SCHOOL BOARD WANTS MONEY

Building Committee Recommends Bond Issue of $750,000.

MUCH MORE ROOM IS NEEDED

High School Inadequate to Demand on Its Facilities and Many Grade Schools Unfit and Overcrowded.

The committee on buildings and grounds of the Board of Education last evening submitted a lengthy report which embodied the following specific recommendations:

That an addition of eight rooms be built to the Saratoga school, duplicating that building; also an eight-room addition to the Monmouth Park school, duplicating that building; Central Park school to be replaced by a sixteen-room building; sixteen rooms be built on the Miller Park site, an addition of six rooms to the Kellom school, addition of four rooms to the Long school, addition of six rooms to the Park school, eight rooms to the Windsor school, purchase of a new site for the Bancroft school for a sixteen-room building, sixteen-room building on the Castellar site, new high school building be completed as soon as possible and that there be built at the same time suitable quarters for the manual training department, that the Board of Education consider the advisability of submitting a proposition to the voters of the city looking toward the issuing of $750,000 in school bonds for the purpose of relieving the congested condition in the schools and accomplishing the improvements outlined in this report.

Facilities Pronounced Inadequate.

In outlining the reasons for the different recommendations the committe says that many of the districts are increasing very rapidly in population, that the schools where additions are asked are in every instance overcrowded; that some of them are out of date, unsuitable in many vital particulars, and that temporary annexes and rented rooms are all too common and numerous. The need for manual training in districts such as the Kellom is also set out at length.

Of the high school, the report says:

With the high school situation your committee feels that every member of the Board of Education is perfectly familiar. From time to time rumors are circulated as to the unadvisability of using the old high school building at all, and your committee fully realizes that the day of usefulness of this old structure has almost passed.

With 2,100 children enrolled in the high school, we are now using every available corner for class-room work, much of it being unsatisfactory and unsanitary in the extreme. As a matter of fact we are now using the halls at the high school to supply the lack of regular class-rooms.

When the new wing is completed and ready for occupancy next September, there will be some relief in the way of an additional number of desirable class-rooms, but nevertheless, the board will be confronted immediately by the absolute necessity of taking steps looking forward to the completion of the new high school building as originally planned—due to the fact that the old building has been made more undesirable still since the construction of the new wing, this wing having shut off the light from all the north rooms in the old building. These rooms are now practically unfit for school use from the standpoint of eyesight alone, the school authorities being forced to the necessity of providing artificial light in order that the rooms may be used at all for school purposes.

One hundred and sixty pupils entered the high school this February, 140 of whom selected the manual training work, but on account of the lack of accommodation in the manual training department this entire number had to be refused admission to manual training. Even in the domestic science work we are limited to a single room and are obliged to open this course to girls in the junior and senior years, thereby refusing admission to the domestic science classes to all girls in the freshman and sophomore years.

Two Principals Retired.

Two members of the teaching staff were, on recommendation of the committee on teachers, based on their own requests, placed on the retired list, beginning with March 1. They are Miss Frances Butterfield, principal of the Dupont school, and Miss Jennie M. McKoon, formerly of the Train school, but who has been on leave of absence. Both of these teachers have given forty years of service, approximately, to the schools of Omaha.

As a result of these retirements, Miss Alice Orr of the Sherman school, was assigned to the principalship of the Dupont school; Miss Alta Peacock of the eighth grade at Kellom school, was assigned to the principalship of the Sherman school, and Miss Lulu H. Hunt was assigned to the principalship of the new Miller Park school, which will be opened about April 1.

At the Theaters

"The First Night" at the Boyd.

Lillian Russell and company in "The First Night," a farce comedy in three acts, by George V. Hobart, under the direction of Joseph Brooks. The cast:

Colonel Ketcham, a particular papa.....Digby Bell
Jessie, his daughter.....Millicent Evans
Mabel, his other daughter..Leonora Oakford
Mrs. Pfitzer, his sister....Susanne Westford
Langdon Jones, an author..Julius McVicker
Mortimer Smith, a lawyer....Sydney Booth
Murgatroyd Howe, a young man with money.....George E. Mack
Jerry Graham.....Albert Andruss
Luke Sharp, a chauffeur..T. Hayes Hunter
Mina, a maid.....Saidee Williams
Rose Graham.....Lillian Russell

Any farce written by George V. Hobart is sure to contain laughable lines, and if the same be given over to actors who have the saving sense of humor, the effect is just as certain as death or taxation. And here we have a farce written by Hobart and put into the keeping of actors entirely competent; moreover, the members of Miss Russell's company appear to enjoy the fun themselves, so heartily do they enter into the proceedings, and the effect produced is much more nearly real than any farce shown here since Alice Fischer played "Mrs. Jack" to about as many people as faced Miss Russell at the Boyd last night. Some thousands of Omaha folks are still kicking themselves because they did not go to see Alice Fischer, and these will be joined by an equal number who will be kicking themselves with equal vigor, unless the matinee this afternoon and the two remaining performances are much better attended. This is not to give the impression that it was lonesome at the Boyd last night, for it wasn't, but the company and the piece well deserve the compliment of a packed house at each presentation.

No matter how Lillian Russell does it, she does it, and that ought to be enough. She preserves the loveliness of her features, and while her form is no longer the lissome shape suggestive of sheath gowns and similar drapery, her smile is as entrancing as it ever was, while she still bubbles with the good humor of a healthy mind that is looking for the fun life contains. In this piece she is playing the part of a wife whose husband hates the stage and everything connected with it, and is inclined to intense and unreasonable jealousy. She has music in her makeup and writes the score and lyrics for a musical comedy, for which the book is provided by a well known author. But the wife does not dare disclose her identity until the piece has been tried and its success has given her warrant to claim it as her own. The events of the farce occur on the day of the first performance. She has slipped away from home to witness the "first night," and her husband imagines she has eloped. He follows her, and thinks he has caught her with her lover, who is only her co-author. This and the fact that the co-author is affianced to the daughter of a man who does not trust his own sex and who is a friend of the husband, afford a nice array of complications, which make fun for three acts, and are all straightened out in the end, when the ambitious wife declaims her emotions at the theater while her piece is on trial, and her happiness at its success. Miss Russell has plenty of chance for quiet comedy, and one mighty good opportunity for elocutionary effort. Her best work is done with Digby Bell in the second act.

Mr. Bell, who hasn't been seen in Omaha for a long time, is still an unfailing source of rich and healthy comedy. Each member of the cast deserves a special word of thanks for efforts well directed to the end of making the performance most enjoyable.

The matinee performance will be given this afternoon instead of on Wednesday. The engagement closes on Wednesday night.

DEPARTMENT OFFICERS COME

Unexpected, But Pleasurable Visit Paid Members of Lee Forby Camp of Veterans.

Inspection by officers of the Department of Nebraska, United Spanish War Veterans, was the surprise that awaited the members of Lee Forby camp No. 1 when they assembled for a social time at Baright's hall last night. The visit was, however, as welcome as it was unexpected. The visitors were: Department Commander E. H. Phelps, Lincoln; Department Adjutant Harry McGurran, Lincoln; Inspector General August Wagner, Columbus, and Colonel George Eberley, Stanton, judge advocate general.

Addresses were delivered by each of the visitors and the inspector general invited the members of the camp and all those who had served in the Spanish war to the annual reunion to be held at Columbus, April 26. The officers of the camp present were: Commander Parry Miller, Senior Vice Commander Harry Vickers, Junior Vice Commander A. E. Thompson, Quartermaster Harry M. Class and Adjutant H. A. Ableson. Some fifty veterans were present and at the conclusion of the meeting lunch was served.

FABCONI MEMBER OF MAFIA?

Omaha Italian's Arrest Caused by Federal Officers on Charge of Being Fugitive from Justice.

Carmilo Fabconi, a native of Carlentina, in southern Italy, is held for examination today by United States Commissioner R. T. McNaghten, with a view to his deportation.

Commissioner McNaghten arrived in Omaha yesterday and with the assistance of Detectives Davis and Patullo located Fabconi, who was placed under arrest last night. He is charged with being a fugitive from justice, and although no particulars of the crime for which he is wanted have been disclosed, it is understood the allegation against Fabconi is that he has been implicated in the doings of the Mafia, the society which has its headquarters in Calabria and Sicily. He has been in Omaha for two years and was traced here from New York. While in Omaha he has been employed as a cement worker and lived at 613 Pierce street.

CATTLE—Receipts of cattle were quite liberal again today and the total for the two days foots up the same as for the corresponding two days of last week, but 3,500 larger than for the corresponding period of last year. The market as a whole was in very satisfactory condition as viewed from a seller's standpoint.

In spite of the fact that there were quite a good many beef steers in sight this morning the market opened stronger and was active at current prices. It was very evident that buyers wanted the cattle and they went after them in the way that sellers like to see. While prices were generally quoted as only strong, salesmen in many cases thought they secured prices that were as much as 5@10c higher than yesterday and in some cases they were calling it 10@15c higher than yesterday. Good beeves sold up to $8.85.

Cows and heifers also showed a good advance, the market on that kind of cattle being in the same condition as the fat cattle market. There were a few heifers good enough to bring $6.

Stockers and feeders were in very good demand and the market fairly active at strong prices. A feeder buyer paid as high as $6 for some very good western hayfeds to be taken back to the country and placed on feed.

Quotations on cattle: Good to choice cornfed steers, $6.50@7.25; fair to good cornfed steers, $5.75@6.50; common to fair cornfed steers, $4.75@5.75; good to choice cows and heifers, $5.00@6.75; fair to good cows and heifers, $4.00@6.00; common to fair cows and heifers, $2.75@4.00; good to choice stockers and feeders, $4.75@6.75; fair to good stockers and feeders, $4.25@4.75; common to fair stockers and feeders, $3.25@4.25; veal calves, $4.00@9.25; stock heifers, $3.00@4.00; bulls, stags, etc., $3.25@6.10.
