An Absolute Guarantee

Do you know what that means? It means that no guarantee can be made stronger. That is just what I want to give you when you buy a pair of Patent Leather Shoes of me. I will absolutely guarantee the patent leather to outwear the sole or I will give you a new pair of shoes. There will be no backing down. There has never been a time when my guarantee was not good and there is not going to be. Think it over and try a pair of these shoes.

Notice.

Owing to the fact that the services of a United States Land Commissioner have been greatly in demand since the passage of the new homestead bill, I have decided to again attend to all kinds of business before the United States land office. Having had several years' experience in the work, all matters will receive proper and prompt attention. Homestead filings, final proofs, contests, etc., can be made before me at any place in the land districts in which the lands desired are located. I will also visit points between Broken Bow and Crawford upon request. Any violation of the land laws or irregularities of governmental acts will receive the proper attention when reported to me. T. J. O'KEEFE, United States Commissioner for the District of Nebraska.

Popular Young People Wed.

The marriage of Mr. Percy H. Cogswell and Miss Lulu H. Duncan was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Duncan, at Fort Morgan, Colo., Tuesday, August 2, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, by the Rev. Gibson of the United Presbyterian church of Fort Morgan. The preparations and artistic decorations for this important affair were complete in every detail, and the young couple, in the heyday of their young lives, were in their dreams of love, just on the threshold of a new life on whose path the morning sun in the far east had begun to cast its slender rays of silvery light. In the spacious room wherein the marriage took place the ceremony was performed before a large window decorated in green and white, amid a bower of ferns and palms. Promptly at the hour announced, the bridal party proceeded towards the beautiful arch, led by little Julia Frankle and Eva Duncan who acted as flower girls, strewing the pathway of the bridal party with rose petals. Following the flower girls came little Tillie Frankle bearing the golden ring, which was the visible insignia of this most important contract between two lives, to be broken only by death. Then came the bride and groom, and as the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march were faultlessly played by Miss Inice McCorkle, the scene was one of grand inspiration and those present could not but feel that spirit which appeals to the soul when the higher and better nature is touched. The bride was costumed in white Parisian trim in Valenciennes lace and insertion, while the groom wore conventional black. The young couple responded audibly to the religious ceremonies and the minister in low tone announced the words uniting them in the holy bonds of matrimony. While the imposing ceremony was in progress the scene was made doubly impressive by the sweet strain of that favorite melody, "Love's First Dream." It was an ideal wedding, and one those who had the good fortune to witness will always remember with pleasure. After the ceremony the happy couple received the congratulations and good wishes of all and the bride was visibly affected as she rested in the arms of her parents who could not give their child away without crowding back tears, for she was a good daughter to them and we know how a parent's heart sundens to see a flower of the flock pass from their circle. It is, not that they regret to see her pass along life's path and seek the hearth of the one she loves, for that is but right and natural, but yet it is so hard to give her up. In this instance the hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan are made happy by the knowledge that their daughter has selected a partner for life who is a man of honor, and in the community in which he resides holds the high esteem of all for his manly bearing. Mr. and Mrs. Cogswell will come to Alliance enjoying the good will and friendship of all the citizens.

After the congratulations the guests were invited to the dining hall, where refreshments of brick ice cream and assorted cakes were served by the Misses Vina Perry, Mabel Duncan and Alma Hamilton. Punch was served in the drawing room by Mrs. C. D. Peckenpaugh. The bridal couple left in the afternoon for a pleasure trip in the western part of the state and will visit Colorado Springs, Manitau, Cripple Creek and other interesting points in scenic Colorado before they take up their residence in this city, which will be in a week or ten days. The bride's going away gown was of blue and champagne. Mr. and Mrs. Cogswell will be at home to their friends after September first. Those present from abroad at the marriage ceremony were Mrs. Marcus Frankle and daughters, Mrs. Will Acheson and daughters, Mrs. C. D. Peckenpaugh, Miss Inice McCorkle, Miss Vina Perry and Mr. Jay Duncan all of Alliance, also Mr. Geo. Bell of Loveland, Colo. The newly married couple were the recipients of a large number of beautiful presents, among which were several from a distance. Those who proved lucky winners at the wedding were the Misses Mabel Duncan, Alma Hamilton, Alice Acheson, and Edna Duncan who drew the ribbons of green and white to form the bridal arch. These fortunate young ladies had better look out or Cupid's darts will find their hearts and other brave knights will do just as Percy did that day, each win the hand of the girl he loves.

Taken to Grand Island.

H. N. Clifford, whose serious illness with blood poisoning was mentioned in last week's HERALD, was taken to St. Francis hospital at Grand Island Saturday night, where he underwent the amputation of the effected limb. The last heard from Mr. Clifford he was resting easy but the physicians were doubtful of his recovery on account of his advanced years and the condition of his system. The Grand Island Daily Independent in speaking of him says: "Horatio N. Clifford an old gentleman from Alliance was brought to the hospital yesterday suffering severely from blood poisoning, the results of infection from cutting one of his corns about ten days ago. A few days ago while still at his home in Alliance it was noticed that the foot was becoming gangrenous, and turning black for a considerable distance up the ankle. He was immediately sent to the St. Francis hospital here, where an amputation of the leg just below the knee was made this morning, in the hopes of saving his life. Mr. Clifford withstood the operation very nicely, and is resting comfortably this afternoon although the chances of his ultimate recovery are very much against him on account of the blood poisoning affecting his entire system. Mr. Clifford is in the bakery business in Alliance and has been a well known resident of Nebraska for over twenty years."

Arrived at Naples.

THE HERALD is in receipt of a letter from Rev. Father Galvin last Saturday which is dated the 10th of July, the day after his arrival at Naples. His many friends here in Alliance will be glad to learn that he enjoyed such a pleasant journey across the ocean and that he is in the best of health and spirits. We publish herewith a few extracts from Father Galvin's communication descriptive of his voyage and it is written in the happy vein for which the writer is known it will be read with much interest. Last evening we arrived in Naples. Sorry that the voyage could not be prolonged weeks or even months longer. I really feel somewhat sorry in quitting the steamer Perugia and her genial Captain Johnson. I will always have a soft spot in my heart for Scotchmen, because of the kindness and good fellowship shown us by the officers of the Perugia. Even the timid land lubber could not ask pleasanter weather. It was as fine as could be, clear and as calm as Broncho tube, and almost as picturesque. For really I think Broncho tube is a very much unappreciated sheet of water. None of us had even the ghost of a chance of getting sea sick. One or two got a slight bilious attack, but of course that is not sea sickness—it never is, you know. I got a slight attack of indigestion by trying, almost successfully, to eat through the bill of the bill-of-fare. We had a dandy cook, of the masculine persuasion. We made due salutes to his royal highness, King Edward, at Gibraltar and last night the Italian passengers went into ecstasies of applause when the beautiful island of Ischia rose from the turquoise sea, like a fair lady enshrouded in a filmy veil. Sea how had I've caught it already. One would be vaccinated for less in Alliance. The bay of Naples surpasses all written descriptions of it—of very few places on God's footstool the same may be said with truth. Vesuvius smokes on one side, Sorrento and Capri smiles on the other, Naples and Protillo lends a charm indescribable to the northern sweep of the bay and the land of "il dolce far niente" is beyond the land of the soul, where art and music grow and float around. It is such a pleasure to know Italian well, I feel as much at home here as I do on Box Butte avenue, Alliance. I will visit Pompeii, Capri, Vesuvius and of course all the beautiful churches and sanctuaries. The right and left eyes of the Catholic priesthood both sprang from the Neapolitan Provinces—St. Thomas of Aquin and St. Alphonsus Liguori. Naturally, it is good for me to be here. Kindest regards to all the friends in Alliance.

THE JUNIOR NORMAL

Notes of Interest from the School Room.

The girls are tiring of basket ball. No call for a team has been made lately.

These cool evenings are very enjoyable for tennis. The court is in constant demand.

Bernice Kridelbaugh of Omaha has promised to favor the Normal with a vocal solo in the near future.

Miss Agnes Lackey, formerly county superintendent of Scottsbluff county, enrolled in the Normal this week.

Superintendent Smith of Dawes county and Superintendent Borky of Sioux county will be here next week.

Capt. Akers will address the students Friday morning in chapel. All students will profit by being in chapel each morning.

Rev. Jeffers favored us with a talk Monday morning. His talks have been highly appreciated as they all lead to a perfect ideal.

R. C. Noleman gave a very interesting and instructive lecture to the students Wednesday. His idea was the "Idea of World's various parts of the tropic."

Misses A where melanges is very called home to be on account of the serious illness of their mother. We hope to hear of her recovery soon.

The geography class regret that the remaining time of this year is so short. Mr. Philpot makes the work so very interesting especially the study of Nebraska.

Miss Lulu Rooker has been compelled to leave school on account of sickness. She soon leaves for California where it is hoped she will regain her health.

An event to which all are anxiously looking forward is the entertainment by the Lotus Glee club Saturday evening, also the matinee for the Normal students at 3 p. m.

The enrollment has at present, reached the one hundred and seventy-six mark. It is hoped that many more names will be added to the list before the normal closes. The teachers who are making a better and more thorough preparation for the work before them, are the teachers who will be the most successful in school work; the teachers who are in demand. No teacher, or prospective teacher of northwest Nebraska can well afford to miss the excellent opportunities for such preparation as is offered by the Alliance Junior Normal.
