ATTRACTIONS.

CRAWFORD TRI-STATE FAIR, SEPTEMBER 18-19-20.

Crawford is itself again. With the cessation of war activities and the lifting of the bans of "saving," Crawford again blossoms forth and hopes to reinstate itself as the real and only entertainment center of the Great Northwest. Up to and preceding the days of war and saving, Crawford was known throughout the western states as being the Great Show Center. For the past couple of years, owing to the unsettled condition and the fact that it was a generally conceded desire to cut down expenses and put in all the money we could into Liberty Bonds and Thrift Stamps, etc., etc., with which to back up our government in its hour of need, we cut out our shows and all our gala days and got right down to the real serious business of life. However, those days are now over and we hope to never come again and, "Crawford is itself again"—on September 18, 19 and 20, the city of Crawford will give one of its old time and original Tri-State fairs. In the old days we had thousands and thousands with us to enjoy our races, our freak stunts, our wild west show and we hope that 1919 will again see that same old crowd with many new ones. Omaha, Lincoln, Sioux City and other eastern centers of population contributed grandly to our throng. We hope to see the same old gang with us again this year.

We have prepared a program and are hanging up purses that will invite the best horses of the country. Crawford never does anything by halves, but usually plays up to about 150 per cent. The following program will give you an idea, in part, though this program is only a part of what we are really going to have.

It is a well known fact that Crawford has the finest 137-acre park to be found in any of the western states. With its beautiful stream, shaded nooks, its scenic grandeur, its swimming pools, its play ground and its exhibit halls, stock exhibition pens, its excellent racing course, racing stables and spacious amphitheaters, it is perfectly adequate to take care of thousands as we did in the old days of 1907 to 1914 and 1915, during which years we were honored by the attendance of both state and national notables who mingled with the crowd of thousands and thousands who were with use for our three and four-day spreas.

During these "spreas" the "Keys of Crawford" are turned over to every visitor. Everyone forgets everything else but having a good time. We have horse racing, the best in the west, for those who like that; we have broncho busting, steer riding, roping and bull dogging, for those who like that; we have the old Roman chariot races, the old Roman hippodrome races, ladies' and men's relay, ladies' and men's long distance races, for those who like that kind of stuff; we have thoroughbred live stock here brought in from Wyoming, South Dakota and Colorado, to compete with our home raised, good old Nebraska products. We have soil products, poultry showings, the fancy swine showings, artcraft, needle work, paintings, etc., etc., coupled with the regular old style pumpkin show—in fact, everything that mind can possibly conjure. Our fair is not a common county fair but a representation of three states, South Dakota, Wyoming and Nebraska, that is why we are called "The Tri-State."

The following skeletonized program will give you an idea of our races and our purses. This space costs us for every line so we are not putting in the incidental small side issue stunts, of which we have scores and scores.

A special invitation is extended to the stock commission firm of South Omaha, Sioux City, Denver and Kansas City to have representatives with us to meet the hundreds of stock men who assist us in pulling off our annual spree. No better chance in the world to meet and become acquainted with all the stock growers of the Great Northwest than at our Tri-State Fair.

Every politician of the state who has the least hope of being re-elected to office or elected to new office, must not fail to be in attendance all three of our days for his absence will spell his defeat.

Every newspaper of general circulation throughout the west should make it a special point to have their representatives at our fair if they mean to continue a healthy circulation throughout the northwest territory.

Wholesale and retail houses with accounts throughout northwest Nebraska, eastern Wyoming and southwest South Dakota, should by all means, have from one to several representatives here to meet and hob-nob with their many patrons who will be present.

We want 10,000 people in attendance. Don't come expecting "rooms with bath"—we haven't that many in town; don't come expecting to put in your time sleeping (you can rest up after you get home); don't come expecting to be both wined and dined (Crawford is semi-dry). Come prepared to be on the job day and night, we never sleep in Crawford during one of our spreas; come with the intention of having a deuce of a good time and that you help to see that everyone else has a jolly good time and you will return home with the conviction that Crawford is again back in line with its old reputation of being the ENTERTAINMENT CENTER OF THE GREAT NORTHWEST.

Cordially yours,
CRAWFORD TRI-STATE FAIR ASSN.,
ARAH L. HUNGERFORD, President.
W. O. BARNES, Secretary.
