- For United States Senator: ELMER J. BURKETT
For Congressman, Third District: JOHN F. BOYD
For Governor: CHESTER H. ALDRICH
For Lieutenant Governor: M. R. HOPWELL

If Mr. Dahlman believes in what he talks he did not mean taking a shot at his sister's husband. The brother-in-law in abusing his wife was only taking advantage of his right of "personal liberty" and it was "nobody's damn business" what he done—Windsor Tribune (dem).

The importance of voting on the United States Senator on your ballot should not be overlooked. Some think it is the same as in the past and not really important. But unless Burkett gets a majority of the votes at the polls, a democrat will be elected senator, whether the legislature is democratic or republican. A majority of all the nominees of the legislature have signed statement No. 1, and agreed to elect the man senator who receives the most votes at the polls; so the republicans must carry the popular election if they wish to have the next United States senator a republican.

Take Your Choice

Is Senator Burkett a progressive Republican? Former President Roosevelt has endorsed Senator Burkett in terms of warm appreciation as one of the men that he could rely upon. Senator Cummins of Iowa in his speech at Grand Island also endorsed Senator Burkett, and has come from a hot campaign in Iowa to speak for him and with him. No Senator in Congress is regarded as more of a progressive than is Senator Bristow of Kansas. In a letter written last week to Mr. Husehetter, Chairman of the Nebraska Republican State Central Committee, Senator Bristow says:

"In reply to your kind invitation to take part in the Nebraska campaign, I regret to say that I shall not be able to do so, I should be very much pleased to render any assistance I could to Senator Burkett, but I have spent so much of my time outside of Kansas already that I cannot any longer neglect the Kansas campaign."

"While upon a number of votes Senator Burkett and I did not agree, yet he was of special value to the progressive cause, not only in the tariff fight in behalf of a genuine revision, but also in the fight for effective and efficient legislation regulating the railroads, he rendered fine service. "Wishing you success, I am Very truly yours, Joseph Bristow, No one can be in a better position to know who are the supporters of progressive Republicanism than are Roosevelt, Cummins and Bristow. Their whole aim and ambition is to further that cause. When they endorse Senator Burkett, their words should convince the honest voter. Is Mr. Hitchcock is made Senator he would naturally oppose all Republican measures, insurgent or otherwise. The choice presented at the coming election is between Mr. Hitchcock, who for years has opposed and ridiculed President Roosevelt and all the Republican progressive leaders—and Senator Burkett, who has the warm endorsement of the progressive leaders in Congress, men who know his work and observed his votes and his record."

How Senator Burkett Voted.

A gentleman who wished to get the facts in the matter of how Senator Burkett voted as charged by the World-Herald, spent several hours a few days ago in a thorough search of the Congressional Record to obtain the facts. He discovered that the World-Herald had garbled the record in such a manner that the real facts were not given. The manner in which it was done was as follows: At different stages in consideration of the tariff bill democratic senators would introduce amendments for the purpose of killing time and putting republican senators on record with the intention of using that record against them, as they are now doing. These amendments were introduced, many of them in such a way that had they passed they would not have stood law, and consequently were voted down in nearly every instance by the votes of such progressive republicans as Burkett, Brown, Cummins, Dooliver, Nelson, LaFollette, Beveridge and others, who seeing the methods used by the democratic senators to block the passage of the bill were quick to put their disapproval upon such methods. These are the votes which the World-Herald and its editor Mr. Hitchcock are using against Senator Burkett, and which just as truly will hold against the other progressive Senators of the senate. "The truth half told is worse than a lie" is a saying that covers the ground in this controversy exactly. When it came to the proper time to introduce these amendments and they were introduced in such a manner that they passed they would mean something. Senator Burkett voted all right and with the other progressives. However, the World-Herald does not let that part of the story, desiring more to deceive the voter than to give him the facts in the matter and the senator the benefit of his work for the people in the tariff session. These are the facts which the congressional record will bear out and which is the best evidence.

Homer Star: To be married to the same woman twice is an experience that doesn't fall to the lot of every man. W J O Graves was married to a Winnebago woman according to the rites of her tribe about fifteen years ago. Last Friday, Justice of the Peace Welker again married them according to the laws of the United States. While ditching for tiling purposes, the George O. Blomberg farm north of Homer last week, the workmen excavated a skeleton of a large elk. The bones were in a perfect state of preservation and were found at a depth of seven feet. This marshy land is all made soil and has been in the course of accumulation for centuries, no doubt. The theory advanced is that the elk had been driven into the swamp by wolves or other foes of the large herds of buffalo, elk, deer, etc, that inhabited this country long before America was discovered, and in its strenuous efforts to escape had gotten its right front leg over its head and succumbed to the tenacious embrace of the merciless muck and mud. The constant filling in of soil from the hills to the west caused by the rainfalls of ages, has kept the skeleton from the view of human eyes until its resurrection last week. The skeleton has been removed from the swamp and Mr. Blomberg now has it on exhibition at his home.

Sioux City Journal 20th: After marching Harold Griscom, of Dakota City, Neb, down the streets of South Sioux City at the point of a gun at an early hour last evening, two masked men, when met by Marshal Charles Waddell, turned the gun on him and ordered him out of the way. Mr. Waddell moved out of the way, Griscom, while the attention of the two men were centered on the marshal, made his escape. According to the story telephoned to the local police department by Mr. Waddell, the holdup of Harold Griscom took place about 7:30 o'clock last night in the center of South Sioux City. Griscom was walking down the street when two masked men stopped him and pointed a gun at his head, telling him to keep on moving and not turn around. This he did and was marched to the east end of town, near the car levee. The marshal who was on the car stepped off and as he did so Griscom called to him. As Griscom called to Mr. Waddell, one of the thugs turned on the marshal and leveling a gun at his head told him to get out of the way and not to interfere. In the meantime Griscom made his escape. Learning that their prey had escaped, the two men took to their heels and fled into the darkness. The marshal gave chase but the fugitives made a clean get away. Authorities at Sioux City and also at Dakota City were notified. After a search of three hours around South Sioux City, Mr. Waddell about 11 o'clock last night hired a carriage and left for Dakota City, where he expected to apprehend the two men.

Davy, Mr John Davy, Mrs Ella Mackney and Mr Frank Davy, jr. Just as George Turbine, of South Sioux City, stepped off the Nebraska end of the combination bridge at 10:30 o'clock last night he was grabbed about the legs and thrown to the ground, after which he was relieved by an unknown man of $14 in cash, a silver watch, fountain pen and a stickpin. After robbing his victim, the thief was in the act of tying him with a cord, when the approach of a buggy across the bridge frightened him a say. "I had been over in the city doing a little shopping and it being a nice clear night I had decided to walk home," said Turbine at the police station last night. When I arrived at the tollkeeper's office I stopped and talked to him for quite a while. I then started across the bridge whistling. I had just turned around to look back over the bridge when I was grabbed by the legs and thrown to the ground. As I fell someone placed his hand over my mouth so I could not call out and told me to keep my mouth shut, which I did. "After searching through my pockets and extracting everything of value, the fellow took my stickpin from my tie and told me to lie still. He then took from his pocket a cord and was placing it about my legs when he thought he heard a wagon coming across the bridge. He jumped up and ran away. I waited to see who it was coming across the bridge to tell them about it, but a car came by at that time and I took it back to the city." Turbine could not give a good description of the man who had held him up, other than that he wore a handkerchief over the lower part of his face and had on a derby hat. The odor of whiskey was on his breath and he talked gruffly. Miss Nell Heehey, of Nacora, Neb, who attended as maid of honor, wore an attractive gown of white satin, veiled with chiffon cloth. She wore a white satin beaver hat, trimmed with tiny white roses, and carried an arm bouquet of roses. The bride was preceded by Miss Mildred Maloney, daintily attired in a white lingerie frock, who carried the ring in a rose. They were met at the church by the groom and his best man, Mr John Davy. Miss Teresa Schroeder played the Lohengrin wedding march as the bridal party entered the church. Immediately after the ceremony an elaborate wedding breakfast was served in the Davy home, 1400 Pierce street. The guests included Mr and Mrs Frank Davy, of Ponca, Neb; Mr and Mrs J G Sutton, of Denver, Colo; Rev J G McNamara, of Bloomfield, Neb, who assisted at the service, and a number of relatives and friends from Jackson, and Nacora, Neb. Thursday night when coming down town shortly after supper, Jacob Klar man while passing two men at the corner of Franklin and Dakota streets, was somewhat surprised to have one of the men point a gun at him and tell him to "clear out, you have stuck your nose in our business enough." Mr Klarman reported the affair to Marshal Waddell who followed the men up Dakota street and just north of C D Smiley's restaurant one of them stepped back and asked "Are you the marshal?" When Waddell admitted the honor, the man flared a gun in the officers face with orders to "beat it back down the street." Mr Waddell says it was a mighty nice looking gun but he "beat it" to a telephone and tipped it off to brother officers at Dakota City that the bold bad men were headed that way.

Hog Cholera Serum A successful demonstration of the new government serum for preventing hog cholera has just been concluded at South Omaha, Neb, by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture. The efficiency of the serum has been proved many times in the past, but in order that its value might be brought more strikingly before the people of Nebraska a demonstration was arranged for at the State Stock Yards Company of Omaha. The stock yard company purchased thirty pigs, weighing from 40 to 60 pounds each, from a farmer which had been free from hog cholera for several years. These pigs were brought to the stock yards, on July 23, 1910, four of them were injected with blood from hogs sick of the cholera. These inoculated pigs were placed in a pen by themselves, and within five days they had become sick, at which time eighteen of the remaining pigs were each given one dose of the serum, while the other eight pigs were not treated that way. The eighteen serum-treated pigs and the eight untreated pigs were then placed in the same pen with the four pigs which had been made sick by inoculation. The four pigs which were given hog cholera all died, and the eight untreated pigs all contracted the disease from them. The eighteen pigs which were given serum, and which were confined in the same pen with the four original sick pigs and with the sick untreated pigs, remained perfectly well, and were finally turned over to the officials of the stock yards company upon the completion of the experiment, September 17, 1910.

The experiment was witnessed by representatives of the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station and of the Nebraska Swine Breeders' Association, as well as by representatives of agricultural papers published in Nebraska. The Department of Agriculture does not distribute this serum to farmers, but is endeavoring to bring the value of this method to the attention of the stock-raising interests in order that they may arrange to secure state funds for the manufacture and distribution of the serum. The government authorities consider that this new serum treatment, if properly applied, will result in the saving of millions of dollars.
