2,500,000 to carry out the plan. The Boston Consolidated Copper Company is to be taken over and part of the new stock is to be used for increasing the output of this and the Utah companies.

THE NEW LEADER OF THE DEMOCRATS IN THE SENATE

It was against his will that Senator Hernando De Soto Money, of Mississippi, was chosen minority leader in the Upper House of Congress. He was the logical candidate on the retirement of C. A. Culberson, but, because of ill health, he would have preferred to pass the honor to Senator Bacon. His fellows, however, overruled his objections.

Senator Money is a native of Holmes county, Mississippi, and is 70 years of age. He has a university education and is a lawyer and planter. He served in the Confederate army from the beginning of the war until September, 1864, when defective eyesight forced his retirement. After serving in the House of Representatives for 14 years he was elected to the United States Senate, where he has remained since 1897.

SEA TRAVEL NEAR RECORD.
Business for 1909 Little Behind Banner Year of 1907.
Transatlantic passenger travel for the year 1909 shows some improvement over that for 1908, but is below that of 1907, which was a banner year in the steamship business. A statement recently issued shows that west-bound or incoming figures have returned to normal, except in regard to steerage passengers. In 1908 the east-bound or outgoing passengers were greatly in excess of the incoming, due to the industrial depression of the United States.

During the year 1909 all steamship companies operating from New York carried approximately 1,750,000 passengers, of whom 1,247,344 were west-bound and 482,756 east-bound. The first cabin business during 1909 in both directions was nearly as good as in 1907.

More Steel Profit Sharings.
The United States Steel Corporation, with a great labor war confronting it, is believed to be depending largely upon the loyalty of those employees who in the past have bought shares of the common stock. It is expected that these men will resist the efforts of the Federation of Labor to bring them into line with this so-called profit-sharing policy. The Steel Trust has now made public the terms upon which it will issue 24,000 shares of preferred stock for subscription by employees at $124 a share. In addition to this, $1,000,000 in stock is to be awarded to the employees as a bonus, this consisting of both common and preferred. As formerly, the employees have three years in which to pay for their holdings, the money being withheld from their pay envelopes month by month in proportion as they may designate, not to exceed 25 per cent. If they hold the stock for five years they are to get a bonus of 45 a share in addition to the dividend of 7 per cent, in addition to the bonuses of those others who do not hold on.

Thaddeus S. Wilson, arrested at Kansas City on the charge of writing letters to R. A. Long, a wealthy lumberman, demanding $5,000, pleaded guilty in the federal court to using the mails to defraud.
New York's firemen have appealed to the board of estimates for $200 a year increase in pay. They now receive from $800 to $2,100 a year.
Andrew Carnegie has awarded a $5,000 annual scholarship to Dennis Chabot, a boy pianist of Pittsburgh, who will study in Europe.
