E. W. MARTIN O. K.'S TARIFF

South Dakota Congressman Says Bill Will Justify Itself.

LOOKS FOR GOOD TIMES AS RESULT

Thinks Measure is Best that Could Be Drawn Under the Circumstances and Will Be Fair to General Interests.

"The outcome of the new tariff legislation will surely justify the measure,' said Congressman E. W. Martin of Deadwood, S. D., representative of the western part of South Dakota, who stopped in Omaha on his way home from Washington. He was entertained at lunch Friday at the Omaha club by Ben T. White, general attorney of the Northwestern railroad, who invited the legal representatives of other Omaha roads to meet Mr. Martin.

"President Taft thinks the bill as constructed will meet the expectations of the people, for on many essential products cuts have been made. Steel is cut 50 per cent. Wood, taking dressed and undressed lumber together, the cut is about the same. The general downward revision was not as much as everybody wanted, but in cases it is more than some think they can stand. I think we have done as well as we could and that the bill will justify itself.

"I look for an era of good times, but if bad times come they will be charged to the bill. This bill should bear the name of Payne, and I was glad to see President Taft so designate it. This should be so because in essential matters the conference adopted most of the house schedules. The bill now has considerable more of a Payne tendency than Aldrich. Payne is a protectionist, and while the bill is not perfect, it is in that direction.

"South Dakota is very prosperous at present and while many of the products of our state are scaled down, I do not think the cuts are sufficient to hurt. South Dakota produces two-thirds of the mica of the country and this was cut but slightly. I opposed the putting of hides on the free list, but think the cattle men will be able to take care of themselves.

"Indications are for an era of good times. A splendid healthy condition is shown because for two years it has been known that there would be a downward revision of the tariff and still things are picking up. With this question settled things should take a rebound. If they do it will be a great feather in the cap of the republican party, for heretofore no party has twice revised the tariff and been able to maintain itself in power."

DR. CONLEY SAYS HE WAS NOT CALLED TO TACOMA

Satisfied with First Baptist Church of Omaha and Will Remain with It.

Rev. J. W. Conley will continue to serve the First Baptist church of Omaha as its pastor. He and Mrs. Conley, who have been on the Pacific coast, have returned and Dr. Conley denies the report sent out from Tacoma during his presence in that city that he was to accept the pastorate of a church there. He said:

"We had a most delightful visit. While at Tacoma I preached one Sunday in the Baptist church there, from which has grown the story that I have been given a call to that church. I have no present intention of leaving Omaha or the First Baptist church. No call was extended me there or elsewhere. I am very much satisfied with Omaha and the church here.

"We visited the Seattle exposition while at Seattle. The exposition is a beautiful one. It is not as large as some we have had in the mid-west, but it has a character peculiarly its own. We returned home through the Canadian Rocky mountains and were much impressed with their grandeur and beauty."

Striking Indian Nomenclature.

"Muskoka," Clear Sky Land; "Maganetewan," Smooth Flowing Water; "Kawartha," Bright Water and Happy Lands; "Temagami," Deep Water; "Wawa," The Flying Goose;" are Indian words that fittingly describe some of the most delightful spots for a summer's outing on the American continent. All reached at special low round trip fares via Grand Trunk Railway System. Double track from Chicago to Montreal and Niagara Falls.

Particulars of fares, descriptive literature, time tables, etc., will be mailed free on application to W. S. Cookson, A. G. P. A., 135 Adams street, Chicago.

Good Ship Peoria Gives the Jewelers Big Round Scare

Excursion Steamer Brushes Rocks Off the Bleary Coast of Florence.

The Steamer City of Peoria came near going on the rocks off Florence lighthouse Thursday evening, but compromised the matter by hitting a sandbar.

There was a big delegation of jewelers on board, government officials and several members of the Commercial club.

Federal officers and old-time steamboat men were sitting on the starboard deck abaft the bridge talking about old steamboating days. One old salt was telling a thrilling story of how forty and fifty years ago the ships ploughing the Missouri main would hit a sandbar about twenty-three times in twenty-four hours and then everybody would have to wade ashore to help pull the ship off—worked their passage so to speak.

While he was in the midst of the most thrilling part of the narrative, the good ship City of Peoria came to a dead stop with its jib boom pointing up toward the zenith. There was a grinding noise about its gunwales and the pallid cheeks of the passengers mutely expressed the horror of a watery tomb.

The terror was only momentary, for the captain assured the passengers that he would "hold her nozzle ag'in the bank till the last galoot was ashore," if it came to that.

The sea, fortunately was calm and finally the good ship backed around to the larboard, stern first and succeeded in pulling off the sand bar, though it came near bumping into the bank doing so.

Then joy went unconfined again and the City of Peoria came on down to its landing at the bridge without the loss of a spar, life preserver or a man.

Iowan Buys Much Omaha Property

Leonard Everett of Council Bluffs Just Invests $100,000 in Real Estate.

Leonard Everett of Council Bluffs has plenty of faith in Omaha real estate as an investment.

In addition to his previously large holdings, he has made investments within the last few days which total about $100,000.

The purchase is now announced by him from the Creighton Real Estate and Trust company of 400 acres about two miles west of Benson for $50,000, a price of $125 per acre. Another deal just consummated is that for the northwest corner of Twenty-fifth and Farnam, he buying of Clinton Briggs the lot for $21,000. Both deals were put through by the D. V. Sholes company. The Farnam lot is 130x124, and is just across the street from the Chambers dancing academy.

Mr. Everett recently bought 100 feet on Farnam, west of Twentieth, for $22,500.

Hans Otte has bought 160 acres from the Creighton Real Estate and Trust company near Mr. Everett's land, paying $20,000 for it.

Another sale, this by the Byron Reed company, is from Claus Sievers of acre property on West Dodge to Charles Lubentritt and Stephen Tschida. Twenty-two acres are sold for $11,000. The purchasers are truck gardeners.

Suit to Compel Transfer of Lot

Deal Growing Out of Transaction on Sixteenth Street Gets Into Court.

J. E. Baum, acting for himself and others, has filed a suit in the district court against Mrs. Anna M. Kennedy to try to force her to sell a lot on the southeast corner of Sixteenth and Jackson streets for $75,000.

A week before it was announced that the Woodmen of the World would locate their new building on the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Jackson, Mr. Baum and others secured an option from Mrs. Kennedy to sell her lot, 66x132 feet, for $75,000, the first payment to be $10,000. The option was to expire last Saturday.

At 11:45 Saturday night in the office of J. A. C. Kennedy, a son of Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. Baum offered to take the property at the stated price and offered his check for $10,000 to bind the bargain as he claimed the contract required. Mr. Kennedy refused to accept the check on the ground that it was not money, and that the option contract required a first payment of $10,000 in money.

An effort was made Monday to have Mrs. Kennedy turn over the property, but she maintained that the requirements of the option had not been lived up to and that it had expired.

The suit filed Thursday was for specific performance to compel Mrs. Kennedy to turn over the property, on the grounds that the terms of the option had been complied with.

Both parties assert that the value of the property has greatly increased since it was announced that the Woodmen of the World would locate their new building on the corner across the street.

On an Anti-Meat Diet.

"It is nearly six months now since I have tasted meat."

"On a diet, eh?"

"Yes."

"Have you noticed any change in your condition?"

"I should say I have. I've been able to pay up nearly all my old debts. In another month I'll be absolutely independent."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Mike Whelan's Last Catch a Good Big One

He Lands Dangerous Confidence Men with $50,000 Worth of Stolen Contracts.

Word came up from Kansas City last night that the police down there had in custody Mrs. Dillie Woodward, wife of a well known confidence operator, and had secured from her $50,000 worth of bridge contracts belonging to the Standard Bridge company of Omaha.

On the last day of July Paul Reiff of the bridge company was on a Northwestern train in Iowa when his suit case was stolen. It contained the contracts just recovered, together with clothing and toilet articles. Reiff reported the theft at once, and on Tuesday Special Agent Seward of the Northwestern and Sergeant Whelan of the Omaha police arrested J. M. Kelso, alias the "Custer Kid," and a man who gave his name as George Carver, but who has since proved to be Dillie Woodward. These two, with the woman, were at the Dodge hotel. The officers found out they had sent a package by express to Kansas City, and that the woman had started for that city. Word was sent at once to Kansas City and the arrest yesterday followed.

Among the effects of the men when caught was a black leather suitcase, containing a miscellaneous lot of plunder, such as doilies, tidies and other fancy articles, stolen from some department store, and articles belonging to Reiff. The valuable papers are in the hands of the Kansas City police and all the crooks connected with the case are in custody.

As Mike Whelan was retired from active service, dating from Monday, this capture is probably the last of a long list that stands to his credit with the Omaha police department.

What's the Matter With Corning?

Iowa Town Sends Too Many Bad Ones to the Police Court in Omaha.

"What's the matter with the town of Corning, Ia.?" asked Judge Crawford in police court. "We get more people in this court from that town than any other single place in Iowa or Nebraska."

His utterances were brought forth when Alfred Deer, charged with being a vagrant, was brought before him Friday morning and confessed he was from Corning. The Iowa man said he was bound for Seattle. The judge told him he would better get back to old Iowa and let Seattle alone

Nebraska's Municipal Problems

The Commercial Clubs and similar organizations scattered over Nebraska must be not only the directing force but the business custodian of the mnuicipality.

Organization is the chief impulse of this century; the achievement of any given purpose with the least loss of time and energy.

Our cities are too young to have yet measured the chief real obstacles to be overcome in their development. We have not yet evolved a coherent public opinion through which the state—as a state—can "find voice." We are depending largely upon economic accident, and personal initiative, for our progress along these channels in which we have all a common interest.

The quickest and the cheapest way to build a state is to build it by associated effort. When that is realized it will be acknowledged that the first step is the federation—in some form—of the commercial clubs of Nebraska.

Such a commercial federation would have to be developed as expediency suggested. It could start with no cut and dried program. But it would begin, and labor, and be guided by a mastering idea.

Such an affirmation would foster a watchful spirit of state pride, an active conception of civic honor, a respect for the state, and the cities of the state, equal to the respect we each feel for our family and our home.

Civic pride lies at the bottom of the city beautiful. Every promoter is a booster. Few boosters are promoters. "The Story of Nebraska," is being continued each week in The Sunday Bee and from time to time will speak of the different commercial clubs of the smaller cities, what they have accomplished and what they hope to accomplish.
