SOCCER FOOT BALL GAINING

Game is Taking Firm Foothold in Western Part of Country.

AMERICAN GAME CROWDED OUT

Lovers of Great American Sport Fear for Their Favorite Game Since the Introduction of Soccer Contests.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Soccer foot ball is steadily gaining a foothold in the east and in the central western part of the country. Already it has crowded out the American game on the Pacific slope, and, while it has not yet supplanted the eastern game on the Atlantic coast, a league has been formed, with six colleges as members, and indications are that two more will join for next year.

Princeton and Brown have been formally invited to join the Intercollegiate Association Foot Ball league, whose membership already comprises Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania and Haverford. It is believed that the invitations will be accepted, as the athletic authorities at Princeton and Brown have already indicated their desire to compete.

As will be seen, the personnel of the league is, with the exception of Haverford, entirely "big teams." The schedule is so arranged that every team meets the other seven. It will be this very feature that will in time enable "association" to considerably undermine and dethrone the American game in the end, according to undergraduate talk.

Aged and time-worn "scraps" between various of the large universities have resulted in the severance of foot ball relations with many, so that at present they are not linked up with any series of games. Pennsylvania is a rank outsider and Cornell is almost in the same boat. Harvard and Princeton were kept apart for years on account of a silly mistaken idea.

Fear for American Game.

The fact that the English game is what has brought all of these universities, through their athletic teams, into amicable relations, is what makes lovers of the great American gridiron sport fear for its life.

Add to that the annual outlay for fatalities and injuries that always occur through the season and the reason for these contentions is apparent.

But this is not all. The alterations and changes made to American foot ball every year when the rules committee gets in its deadly work is weakening the game more than any other single cause, it is claimed. Coaches and candidates find every fall that it is necessary to learn practically the entire game over again, so changed and revamped are the provisions in the new rule book.

A good proportion of the "old time" alumni of six or seven years back are backing the undergraduates who clamor for a return to the old style of play. The allowance of the forward pass under certain conditions is the only innovation which has found universal favor.

Association foot ball was introduced as a side line on the Pacific coast and is now the one fall sport at Stanford and California universities. The University of Southern California then took it up and the University of Nevada followed suit. Announcements have been made at universities in Washington and Oregon that they too will put soccer teams in the field next fall. They clung to the American game as long as possible, but lack of opponents caused the change.

Implanted in the West.

Coming further east, Utah university features both branches of foot ball—American and English—each having about the same number of adherents. This year several Colorado institutions will have soccer teams and the University of Wyoming is thinking of following suit.

Still further east, it is learned that several disgruntled members of the university conference body in the central section will turn their attention to soccer since foot ball games outside of conference members is barred. Minnesota and Michigan will have English teams in September.

Along the Atlantic coast, it is apparent that Dartmouth, West Point, Annapolis and Syracuse are the only large athletic institutions that are not represented in the British game. The Carlisle Indians have a soccer team which plays a few games every fall.

ST. PAUL BASE BALL TEAM THREATENS TO STRIKE

ST. PAUL, June 1.—Indignant, it is alleged, because they say the management has been delinquent with their pay, the members of the St. Paul American association base ball team today threatened not to play the scheduled game with Minneapolis at Minneapolis this afternoon.

The players' checks, two weeks late, were given them this afternoon after the banks closed.

There was no game yesterday, "wet grounds" was given as the reason.

Spalding College Beats Primrose.

SPALDING, Neb., June 1.—(Special.)—Spalding college defeated Primrose on Decoration day by the score of 3 to 2. Primrose got but one hit off Ryan, but scored two runs in the ninth on errors. The college had several of its young reserves in the lineup. Score:

Grizzlies Slow Up.

Maybe the Denver Grizzlies will repeat and bag another bunting, but the incontrovertible truth is that the Bears have lost sixteen out of the twenty-four games, and that isn't the variety of gait that cops a pennant.

AUTO IS OF FEMININE GENDER

Sex is Determined When R.-C.-H. Tumbles Over Embankment.

ALIGHTS JUST LIKE A KITTEN

Front Wheels Are Thrown Out of Kilter, Shield, Lamps and Fender Smashed, but Mechanical Action is Intact.

Automobiles along with steamboats, locomotives and other inanimate objects have been known as "she." There has never, heretofore, been any indication, however, that any auto was related to the cat family, but is must be.

Out in Los Animas, Colo., where they are ready to make a car do the old western mustang tricks to prove its worth, the cat instincts cropped out in an R-C-H this week.

P. W. Pitman was driving in a touring car during a demonstration along one of the western state's rocky roads, when the road "slid." Pitman found himself going over a forty foot embankment and at a rate of thirty-five miles an hour. It is some stunt in itself, going at this rate, to realize where one is headed for.

Lands on All Fours.

The man glued to the driving seat of the car and the car itself turned over and then landed like a regular old "Tommy," on all four wheels. Pitman had slipped down in the seat a little, into a sort of repose, but was unhurt.

The prospect, who was along, was much more crumpled up, but in his effort to get a hold of something firm during the fall grabbed and closed the machine's jiffy curtains. This made the car when it landed cat-like to have such an altered and limousine-like appearance that a native coming behind in a rumbling wagon asked: "Did ye do it on a purpose."

Pitman and his companion examined the car when they straightened out their vertebrae and found the following injuries: front wheels out of true, wind shield, two lamps and fender smashed. The mechanical action of the car was unhampered by the plunge.

She has been dubbed the "Kitten" by the local press.

CHAMPION HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETE OF SOUTH DAKOTA.

To Charles Heath, a student of the Sioux Falls High school, is given the credit for the Sioux Falls High school athletes carrying off the honors at the recent South Dakota high school meet at Vermillion. The championship was not won until after a hard fight and at the very last minute. The contest was decided when Mr. Heath won the broad jump. Up to that time the score stood, Huron 24 points and Madison and Sioux Falls tied at 21 points. Heath came to the front in magnificent style in the broad jump and Sioux Falls went to the front, carrying off first honors with a total of 26 points. The participants in the broad jump were Heath, Sioux Falls; Wray, Hurley; Nelson, Yankton. The contest was won by Heath at 20 feet 1 inch, his nearest competitor making 20 feet and ¾ inch. Mr. Heath was the hero of the meet and was given a warm reception on his return to Sioux Falls. He now is the possessor of a number of medals won at athletic mets.

WOLGAST AND O'BRIEN FIGHT SIX ROUNDS IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—Champion Ad Wolgast and Young Jack O'Brien fought a fast six-round bout before the American Athletic club tonight and at the end the advantage, if any, was with the champion.

O'Brien was the more clever, but his blows lacked force, while those of Wolgast made the Philadelphia boxer wince when they landed on the body.

In the second round Wolgast dropped O'Brien for the count of nine, but the blow did not stop the youngster's speed, which at times dazzled Wolgast.

SELECT AMERICAN ATHLETES

Time Draws Near for Organization of Squad to Go to Stockholm.

MUST CONSIDER MANY THINGS

From Eleven in Morning Until Late at Night Committee Will Be Kept Busy Selecting Most Likely Candidates.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Final arrangements for the selection of the American Olympic team have been completed and Monday, June 10, promises to be a red letter day in the annals of American sport. On that date the various sections of the American Olympic committee will meet to decide upon the athletes who shall represent the country in the international track and field meet to be held at Stockholm, July 6 to 15. The conference, which will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria in this city, is expected to be one of the most exciting sessions of the Olympic season and will be attended by prominent athletic authorities and press representatives from all parts of the country.

The state room of the hotel has been engaged for the meeting, which will be called to order at 11 o'clock in the forenoon. From that hour until long after midnight it is believed the members of the committee will be kept busy struggling to separate the athletic wheat from the chaff in order that the American Olympic team of 1912 may be the most complete and representative that ever sailed from these shores for such an event. The conference will be secret insofar as it is confined to the members of the selection committee and allied sections of the Olympic committee. An adjacent room for the press representatives will be engaged, however, and the scribes will be kept informed as to the decisions of the committee by a member especially delegated for this duty.

Hard Task Faces Them.

Some idea of the amount of detail which faces those in charge of the selection of the American team can be gained from the fact that three sets of tryouts meets will have to be considered in addition to a number of special events, including Marathon races, pentathlon and similar all-round contests. The Olympic athletic program consists of thirty events, continuing for a period of nine days, and the American trials will be modeled to conform with the lines of competition at Stockholm. Under the circumstances it will be necessary to pass upon the records and performances of the first three men in each of the three trial meets. One of these, the Pacific coast test, was held at Palo Alto, Cal. The remaining meets will be held at Cambridge, Mass., and Evanston, Ill., on Saturday, June 8.

Not only will the performances of all place winners be considered, but the records of some athletes who have, for good reasons, been unable to compete must be taken into consideration before the personnel of the team is finally decided upon. No order of procedure for the selection of the American Olympic squad has as yet been named. It is likely, however, that the first events to be considered will be the sprints and hurdle races, with the longer runs and the field contests following in the order named. The team competitions will be taken up probably during the early morning hours of Tuesday, by which time the selection committee will be convinced that it is harder work to select the American Olympic team than it is to win the Olympic meet.

Attendance Will Be Large.

The committee, which consists of forty-seven members, will be represented by close to 100 per cent attendance. Every section and state in the union has its delegate, and no native son need fear that his endeavors will go unsung. There is certain to be some difference of opinion regarding the relative merits of the various athletes and discussion will undoubtedly prolong the session for a period of more than twelve hours. The members who will have the final vote in the selection of each member of the team are as follows: James E. Sullivan, chairman; William M. Sloane, Evert Jansen Wendell, Allison V. Armour, Gustavus T. Kirby, Bartow S. Weeks, Edward E. Babb, Julian W. Curtiss, Frederic B. Pratt, Joseph B. Maccabe, Thomas F. Riley, Romeyn Berry, Thornton Gerrish, Dr. Luther H. Gulick, H. L. Geyelin, C. A. Painter, F. W. Rullen, George F. Pawling, E. K. Hall, P. J. Conway, Everett C. Brown, A. A. Stagg, Theodore Bland, H. A. Williams, W. P. Murray, W. C. Johnston, E. C. Racey, A. F. Dugosh, Lieutenant Colonel N. B. Thurston, James R. Pilkington, Colonel H. T. Allen, L. Di Benedetto, Lieutenant Commander Harris Laning, W. F. Humphries, John J. Elliott, J. B. Franklin, A. S. Goldsmith, T. Morris Dunne, Prof. E. O'Neill, Dr. Frank Angell, Dr. Graeme Hammond, Dr. Reginald H. Sayre, G. W. Billings, R. F. Kelsey, Dr. B. Merrill Hopkinson, Lieutenant General John C. Bates and Lieutenant Albert S. Jones.

Depends on Money.

Chairman James E. Sullivan, in discussing the coming meeting, said: "It is impossible at this time to name a single member of the American team with any degree of positiveness. Much depends upon the amount of money at the disposal of the committee at the time the squad is selected. The executive committee will hold a meeting before the selection body sits down for final counsel and will state the exact financial conditions. With this settled we will be able to proceed knowing our limitations from a money standpoint and I want to state right here that unless we secure a big addition to our funds there are going to be some surprised athletes when the list is announced. We know to a penny just how much money is needed to send each athlete to Stockholm and we can't send 100 if we have but enough for fifty. That's the story in a nutshell.

"I figure that we will need at least eighty men to capture first place in the track and field championships and there is not enough money in sight at this time to send that number. For that reason it may be necessary to leave at home athletes who at first sight would appear to be eligible from an athletic standpoint for the team. It is this shortage of funds that is going to make the selection of the men hard, since a number of angles will have to be considered in naming each athlete. Every name will have to be voted upon by every member of the committee present and there is certain to be some difference of opinion in any body of the size of the Olympic selection committee."

It is stated that the winners of the Pacific coast tryouts will in all probability be in this city at the time the final selection is made. It was pointed out that if they waited until they were named on Tuesday, June 11, they could not possibly make the long transcontinental trip to New York in time to sail with the American party on the Finland three days later.

Road Race Planned for Pacific Coast

NEW YORK, June 1.—Another big road race is planned for the Pacific coast on July 5 and 6. It will be held at Tacoma, Wash., under the auspices of the Tacoma Automobile club and the Tacoma Carnival association. Four events are planned for the two days of racing, which will be over a circuit in Pierce county through the Tacoma gravel prairies.

The course is five miles around, which means that cars will pass the grandstand at rapid intervals. The first day there will be run three light car races, including the 230 cubic inch and under division, 231-300 and 301-450 displacement division in Class C. These will run respectively 100, 150 and 200 miles.

The next day there will be the Class D non-stock free-for-all race, contestants running 250 miles, which means fifty laps. The cash prize for the free-for-all is $5,000, the same amount being split up in the light car events. Four perpetual challenge trophies will be battled for in each race.

Starter Fred G. Wagner has been asked by the Tacoma people to make another trip to the coast to start this race, and if the Old Orchard Beach meet promoters will release him from his contract to start the races in Maine on July 4 he will make the jump to the coast.

Omaha High Defeats the Papillion Team

The Omaha High school base ball team traveled to Papillion yesterday afternoon to play the high school team at that place, and came home victorious, taking the long end of an 8 to 6 score. The feature of the game was the pitching of McFarlane, whose miraculous hurling for the Omaha boys enabled them to win. He struck out fifteen of the surburbanites and gave but three stingy hits. Score:

		R.	H.	E.
Omaha	0 0 0 0 0 4 4 0 0	8	9	3
Papillion	2 2 0 0 2 0 0 0 0	6	3	3

Batteries: McFarlane and Adams, Brown and Claire.

Bluffs Elks Trim Americans.

In a closely contested game the Council Bluffs Elks defeated the Bluffs Americans yesterday afternoon by the score of 4 to 3 at Lake Manawa. The Americans strengthened their team to win this game.

Williams played a star game at second, twice making difficult catches that cut off runs.

The batteries were: Elks, Peterson and Smith; Americans, McGinley and Skinner.

Kilbane Emulates His Predecessors

NEW YORK, June 1.—If Johnny Kilbane, the new featherweight champion, adheres to his apparent intention of going against K. O. Brown, Owen Moran, Leach Cross or some other of the lightweights now providing activity, he will be emulating the example of more than one of his predecessors on the 122-pound throne. Abe Attell and Terry McGovern form most notable examples of featherweights going out of their class to meet lightweights.

In the case of Terrible Terry, the pride of Tuckahoe, first began as a bantam, then grew into a featherweight, and won all his bouts with ridiculous ease. It was as a featherweight that he tumbled Pedler Palmer, the English champion, and annexed his first world's title. Then he set out for the lightweights and disposed of every man with a reasonable claim to that title in his time. As fate would have it, he finally succumbed to a man in his own rightful class, featherweight, Young Corbett turning the trick.

Attell's experience was similar in more ways than one. Abe also finally fell before a featherweight after reigning over the division for twelve years and also defeating many crack lightweights. His most memorable setto with a lightweight was his four-round bout with Bat Nelson when the latter was champion. Abe realized the laurels to be gained by knocking out the champion in a class above his own and strived to put Nelson down for the count. As it was, he easily outpointed Nelson in the brief four rounds, but the law in Philadelphia, where they fought, forbade decisions, so he did not capture the lightweight title.

Fight fans are wondering whether Kilbane will have the same success against lightweights that McGovern and Attell enjoyed, if indeed he does allow himself to get matched up with any.

Vanderbilt Event Prizes Attractive

MILWAUKEE, June 1.—What is said to be the largest list ever offered for an automobile road race has been announced by the Vanderbilt Cup race committee.

The cash value of the trophy and the money awards to be given to the winning drivers and manufacturers will exceed $41,000.

There will be four events in all on the cards, including the Vanderbilt cup, grand prize, Pabst Blue Ribbon trophy and the Wisconsin motor trophy races. The last mentioned trophy stands about forty inches in height and
