Market and Industrial News of the Day

LIVE STOCK

Price of Hogs On South Side Market Drops to About $16

Hogs continued to drop on the Omaha live stock market Friday with demand sluggish and most animals brought about $16. A drop of 50 to 75 cents a 100 pounds was recorded with the close $1 under Friday. The best offerings, that brought $22.80 a month ago, sold for $17.05, the top price for Friday.

Hogs sold at around $20.50 at Saturday's close. Since then drops in price of $1 or more have been recorded daily. The $15 level is expected to be reached soon. Agitation against the high cost of living and lack of eastern demand are given as the reasons for the slump by commission men.

Cattle—There was the usual Friday's moderate run of cattle here today, early estimates calling for 2,400 head. Trade was very slow on all classes. Western beef and butcher stock showed a somewhat easier tendency and being very hard to move at any price. Feeders were in light supply and anything decent was picked up in good season at about steady prices.

Sheep—Today's receipts of sheep and lambs were much heavier than dealers expected, fully 20,900 head showing up. Several thousand head of killing sheep and lambs were held over from yesterday, making the supplies in excess of the demand. Trade was slow to lower from the start on all classes. Fat lambs had to sell at prices 25@50c lower than yesterday. Fat sheep reflected practically the same declines. Feeder lambs ruled nearly steady with yesterday's close, off 50@75c lower than yesterday's early trade. Good killing lambs changed hands around $14.50, with choice kinds claiming a limit of $14.75@15.00. Toppy ewes brought $8.00, with bulk of the fair to good grades selling at $6.25@7.25. Wethers are not wanted above $9.00. One string of desirable feeder lambs brought $14.50 this morning, with a spread of $13.50@14.00 taking the bulk.
