GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Corn and Oats Weak on the Good Crop and Liberal Offerings.

WHEAT OPENED WEAK, BUT CLOSED HIGHER

Government Crop Report Due This Afternoon Awaited Anxiously—Receipts Are Very Large—Commercial Gossip.

OMAHA, Oct. 10, 1904.

The general tendency of the grain markets was to a lower range. The government crop report this afternoon is awaited with great interest and it is confidently estimated that it will be more favorable than the last and indicate a larger yield of wheat and some 200,000 bushels in excess of the general estimate in corn. Crop losses will be much more intelligently estimated now than they were a month ago. The estimators have had the opportunity to note threshing results and are therefore in a position to judge for themselves actual conditions. There is just a possibility of an exaggerated report today. The wheat movement is simply enormous, the receipts at the primary points being very large. They are not in line with the earlier estimates, although it is possible that the high prices have been tempting enough to inspire a desire on the part of producers to rush wheat to the markets. It is still much more than a probability that the wheat crop will furnish but little for export and that there will be barely sufficient to go around for food and seed. Liverpool's spurt on the closed markets Saturday was sufficient to start Milwaukee and Minneapolis on the upgrade, but it was all lost before the opening this morning and immediately thereafter the tendency was to a lower range.

Omaha shared with the larger towns in the receipts and as a consequence lower prices prevailed. The quality of wheat, corn and oats was poor and the prices paid were therefore low, and the range wide, varying entirely on the character of the grain. It will require a study of the cash grain prices to indicate Omaha prices.

As regards corn the assurance for an enormous crop, and values were very weak and the same was true of oats.

In speculative Chicago December wheat declined to $1.07⅞, a loss of a point, but it became firmer when shorts tried to cover and advanced ⅝c over last Friday's close or to $1.08⅝. May sold down to $1.08⅛, as compared with $1.09, the last closing, then advanced to $1.09¼.

Corn sold to 47½c for December, a loss of 1¼c, May, 45⅝c, a full point's decline.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Features of the Trading and Closing Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Excellent foreign demand for flour caused an upward turn today in the price of wheat. Another potent influence was reported shortage in the Roumanian wheat crop. At the close December wheat was up ½@⅝c. May showed a gain of ¼c. Corn is off ⅜c. Oats are down ⅛@¼c and provisions 7½@27½c.

A radical decline in grain prices at Liverpool had a depressing influence on the wheat market here at the opening. The December option was off a shade to ⅛@¼c at $1.07⅞@1.08⅛, while May was ⅛@¼c higher to ⅛@⅜c lower at $1.08@1.09¼. The weakness abroad was due mainly to large shipments from Russia. An additional drag on the local market was a fresh break in corn prices. For a time commission houses had liberal offerings, but the demand was light. As a result December sold off to $1.07⅞ and May to $1.08¼. An official estimate on the Roumanian wheat crop placing the yield at 32,000,000 bu., compared with 73,000,000 bu. last year proved a useful instrument in lifting the market, the demand from shorts forcing December up to $1.08⅞. This was followed to $1.09⅛. The market closed firm, with December at $1.08⅞. Final quotations on May were $1.09⅛@1.09⅜. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 88,100 bu. The amount on passage increased 1,976,000 bu. while the visible supply increased 3,221,000 bu. Primary receipts were 2,658,000 bu., compared with 1,334,000 bu. a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,357 cars, against 1,068 cars last week and 1,102 cars a year ago.

A continuation of warm weather was the principal element in a weak corn market. Prospects of a bearish government report also had a depressing influence. December opened ⅛@¼c lower at 47⅝@48⅛c and closed at 48c. Local receipts were 298 cars, with 14 of contract grade.

Weakness of the corn market brought out considerable selling of oats by cash houses and elevator interests, resulting in lower prices. A large increase in the visible supply was an additional bear factor. December opened a shade lower at 30⅛c, ranged between 29½@29⅝c and 30⅛@30⅜c and closed at 29⅞c. Local receipts were 388 cars.

Provisions were weak on general liquidation. Selling of January products for outside account, together with the break in corn prices, was the cause of the weakness. At the close January pork was off 27½c at $12.75. Lard and ribs were each down 7½c at $7.40 and $6.67½.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 112 cars; corn, 173 cars; oats, 185 cars; hogs, 16,000 head.

NEW YORK STOCKS AND BONDS

Market Makes Sluggish Response to Many Factors Favorable to Values.

INDUSTRIAL SHARES ADVANCE SLIGHTLY

Closing is Heavy, with a Rather Ragged Showing of Trivial Gains and Losses—Bonds Are Irregular.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—There was but a sluggish response to an accumulation of various factors favorable to values of securities in today's market. The industrials and especially the iron and steel stocks were lifted out of this indifference during the course of the day, but the railroad stocks made but little headway.

Opening prices were higher and had the combined advantage of considerable buying orders received over Sunday, a better range of prices in London before the opening here and some large supporting orders for the purpose of establishing a higher basis on which to sell. The customary selling to take profits under these circumstances made its appearance and did not cause surprise. But the recovery from the effect of this was less buoyant than has been the case on Monday markets for some time past. The United States Steel stocks made good resistance to the heaviness in the market and when the preferred advanced to the highest prices on the present movement the other iron and steel industrials followed to a higher level. Trade advices were very favorable and pointed to an expanding demand for all lines of steel products. Special stress was laid on the large orders being placed by railroads all over the country for rolling stock and locomotives. This brought the railroad equipment stocks into the movement.

The publication of expert estimates of an enlarged yield both of wheat and corn caused an advance in strangers, but not all of the southwesterns responded. Missouri Pacific seemed to be hampered by the news of the serious accident on its lines. With the advantage of these favorable developments in special fields was coupled the general agreement of railroad officials to keep expanding demand and the resultant movement of freight of all grades of merchandise both east and west. A perusal of the letters sent out from Wall street by stock commission houses to their clients and of the published comments on the market shows a general agreement in a tone of admonition against over discounting the improvement in business by pushing up stocks to an unstable basis. Sentiment appeared to be affected by these warnings which, were reinforced by a hardening tone in the money market due to the shrinkage in the bank surplus. The consequence was a caution in operating such as has not been seen in the market for a long time. A rather ragged showing of trivial gains and losses mixed was the net result for the day, with the closing heavy.

Bonds were irregular; total sales, par value, $3,690,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.
