In the Wheat Pit at the Start Cables Were Reported Steady.

PARDRIDGE WAS A BUYER ON THE BREAK

In the End the Market Closed Comparatively Steady at a Slight Reaction from Inside Prices—Stocks and Bonds.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 25.—The reported breaking of the European drouth made the wheat market weak here today. Compared with last night, July wheat left off with a loss of ½c. Corn is down ¼c. Fear of a squeeze in the provision market resulted in a lively jump in all hog products, pork finishing with a net advance of from 67½c to 70c; lard from 27½c to 30c and ribs from 15c to 25c.

In the wheat pit at the start, cables came steady and there was a good deal of bull news, but the trade seems hesitating and cautious and the market lacked animation. But denials of anything serious in the continental situation were telegraphed. Rain was reported over there.

Rumsey & Chandler had big selling orders from somebody, putting in nearly 1,000,000 bu. of July wheat, which had a depressing effect. Pardridge was a good buyer on the break. Kennett-Hopkins also bought freely. The clique was a good buyer of July all day, but showed no aggressiveness and seemed desirous of getting as much as it could without causing excitement. Later in the day, reports of general rain on the continent of Europe and in Kansas and the report of the failure of the London Bank of Australia encompassed the disposition to sell freely. In the end, however, the market closed comparatively steady at a slight reaction from inside prices.

The local receipts of 692 cars, containing fully 150,000 bu. contract wheat, was a bear argument in view of the great increase of 842,000 bu. of contract wheat in Chicago for the week. The reports to the end of the third week in April show 750,000 bu. and indicate that 14,500,000 bu. contract wheat has been bought for May delivery. The closing prices of yesterday, after some fluctuations, were advanced ⅛c, held steady and the close was from ⅛c to ⅜c lower than yesterday. The September future is attracting more attention, while May is neglected. The corn market ruled strong for an hour and then wilted. The receipts were 194 cars, instead of 350 as had been expected, and compared with a week ago there were 566,630 bu. less contract corn in regular Chicago elevators.

The weather was unfavorable, which induced the coverings of some shorts, which put the price up from ⅛c to ¼c. The weakness of wheat had an effect upon the later trading and some of the operators, who believe the situation legitimately warrant lower prices, took advantage of the early advance to sell. The price weakened from ⅛c to ⅜c, or until it struck the limits of privileges, when buying against the same checked the downward tendency. The estimates for tomorrow coming in light—98 cars—had the effect of increasing values, but the market showed from ⅛c to ¼c loss for the day.

There was a good business in oats in the way of changing from May to June, buying May and selling June. A weaker feeling developed and prices receded from ⅛c to ¼c, a slight rally followed and the close was quiet with a net loss of from ⅛c to ¼c.

There were 15,000 hogs at the yards and they were reported higher, occasioning a bullish feeling among the provision speculators and anxiety among the shorts. The latter seemed fully cognizant of the dangers they placed themselves in by selling short in the face of limited stocks. They knew that they had everything to fear if the big packers, who apparently control the small supply, should cease to be forbearing and when instead of forbearance they found themselves confronted with hostility their nervousness was easily accounted for. Altogether it was a decidedly busy day, although trade was hardly what could be called excited. Closing prices were the highest of the day.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 200 cars; corn, 90 cars; oats, 90 cars; hogs, 22,000 head.

PETROLEUM—Dull and rather weak through-ners. The supply was far short of the needs of those two classes of buyers, and competition therefore was lively. Cows and heifers sold largely at from $2.75 to $3.75, and from $3 to $3.50 were the popular prices for bulls. The market for the above descriptions averaged from 10c to 15c higher for Monday. There was no improvement in the steer market. It was quiet and barely steady. The decline of 1c in the London market yesterday checked the export demand and as few cattle were wanted by eastern shippers the small supply did not seem to cause any inconvenience. Quotations range from $1.75 to $4.35 for poor to extra cows and heifers, at from $2.75 to $4.65 for stockers and feeders, $4.15 to $6.10 for dressed beef and shipping steers and from $2 to $6 for calves. Texas cattle were again in light supply and sold higher, quoted at from $2.10 to $5.

Hogs were in active demand and were strong. They sold 5c higher than yesterday and although the later feeling was less firm the advance was not lost. Heavy hogs sold at from $7.55 to $7.85, principally at from $7.70 to $7.80, and the sales of lightweights were largely at from $7.60 to $7.70 with $7.40 to $7.77½ the range of quotations. At no previous time this year have prices for light and heavyweights been so close together. There is now practically no difference in their selling value.

The sheep and lamb markets were strong, good stock generally selling a trifle higher, though the range of quotations was the same as before. Sheep were salable at from $4.50 to $6.25, and lambs were wanted at from $5.25 to $7. Most of the trading in sheep was at from $5.25 to $5.75, and lambs sold largely at from $6.25 to $6.75.

FOUND HER "NEVVY."

Candidate for the Reform School Finds a Relative Looking for Him.

Mr. Cheeryble, in Dickens' immortal tale, "Nicholas Nickleby," was given to remarking that London was the greatest place on earth for coincidences. Omaha may not be equal to London in this respect, but this town has a pretty liberal share of coincidences, nevertheless. Secretary Clark of the Rescue hall work ran upon a rather striking one the other day. He learned that there were two small boys in the district court that were about to be sent to the reform school and thinking that he could find homes for them he asked the judge to allow him to become responsible for their care. The request was granted and within twenty-four hours he had secured a good home for one of the boys. Monday a well dressed lady called at Rescue hall and wanted to see the other homeless boy. When the boy appeared he recognized the lady at once as his aunt from Canada and the meeting was quite affecting. The lady is wealthy and was utterly unaware of the fact that her sister's children in Omaha were in so pitiable a condition until she arrived and learned the true state of affairs. The boy's father is dead and the mother has been unable to give her children proper care and they have become incorrigible.

The lady from Canada was only too glad to give the wayward boy a good home and he will leave for Canada today accompanied by his benefactor. The visit of the aunt from Canada was purely accidental. She had no idea of the distressing condition of her relatives until she reached the city.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Bostonians begin their long looked for engagement at the Boyd this evening, presenting the universal favorite of their repertoire, "Robin Hood." Judging from the demand for seats at the box office yesterday, the house will be crowded to its capacity. And it deserves to be, for no comic opera organization today in this country equals the Bostonians in musical merit or histrionic talent, and the manner in which their operas are staged, furnished and costumed commands the highest praise. Tomorrow evening De Koven and Smith's latest product, "The Knickerbockers," will be given, and for Friday evening the newest of all operas, "The Ogalallas," is announced. "Robin Hood" will fill both the matinee and evening bills on Saturday.

"A Breezy Time" at the Farnam tonight for the last time. The usual Wednesday matinee performance will begin at 2:30.

Duncan B. Harrison says "The King of the Turf," which will introduce Jack McAuliffe as an actor to Omaha playgoers Thursday evening at the Farnam, is about the best piece of dramatic work he has done so far. It contains all the sensational features of the best drama, the mechanical and scenic effects of the spectacular, the pathos of the emotional and rollicking fun enough for half a dozen farce comedies.

Tickets for Manager Boyd's benefit are already going like the proverbial griddles. One of the best, if not the best, of Dumas' comedies will be presented and the date is May 1.

Two Laborers Lose Their Lives.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 25.—Two laborers working on the Belt line near East St. Louis lost their lives this morning by a dirt car which they had partly emptied toppling over onto them. Matthew Link was knocked into the river and drowned and Samuel Trauma pinioned to the planks, dying before assistance arrived.

WANTS A DIVORCE

Because His Wife Made Him Do the Housework.

After twenty-three years of wedded life Francis M. Cummins has called on the courts to sever the bonds that have bound him. In his petition he alleges that he is a man of good moral habits, but that his wife, Alice, has led him a lively life. Under oath he declares that for two years after the ceremony was performed she was as good a wife as ever walked the face of the earth, but then she changed and made things lively around the home.

According to the story told by the papers in the case, Alice commenced to neglect Francis, and as the years rolled along the neglect became more apparent until eleven years ago, when she refused to wash and mend his clothes, compelling him to do this humiliating work. The washing and mending Francis could have stood if Alice had stopped at that, but she did not, and never will, so he alleges, if he continues to allow her to make his house her home. Not many months ago, he avers, Alice declared that she would give him no peace, neither night nor day, and, as evidence that she meant just what she said, upon two occasions she put poison in his coffee for the purpose of sending him to the other world.

Court House Doings.

Judge Walton was on the bench long enough yesterday to grant a restraining order in the case of Riley against Sandeen. Both parties are the owners of lots in Walnut Hill. Sandeen wants to open an alley between his property and that owned by Riley, but Riley objects; hence the injunction.

The painters have taken possession of the sheriff's office and will put it in a more presentable appearance.

County Judge Eller is in high glee over the fact that the county commissioners have increased his allowance for clerk hire $80 per month. At this time the judge is undecided as to whether he will hire one $80 clerk, or put in two at salaries of $40 per month each.

Judge Walton was engaged yesterday in hearing arguments in the case of Otto Beal and fifteen other defendants, who want to enjoin the city from grading Pierce street at the intersection of Twenty-fourth.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Soggarth," a heroic Irish melodrama, was presented for the first time in Omaha by the Bijou Stock company at Wonderland on Monday and proved a great pleaser. While not abounding with startling climaxes, it is interesting from beginning to end. The plot is laid in Ireland and deals with the land-holding question, the rights of the peasantry and their oppression by the landlords. The leading characters are in the hands of Ralph Cumming and Lasle Leigh, who receive splendid support from the balance of the company. The specialty program is given by Green, Anderson and Green, a clever trio of vocalists, humorists and buck dancers, and Loring and Leslie, a refined team of quick-change character artists. The reduction in prices has also helped attract large audiences to witness "The Soggarth."

Mosher Takes it Easy.

Mr. C. W. Mosher is still at the Millard hotel and says he will remain there until his trial is called in May. He said yesterday that he did not intend to give bond for his appearance but would remain at the hotel in charge of a deputy marshal. He is looking somewhat more meditative than he was when he arrived from Chicago a week ago. This may be occasioned by the fact that he finds less means of recreation in Omaha than in the city by the lake.
