Extreme Activity of Wheat at the Start Was Followed by Dullness.

THERE WAS A FAIR TRADE IN CORN

Shorts Covered Freely at the Start, but as the Session Advanced the Market Eased Off.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Extreme activity in wheat at the start today was followed by dullness. September closed easy at 56¼c, or ⅝c below yesterday. Corn, oats and provisions all closed easier.

Wheat had a range for the day of 1c. The feeling developed was a little mixed, prices doing better early in the day and easing off later, the final figures showing from ⅝c to 1c decline. The strength early was due in a measure to the stronger tone of cables, Liverpool showing an advance of from ½d to ¾d, and then northwestern markets ruled strong and higher, due, it was claimed, to numerous complaints of damage from rust and dry weather in that section. Another factor which stimulated prices was the very small deliveries on July contracts, only 300,000 bu. going around, being sent out by elevator interests. Liverpool stocks did not show as large an increase as anticipated, only 472,000 bu., making the supply there 2,384,000 bu., against 2,652,000 bu. a year ago this time, and was possibly something of an influence. Continental markets were also up, early Berlin advices quoting an advance of from ½ to ¾ marks. Northwestern receipts, while larger than the same day last week, and a year ago, showed some falling off compared with the average of late. Outside markets were lower. The out inspection here was a little larger. On the other hand, the weather was most favorable and indications point to no particular change in the same.

There was a pretty fair trade in corn within ⅛c range. The feeling developed, while unsettled, was on the whole easy and the close showed from ⅛c to ¼c decline. The feature was the demand for July, which was in good request, deliveries being small, and the price worked up to within from ⅞c to 1c of September. Shorts covered freely at the start, but as the session advanced the market eased off, due to increased offerings.

Oats were strong early, but weaker later and closed at the bottom, with a decline of from ⅝c to ½c from the top and a net loss for the day of ⅛c. The trading was moderate, but not as large as for several days. The feature was the buying of July and September by elevator people (not on new crop contracts). There was also a good deal of changing from July to September at from ⅝c to ¼c and from July to May at from 2c to 2½c difference. Crop reports were generally favorable.

Provisions, although opening rather heavy and continuing so, did not become radically weak until near the close, when it seemed that all at once the weakness of wheat appeared to be recognized and the slump of the day then occurred. September pork, which had been hanging between $7.07½ and $7.15 all day, suddenly sold off to $7 and closed at that. September lard, after a similar procedure, wound up at $3.97½, compared with $4.05 yesterday. Ribs weakened with the others near the end and left off 2½c lower for July and 5c lower for September than on the day before.

Estimates for tomorrow: Wheat, 12 cars; corn, 500 cars; oats, 225 cars; hogs, 29,000 head.

FRUITS.

Fifteen districts in Oregon and nine districts in Washington, including Clarke, San Juan, Spokane, Walla Walla, Whatcom, Yakima and Kittitas, counties, and two in Idaho have been canvassed by the Portland Rural Northwest to ascertain the outlook for fruit this year. These reports, to particularize, indicate a practical failure of Italian prunes for western Washington and Oregon and western Oregon and about a half crop for eastern Washington, Oregon and Idaho; French prunes from one-fourth to a half a crop west of the Cascades and an average crop east, with silver prunes a trifle larger. The three states will have in the neighborhood of 150 carloads of Italians for export in the fresh state and the dried product will reach about 2,000,000 pounds, of which less than one-tenth will be Italians. A very light crop of apples is predicted west of the Cascades and an average crop on high lands east, with an excellent home market. Peaches are a complete failure in the western portion and southern Oregon, a full crop about Wenatopee and portions of Snake river district, and from one-third to two-thirds of a crop in other districts of eastern Washington, Idaho and Oregon. Shipping cherries from one-third to a half a crop throughout the entire Pacific northwest. Pears one-fourth crop west of the Cascades and a full crop east.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

Speculative Temper Underwent a Complete Change.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The speculative temper underwent a complete change today, owing to the resumption of the liquidating movement and the bold and effective bear operations. There was no reflection of the support accorded the market yesterday, neither was there any noteworthy indication of interest for long account by commission houses. The main discouraging influence was a change in the attitude of London. This was supplemented, incidental to the bear raids on prices, by various rumors of a disturbing character, some of which were unfounded, including one to the effect that arrangements were being made for shipments of gold to Europe aggregating several million dollars. The volume of business was considerably larger than yesterday, and business was fairly well distributed, although two stocks, Sugar and Tobacco, figured for about one-third of the aggregate dealings. At the outset the bulls were discouraged by lower London prices, and, although some moderate buying orders for foreign account were noticed, the traders lined up on the short side, and were led by two leading professional operators. Under their efforts, together with wholesale realizations, prices slumped all around, with the leaders referred to yesterday special drives at the granger group and a few of the specialties. The complete absence of support facilitated their work, and the only rallies that occurred were feeble and were entirely due to covering operations. The reactions which quickly ensued generally carried prices below the previous low prices. An early announcement of the engagement of $200,000 in gold, together with the expert rumor referred to above, was followed by a semi-demoralized condition of affairs, and prices yielded all along the line. The grangers bore the brunt of the depression. Northwestern figured for 3½ per cent, Rock Island 3¼ per cent, Burlington 2⅝ per cent, and St. Paul 1½ per cent. The stocks on the group were ostensibly based on unfavorable traffic reports, rendered and expected.

Referring to the gold export rumor, apprehension of that score was relieved by a sagging tendency in the exchange market, and by the statements of leading drawers that no important outward movement was indicated. The specialties were conspicuous in the speculation. Tobacco was affected by uncertainty on the part of outsiders on the dividend probabilities on the common stock, and was erratic, with a downward trend. The announcement that the dividend had been passed was followed by lively unloading of stock, and an extreme decline of 4 point to 79. A recovery of about a point occurred later.

Sugar displayed some buoyancy, but towards the close was foreover 65 the down grade, and left off at a net loss of 4¼ per cent. The coalers again made derices downward progress. Some of the usually inactive shares also ruled materially lower. The market closed active and weak at the lowest. Bonds were dull, but weak, with the concessions rather material in some of the leading issues. Utah Southern extension 5s trust receipts broke 3 per cent, Wisconsin Central trust receipts 2¼ per cent, and Reading first incomes, 1¾ per cent, Oregon Short Line 5s trust receipts, 1½ per cent, and Metropolitan Elevated seconds 1 per cent. The sales were 932,800.

Governments were neglected, but weak, on transactions of 112,000. Silver certificates were easier. The sales were $125,000 at 65c.

The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says: The stock markets were generally quiet today. Americans retained a steady appearance and would probably have a sensible improvement were more business doing. But many of the jobbers are away and the duration of the present week remains those who attend. Copper statistics show a further diminution in stocks, the actual amount being 36,000 tons. The deliveries during June were 15,500 tons, against supplies of 14,800 tons. The London money market is extremely easy, business being practically unsaleable. The market opened with a renewal of weakness, but gained tone and closed steady. The Berlin market was quiet and featureless.
