ACCOUNTANTS and BOOKKEEPERS.

Ambitious men who recognize the tremendous shortage of technically-trained executives during the stress of the reconstruction period following the war, and who have some accounting ability, will welcome the information that a prominent organization of certified public accountants has made available a scientifically simple and intensely interesting home study training. Qualified accountants need not fear after-the-war competition because the shortage of expert cost, executive and public accountants is so marked that employers cannot find enough of them even at $2,500 to $10,000 salaries. Accepted candidates guaranteed satisfaction. In replying, give in confidence experience and previous training. Address J. B. Tanner, C. P. A., Suite 604, Grant Park Bldg., Chicago.
