WANTED—MALE HELP.

A Prominent Feature

OF THE ENTERPRISE AND PROGRESS OF

BOYLES COLLEGE

is its recent removal to the second floor of the elegant New York Life Building, where the handsomest, best lighted and most elegantly furnished rooms ever devoted to business educational purposes in the city of Omaha have been provided for young people who desire a practical training for business, shorthand and typewriting, or an English education.

In these model school rooms everything is new and of the most modern pattern. Magnificent solid cherry office fixtures have been placed in the Commercial Department, representing various lines of business practice. The Shorthand and Typewriting Departments are furnished in a corresponding style of elegance and adaptibility. Fifty standard typewriters are required for students' practice. The school desks are large, roomy and comfortable.

The college has been thus furnished for the purpose of attracting the best class of young people and to inspire them with a higher ambition to excel in their studies, but its pride is in its Thoroughly Practical Courses of Study and its Superior Instruction.

While its policy is to provide the best of everything for the health, comfort and convenience of its students, its great concern is for Educational Advancement.

There is a fascination about qualifying for business amid such surroundings.

The Spring Term

Opens

TUESDAY, APRIL FIRST.

This promises to be one the most successful terms of the college. School will continue in session during the Spring and Summer Months and students who enter now may continue their studies without interruption until completed in the fall, when business is brisk and trained assistants in demand.

A LARGE NUMBER have expressed their intention of entering at that time. Make your arrangements without delay and join them.

Note—This is the only school in Omaha whose Gregg teacher holds a diploma from its author, John R. Gregg. This fact is worthy of serious consideration. Many teachers have experimented with this system without proper knowledge of it and it is the desire of the author that students receive their instruction from a certified teacher, that the best results may be obtained.
