Old River Pilot Passes Away

"Uncle Davey" Campbell, the last of the old river pilots living in this vicinity, died at his humble home in South Sioux City last Saturday, July 9th, after an illness lasting nearly a year, during which time he was almost helpless. He was in his 85th year.

Mr. Minnie Allen, an aged negroess, had taken the most devoted care of him in the long, weary months of his sickness. During all the time she had battled not alone with the ravages of the disease, but against poverty and harassment. Since his coming to Sioux City, "Uncle Davey" had been practically forgotten by his children, who as children of a former marriage objected to his association with the colored woman and who had given little help.
William E. Campbell, a son, visited here last winter and left a little money.

With this and the little which she had been able to earn Mrs. Allan kept the wolf from the door.

David Campbell was one of the best known of the old river men who thrived in the early 60s and 70s. His little cottage has for years been the rendezvous for the old timers and those who gathered to hear the tales which the old man never tired of repeating, and which, in their gripping interest of the old days when the Indian ruled the land, never failed to hold the attention of every listener.

As near as can be learned, "Uncle Davey" came to Sioux City in 1865, taking up the vocation of captain on one of the early steamboats. The last boat on which he was actively engaged was the old William Towle, which is now being dismantled. On this boat as captain three years ago he was engaged in making the trips to the sand pits and return, eighteen miles up the river. He is survived by four sons and two daughters by his first wife: William Campbell of Georgetown, Pa.; Tom Campbell, who is living in West Virginia; Noah and James Campbell, whose residences are unknown; Mrs.
Elizabeth Jackson of Chester, W. V., and Mrs. Hattie Wright of Georgetown.

"Uncle Davey" was born in Beaver county, Pa., near the Ohio river, March 26, 1826, and at the age of 11 years took a position as cabin boy on the steamer, Wellsville, plying between Pittsburg, Pa., and Sunfish, O., and though his position was the lowest and he received the least pay, his enjoyment probably was the greatest of all the officers and crew of the steambot of which he was so small a part. At the age of 16 he became a full fledged deck-hand, and at 21 was promoted to waterman on the Honduras, after which his advancement was rapid, serving as second mate, then first mate, and from that to pilot, in that capacity he served on many steamboats and navigated practically all the river of the Mississippi valley from New Orleans to the head of navigation on the Missouri and Yellowstone, and also the lower tributaries of the Mississippi.

During the rebellion he served as pilot on different boats of the union navy in the Mississippi river until 1865, when on the steamer General Grant he made his first trip past Sioux City on his way from St. Louis to Fort Benton.
After the railroads were built to Sioux City he ran from here to Fort Benton for several years, and was pilot with Capt Grant Marsh on the "Far West" during the summer of 1876, in the employment of the government.

After the Custer massacre the wounded soldiers of Maj. Reno's command were brought on board the "Far West" and Capt Marsh and Capt Campbell taking regular shifts at the wheel made a record breaking run from the Big Horn river down to Fort Lincoln, opposite Bismark.

Sioux City Journal, 11th: C A Curry, a farmer on Walker's island, yesterday afternoon made the interesting discovery that there was on his farm a petrified cedar tree in a perfect state of preservation. Mr Curry was digging a well and had gone four and a half feet when his spade struck the calciferous mass, which he at first thought was a rock. On digging to a depth of eighteen feet he discovered that the rock was nothing more nor less than a petrified tree, with roots and trunk in their original form.
Where Walker's Island now lies it is believed that the Missouri river once flowed and that the tree was either a snag which was floating down the stream or a tree growing beside the river bank. Mr Curry has not decided what he will do with his find. The farm is the property of F W Lohr.

Pender Republic: Mr and Mrs L L Ream and Miss Lou Hirsch visited at and Mrs Frank Greenough joined the crowd Tuesday morning. This braister and "better half" returned the middle of the week. The balance of the company will return tonight. Crystal Lake is becoming a very popular resort and it is certainly a very pleasant place to take an outing.

absent from home and take up duties at the postoffice, after a long period of confinement to his home with pneumonia.
Ray Mansfield and wife and little son, spent the 4th in Lincoln with Mr Mansfield's mother and sister. Mrs Mansfield remained for a few days' visit this week. We are reliably informed that next week a flour and feed store will be opened up here, in the Mason building, by S A Combs and S P Doran. This may possibly result in a feed mill being put in later. Mr Combs is now a Homer resident, but may move to this place. Deputy Marshall John F Sides of Dakota City was down Tuesday serving subpoena notices on John Deering, Ira Kreifer, Louis Goodsell and John Priest, for the Utterback bootlegging case. Priest is the Indian to whom the liquor was sold by Utterback, at Homer. Merrill Brasfield has quit his position with the Mansfield Mercantile company. He will assist D Lavelle in the ice cream parlor in Tom Lavelle's absence at Clarke which will be about two weeks. Mr Brasfield will in a few weeks go up to South Dekota to prove up on his claim. Mrs Margaret Ashford, Mrs W H Ryan, and Mrs Duggan, the latter of Sioux City, were down from Homer Wednesday afternoon, the guests at the home of John Ashford and wife. Clement, the son of Mrs Duggan, came with them, and remained this week for a visit with John, Jr, and Charles. W E Buckland has quit Uncle Sam's service at the agency and has moved to Homer, where he and the family will reside. We understand he is to take up the dry business in Homer.

as he made that place his home for a number of years before he took the position at the Agency. The S A Bridenbaugh family, the Luther Heikes family, and Miss Lulu Hirsch, all of garet Tramsley and a Mr Baker of
