Residence 2 miles north of Hubbard. Meaning of Census Terms

Washington, D. C., February 17, 1910,-The official dofinitions of the terms<sup>a</sup>'dwelling house" and "family," with reference to the population schedule to be carried by the numerators in the Thirteenth United States Census, beginning April 15th next, are explained in the Census Bureau's lengthy printed instructions to the canvass-ers. It is pointed out that the answers should relate only to conditions existing on April 15th, the "Census Day." The words "dwelling house" and "family" re, for census purposes, given a much wid r application than they have in ordinary peech. A "dwelling" is defined as a place n which, at the time of the census, one or speech. A. "dwelling" is defined as a place in which, at the time of the census, one or more persons regularly sleep. It need not be about may be, for example, a room in a store, factory, or office buildinig, a loft over a sta-hie, & canal boat, a tent, or a wigwam. The term also includes a hotel, boarding or lodg-ing house, a tenement or apartment house, an institution or school building, if persons regularly as well as the ordinary dwelling house. A. "family," as a census term, may mean a group of individuals who occupy jointly a dwelling place or part of a dwell-ing place, or an individual living alone in any place or abode. All the occupants and employees of a hotel, if they regularly sleep thero, make up a single family, because they occupy one dwelling place, and per-sons living alone in cabins, huts, or tents; persons occupying a room or rooms in a public buildings, stores, warchouses, factor-boats, canal boats, barges, etc., if they have no other usual place of abode, are regarded as families.

no other usual place of abode, are regarded as families. The enumerators are required to enter on the schedule the name of every person whose usual place of abode on April 15, 1910, was with the family or in the dwelling place for which the enumeration is being made. The head of the family is to be enterodirst; then the wife; next the children, whether sons or daughters, in the order of their ages; and lastly, all other persons living with the family, whether relatives, board-ers, lodgers, or servants. The head of the family, whether husband or father, widow or unmarried person of either sex, is to be designated by the word "head;" and the other members of a family as wife, father, mother, son, daughter, grandson, daughter-in-law, uncle, aunt, nicee, boarder, lodger, servant, etc., according to the particular re-lationship which the person bears to the head of the family.
