Senator Burkett Endorsed
A meeting of the republicans of this precinct was held at the court house Thursday evening, and a Burkett club of about thirty members was organized.

The following resolutions were passed by the Union Veteran Republican club, at a meeting held January 3, 1910:

Whereas—the Union Veteran club of the city of Lincoln, state of Nebraska, fully appreciating the true devotion and loyalty to the veterans of the Civil war and soldiers of the Spanish-American war, and the honorable and faithful services rendered our city, state and nation, by our distinguished citizen and statesman, Honorable Elmer J. Burkett, our senator United States senator.

Be it resolved—That by his untiring industry and great legislative ability, he has been able to lead the way and direct in securing legislation for the people until today, he stands in the forefront among the greatest progressive leaders and legislators in the nation.

And as evidence we have but to recall a few things he has accomplished for Nebraska since he first entered congress.

Senator Burkett has secured the passage of over one hundred special pension bills for Nebraska soldiers and their widows.

He has had appropriated for the post office at Lincoln $200,000, and negotiated a proposition whereby the city of Lincoln is in possession of one of the finest city halls and grounds in the west.

Postoffice at Pottawatomie, $50,000. Increase, postoffice grounds at Nebraska City, $10,000.

Freemont postoffice, $50,000.

Beatrice postoffice and other postoffice buildings, $50,000.

Missouri River improvements at Nebraska City and Holt, $50,000.

Complete county service rural free delivery for his entire district when in the lower house, the first one completed in the United States.

Secured legislation permitting Indians in Richardson county to co-operate in drainage proposition.

Divided Nebraska into divisions for federal court purposes, establishing federal courts at Lincoln, Norfolk, North Platte, McCook, Hastings and Grand Island.

Was appointed a member of the appropriation committee in the house in his second term, and is now a member of the Senate appropriations committee—the most important committee in congress.

After a long, hard fight saved six congressmen to Nebraska in the re-appointment bill of 1907, and the author of the bill, by which members of congress are now reapportioned to the several states.

He is the author of the public grazing bill. Author and ardent supporter of a bill to provide for postal savings bank, and author of bill to post agricultural in normal schools.

Senator Burkett's speech upon the irrigation bill was a significant one; so much so that Guy E. Mitchell, president of the national irrigation association, sent it broadcast over the country.

When in the house he saved the government a million dollars by a single speech, which was dubbed "The Million Dollar Speech," because it led to the redefining of the census bill on a more economical basis.

He secured the passage through the senate of bills for the drainage of the Omaha and Winnebago lands in Nebraska.

He had passed through the senate a bill giving the court of claims jurisdiction over the claims of the Omaha Indians against the government.

FOR FEDERAL PENSIONERS He has been a constant advocate of more liberal pension laws.

He was the organizer of a movement to secure a more equitable distribution of committee assignments in the senate, and his resolution was named as an epoch making one by the press last season.

During the tariff session he secured the reduction of the duty on barbed wire from 25¢ to 15¢ per ton.

He secured an amendment to the corporation tax law under which the following organizations are to be exempt from such taxation: labor organizations, fraternal beneficiary societies, orders or associations operating under the lodge system and providing life, sick, accident or other benefits to its members, and building and loan associations.

He secured the free admission of the paragonials of fraternal societies and organizations of a similar character, and has won tact recognition as a champion of institutions of this nature.

He secured the free admission of breeding animals.

He secured the establishment of the Dismal forest reserve in Nebraska.

He secured the establishment of rural free delivery routes in nearly every county in the state.

He has twice secured the passage of a bill to establish a fish culture station in Nebraska.

He has secured an appropriation for the reconstruction of Fort Crook when it was destroyed by cyclone, the bill passing the day after the cyclone which destroyed the building.

Now has a bill in congress asking for an appropriation of $500,000 to enlarge our present postoffice building in the city of Lincoln.

But one of his latest and greatest achievements was in securing, through the postoffice and United States treasury department, the destination of our city as a distributing point for the storage and redistribution of government postoffice supplies for a large western territory.

The great importance of this arrangement cannot be overestimated and it but helps to demonstrate that by his alertness and energy he has justly earned for himself a second term.

And all these things, coupled with his high moral character and recognized integrity have combined to make him a worthy representative of this great and growing state, and as fellow citizens we feel to know that we have in him a becoming pride, and be it for her

Resolved, That as members of the Union Veteran Republican Club having confidence in the wisdom, integrity and patriotism of Senator Burkett, and believing that his past experience has qualified him for yet greater services to his city and state, we pledge him our hearty support.

At an early day she came to this country, and in 1870 was married to Joseph Shanahan at Jefferson, S D, after which they settled on a farm near Vista where she died. For the past three years her health has been gradually failing and two weeks ago she contracted a slight cold which later developed in pneumonia. A nurse was sent for and the best of medical aid was obtained, and all those that loving hands could do. But all seemed of no avail, and on Saturday morning her soul returned to the God who gave it. She had long since passed on after a long illness, and being weary she wrapped the draperies of her couch around her and laid down to sleep that knows no awakening in this cold and dreary world. She was a true and tender wife. In life's stormy path a perfect rock to her aged husband to lean on who being left alone in his bereavement has the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community. At her own request she was laid to rest beside her only sister, Mrs Patrick Cryan sr, in Calvary cemetery at Newcastle, Neb. The funeral services took place at Vista in St Joseph's Catholic church. Sioux City Journal, 19th: A simple, informal wedding, which will take place at 8 o'clock this afternoon at the home of William Day, Newton avenue, Morningside, will mark the conclusion of a pretty college courtship under especially romantic circumstances. John R Day, a graduate of Morning Side college with the class of 1909, will be united to Miss Margaret Bridenbaugh, who is an alumna of Warriner's Business college, class of 1907. The ceremony will be performed at the bedside of the groom, who for several months has been seriously ill, and is but slowly recovering. Cards had been sent out some time ago announcing a formal wedding at Miss Bridenbaugh's home on Palmer avenue. It was decided to follow on these first plans as far as possible, although the illness of Mr Day makes it necessary that the event take place at his home. It is likely that a considerable element of romance entered into this decision on part of Miss Bridenbaugh to take upon herself the wifely duties while the groom lingers on the way to a recovery to health. Much interest is being shown upon the culmination of this college courtship by mutual friends of the young people. Because of the sickness of Mr Day only the closest relatives will be present at the wedding. Miss Bridenbaugh will be given away by her father, J H Bridenbaugh. Harlan Bridenbaugh, a member of the senior class at Morningside, will act as best man. Rev W T Macdonald, of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, will unite the couple. Mr Day, since his graduation, has served as pastor of the Methodist charge at Peiro, Iowa. He has made himself popular in his work, although handicapped a considerable portion of the time by a heart affection of some seriousness. While a student at Morningside, Mr Day was prominent in scholarly attainment, taking a leading part in literary and society affairs. Miss Bridenbaugh, after graduating from Warriner's college, has been employed as a bookkeeper by the Crane company, in Sioux City. It is the plan of the young couple to take up their residence at Peiro as soon as Mr Day's health will permit the moving. This will probably be within a few weeks, as a permanent recovery is looked for by that time.
